THE MARKETS

Cheese.—The Montreal Gazette reports that the cheese market on spot is a purely nominal one. About 10¢ still remains the id-a-of value.

Butter.—Butter continues easy under free receipts and 18¢ and 18½¢ is an extreme basis for jobbing business on spot. Exporters have not done much as yet in the early spring make of creamery.

Eggs.—There was no change in the situation of the egg market. The demand was fair and prices ruled about steady at 8¢ to 8½¢ per dozen.

Potatoes.—There is a fair local demand for potatoes of which the supply is somewhat short. The price is up to 30 to 32 cents per bushel in the Charlottetown market.

Oats.—There is nothing doing in oats for the provinces, and free corn from the States is calculated to still further reduce prices. Our merchants have to resort to the British markets. A steamer will load oats for Carvell Brothers next week.

OBITUARY.

It is with deep regret we have to record the death of Artemas G. McKinnon, who died suddenly at Boston, Mass., on April 17th. He left home a little over a year ago for the United States, and during his stay there made many warm friends, who mourn his sad demise. He was 23 years of age, and eldest son of Malcolm McKinnon (machine agent), of Rocky Point. He leaves a sorrowing father and mother, six sisters and five brothers to mourn the loss of a kind and loving brother and a devoted son. He was highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance, and his death is much and deservedly regretted by all his relatives and friends. His remains were brought home on the Stanley on Saturday last and interred at Highfield cemetery on the following day (Sunday) at 1.30 p. m. Rev. Mr. Fullerton conducted the funeral services.

CARD OF THANKS.—I desire, through THE EXAMINER, to tender my sincere thanks to all my friends who were so kind to me during the time I was confined to the house, suffering from the loss of my arm. Also to the medical men who performed the amputation so successfully.—Jesse Crossman, Crapaud, April 28.

Gloom

Of ill health, despondency and despair, gives way to the sunshine of hope, happiness and health, upon taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it gives renewed life and vitality to the blood, and through that imparts nerve strength, vigor and energy to the whole body. Read this letter: "Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me wonderfully, changed sickness to health, gloom to sunshine. No pen can describe what I suffered. I was deathly sick, had sick headaches every few days and those terrible tired, despondent feelings, with heart troubles so that I could not go up and down stairs without clasping my hand over my heart and resting. In fact, it would almost take my breath away. I suffered so I did not care to live, yet I had much to live for. There is no pleasure in life if deprived of health, for life becomes a burden. Hood's Sarsaparilla does far more than advertised. After taking one bottle, it is sufficient to recommend itself." Mrs. J. E. SMITH, Beloit, Iowa.

Sunshine

THE CURE FOR LOVE.

Said I to a heedless youth
When a hopeless love befell me,
"Give me balm for wee and ruth,
And the cure for love pray tell me."
"Love is cured by love," sighed he,
"Would that mine were kind to me!"
"Tell me, then," I asked a swain
Happy in a fair bride's glances,
"What will heal my sad heart's pain,
Pierced by Cupid's flying lances?"
"Can love, then, be cured?" cried he,
"Would that mine may never be!"
"Tell me, sir, the cure for love,"
Said I to an old man dying,
"Fain would I your simples prove."
Faintly smiled he while replying:
"Death has no cure for love," said he,
"Would that mine may follow me!"
—J. L. Heaton in "The Quilting Bee."

She Guessed It.

"Darling," he said, falling upon his knees before her and covering her little white hands with kisses, "darling, can't you see—can't you guess that I love you?"

She drew herself up to her full height, looked at him for a moment and then said, "Well, I should hate to think that this was just your natural way of behaving in company!"—Cleveland Leader.

Why News Was Scarce.

The editor of the Ohio village paper thrust his head out of his sanctum window and looked up and down the street.

Then he sat down at his table and wrote as follows:

"Our city is very quiet. All our prominent citizens Sundayed in Washington this week."—Chicago Tribune.

An Oversight.

"It was careless," mused the advertising manager in a melancholy tone.

"To what do you refer?"

"The manner in which they put that prima donna's indorsement of our cure for a cold on the same page with the announcement that she has a sore throat and cannot sing."—Washington Star.

Not So Deep.

A country minister, talking to an old lady about his son who had emigrated, was very pathetic over the dangers of the deep.

"Hoot, minister," quoth Janet, "ye needna haver sac muckle about it. It'll nae be sue awfu' deep. It's been an unco' dry year."—Tit-Bits.

His Hands Would Be Dumb.

"Can you keep a secret?" asked the first deaf mute.

"Sure," was the reply of the other unfortunate. "Tell me, and my fingers will never so much as breathe a word of it to a living soul."—New York Sunday Journal.

A Mean Man.

She—Well, dearie, I promised to make a mince pie for you, and now I have done so.

He—Yes. Rather paradoxical. You kept your promise, but did not make it good.—Indianapolis Journal.

His Preference.

Miss Rosebud (to her brother)—What do you think is the best color for a bride, Jack?

Jack—Well, I don't know much about it, but for myself I should prefer a white one.—Tit-Bits.

On the Ocean.

GIVING UP IN LENT.

—New York World.

Had a Right to Talk.

"Edwin, dearest, why did you talk in your sleep last night?"

"Oh, I dreamed I wasn't married."—Chicago Journal.

At a Nihilist Meeting.

President Garosky—We have not seen you lately, Brother Ragovitch. Have you been taking a vacation?

Ragovitch—Not exactly, though I had a knocking.

Every bomb in the room thereupon explodes with deafening report.—Twinkles.

A Question of Priority.

Simonsbee—I have a chance to marry two girls. One is pretty, but a mere butterfly, as it were, and the other, though plain, is an excellent house-keeper.

Mr. Russell of Chicago—Take the pretty one first.—Indianapolis Journal.

Women and Gotham Restaurants.

Most of the respectable restaurants in New York refuse to serve meals to women who enter them unaccompanied by male escorts late in the evening, and the proprietors say that they must enforce this rule in self defense, even though great injustice is done occasionally. One of the women lawyers in this city had a mortifying experience one evening a week ago because of her ignorance of such a rule, and she has brought a $5,000 damage suit against the proprietor of the restaurant that will test his right to enforce the rule. The woman, accompanied by her daughter, left a friend's house a little after 9 o'clock in the evening to go home. It was raining hard, and the two women went into a Harlem restaurant to order a cab. They seated themselves at a table in the dining room, and, thinking it would be better to order supper before asking the proprietor to summon a cab, they called a waiter. He told them that women without male escorts could not be served in that restaurant after 9:30. The waiter added that they must leave the restaurant.

Both women were indignant, and they appealed to the proprietor, but he refused to discriminate in their case. He said that the rule applying to unescorted women must be enforced in his restaurant. The application of the rule in this case was an injustice, but the restaurant men say that they cannot discriminate. Two years ago the proprietor of an all night restaurant frequented late in the evening by women who are accustomed to going out after dark unescorted found that in self protection he must enforce some such rule. Many of the women who went to this restaurant were actresses and chorus girls employed in neighboring theaters, and it would be unjust to exclude them. The proprietor decided that women without escorts should not be admitted after 1 o'clock, and they were not. There probably is not a respectable restaurant in New York where a woman without an escort is served with supper late in the evening.—New York Post.

THE FIRST DIRECTORY.

Some Quaint Olden Time New York Business and Social Addresses.

In the first directory of New York city, which was issued in 1786, there are some peculiar and quaint entries. For instance, in those days it was not uncommon for medical practitioners to sell drugs, as is shown by the following address, "Samuel J. Redhurst, physician and apothecary, 64 Queen (now Pearl) street."

Clergymen of that period were exceedingly precise regarding their titles. Thus, "Abraham Bache, reverend of the Church of England, 29 Smith street," and "Jozef Phelan, clergyman of the Church of Rome, 1 Beekman street."

Leon Rogers, tailor, of 55 Broadway, was described as a "breeches maker;" John Bean, 60 Broadway, as "surgeon and tooth puller;" S. Crygier, 66 Cherry street, "punch and porter house;" Jo Deleplanc of 132 Queen street, "Quaker speaker;" D. Hitchcock, 89 Queen street, "house carpenter and undertaker;" John Hogland, 95 Queen street, "fiddler, etc.;" Henry H. Kip, 25 King street, "inspector of pot and pearl ashes;" John Nitche, 7 Garden street, "starch and hair powder maker;" Samuel B. Webb, 29 Lower Dock street, "gentleman."

In those days, too, there were a great many "gentlewomen" and a few "wash-women." All teachers were then addressed either as "schoolmasters" or "schoolmistresses." The retail dealers on Broadway and Wall and Queen streets called themselves "shopkeepers," the hotel men were "tavern keepers," and the policemen were "watchmen."—New York Post.

Where She Couldn't Go.

The spinster on the platform grew more vehement. She drank two glasses of water from the big white pitcher and pounded the table until the display of glass and crockery ware leaped again.

"I thank heaven," she cried, "that I am free from all matrimonial chains! What use have I for a husband? I want neither a slave nor a tyrant. I am free—free as air. I can go and come as I please. No door is shut to me; no assembly bars me out. Is there a solitary gathering to which I may not have free and unrestrained access?"

"Yes," cried a shrill voice in the rear of the hall.

"And what is it?" sternly demanded the spinster.

"The convention of mothers!" shrieked the voice.

Then the orator turned pale and went and sat down.—Washington Star.

Keeping His Chords in Tune.

"I saw that German tenor drink about two gallons of beer last night."

"Nothing strange about that," replied the manager. "He is determined that his voice shall not lose its rich liquid quality."—Detroit Free Press.

In winter when you see the wild geese flying south, according to New England weather lore, expect cold weather. They fly south because the ponds to the north are frozen over. When the geese are seen flying north, warm weather is to be expected.
