

THE DAILY EXAMINER. JULY 15, 1881.

The Canadian Bankruptcy Law.

As before reported, a deputation representing the leading wholesale houses in London engaged in the Canadian trade, and accompanied by two gentlemen from the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, recently waited upon Sir John A. Macdonald, to represent:

1. That since the repeal of the Insolvent Act of 1875 it has become impossible for creditors to ascertain their real position and powers with regard to insolvent debtors, having been unable to give authoritative advice upon the subject, owing to the confused state of the law, differing as it does in different Provinces.

Sir John A. Macdonald, in reply, pointed out that, in addition to the great and essential difficulties of the subject of bankruptcy, there were special difficulties arising from the concurrent powers of the Dominion and Provincial Legislatures. He said that he himself had voted for the continuance of the Act of 1875; but there was too strong a feeling against it in the Canadian Parliament; for it was considered that the facility of discharge under it was demoralizing the traders of the country.

"Prince Edward Island papers object to the son of a judge practising at the bar before his father. If there is anything in the objection, no man whose son is a lawyer should become a judge, and no lawyer whose father is a judge should follow his profession. No judge in Canada will favour a litigant simply because the litigant is his son's client."

This is the opinion of the Toronto Mail. From the ipsa dixit of the Mail we venture to say that a very large proportion of the people of this Province differ. The Mail, we think, will admit that THE EXAMINER represents pretty truly the public opinion of P. E. Island; and it will hardly question our statement that the long continued practice of sons before their fathers, and brothers before their brothers, has, at least to some extent, impaired the confidence, which people generally, who live under British rule, have in courts of law and justice.

Our accomplished contemporary does not, we think, in this matter, do justice to its reputation for correct and vigorous reasoning. Suppose the objection to be well taken, why should the son of a Judge not practice at the bar? Must he necessarily plead to his own father? Is there not scope and vent enough in other courts or before other judges, for all the ability and eloquence he may possess? Or why should a Judge, necessarily remain on the Bench when his son appears at the bar? Is there in this wide Dominion so little room, that the son and the father must necessarily be engaged as Counsel and Judge in the same case? Will the Mail venture the statement, that Judge Henry, of the Supreme Bench, set a bad or wrong precedent when he withdrew from the hearing of a case in which his son was engaged as Counsel?

Some of the New Brunswick papers say that THE EXAMINER is wrong in stating that the practice is not usual, because two of the Judges of New Brunswick sit and bear the pleadings of their own offspring. With due regard to the very natural feeling which some people have that they themselves in their own Province comprise the major part of the Universe, we must say that the contention of these New Brunswickers is slightly ridiculous. Let them show us that it is usual in England for sons to plead to their fathers—in the Court; let them show that it is prevalent in Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Australia, New Zealand or generally throughout the Queen's Dominions,—then we shall withdraw our statement that it is "not usual." Not till then. An exception does not show that the rule is generally disregarded.

It appears that, as in this Province so in New Brunswick, two Judges are implicated in this unusual (and as we think) bad practice. An exchange, such as we have several times suggested, could therefore easily be made, and the objection removed.

The Governor-General's party during his tour through the North West will number sixty persons, including journalists and artists.

Fatal Drowning Accident.

We regret to report the death, at Rustico, yesterday, by drowning, of Mr. Bartholomew McInnis. Mr. McInnis, was captain of a fishing boat belonging to Donald McKay, Esq., M. P. P. The boat left Oyster Bed Bridge for McKay's stage near the entrance of Rustico Harbor, a distance of four miles. They arrived within a quarter mile of their destination, when the boat was struck by a heavy squall and upset. McInnis and two of the men along with him clung to the boat, and a French boy named Parson, struck out and swam to shore, a distance of fifty yards. McInnis, seeing the boy landed safely, attempted to follow him, but when he reached half the distance, he in the attempt to relieve himself of the weight of his heavy boots, sank to the bottom. A number of fishing boats sailed out from the different stages, and saved the men on the boat, and afterwards grappled for the body of McInnis, which was found about five o'clock in four feet of water. The deceased was an unmarried man of about 28 years of age. He belonged to Hope River.

The Fifth Avenue Company.

A good play by a good company was presented last evening at the Academy of Music, and witnessed by a large and appreciative audience. "The Banker's Daughter" is a society drama, and the interest of it was attested by the unwavering attention of the audience. Mr. James Harrison as John Strebelow, a character of reserved force to which he did full justice. His admirable voice rendered the quietness of his manner in the most exciting scenes particularly impressive. Miss Mattie Earle as the heroine "Lillian," played in the most conscientious manner, and gave evidence of great talent and considerable power. Her part is unquestionably a very difficult one, and she does wonderfully well in it. Her delicate and girlish beauty and lady-like action, certainly would command the good wishes of all. Mr. W. A. Whitson made a fine impression in the part of Count de Corajie, which he played in a thoroughly natural manner. Mr. W. H. Lytell as "Phippus," was excellent, and kept the audience in a continuous roar of laughter. Miss Blanche Mortimore, as Mrs. Brown, was captivating and immediately won the audience. The fact that Mrs. Brown's appearance on the death scene of "Routledge" was greeted by a perceptible laugh before she said a word, was a compliment to her at the expense of both the remaining actors and the play. Miss R. Graham was good as Mrs. Holcomb, and little Georgie Snyder—a mere child—as Natalie, was excellent. In fact the whole company deserve praise for their excellent acting, as do the ladies also for their gorgeous wardrobe, and the gentlemen for their neat attire. This evening the Governor will be produced, and we know it will be witnessed by a crowded house. To-morrow afternoon a matinee will be given.

Canada Pacific Railway.

It is understood that Messrs. Smith, Angus, Stephens, and McIntyre intend next month inspecting the route of the Canada Pacific railway between Lake Nipissing and Thunder Bay. It is said to be their intention to go over the route principally on foot, in order that they may become intimately acquainted by personal observation with all the features of the country through which the road is to pass. It is also said that the Pacific railway syndicate has definitely decided to abandon the route via the Yellowhead pass, and to adopt a line running through some pass near the boundary line, if a practicable one can be discovered. If not, they will adopt the Howe pass route. The syndicate engineers are now engaged in searching for a pass on the boundary line.

Locating the Bullet.

A Washington special says:—The dressing of the wound of the President to-day was attended by no unfavorable symptoms. A careful exploration was made of the entire trunk, to verify if possible the indication spoken of by Dr. Bliss yesterday as to the location of the ball. On the whole the suspicion was confirmed that the ball passed entirely through the liver and is now in the anterior wall of the abdomen. Dr. Reynburn agrees with Dr. Bliss. He says:—"The suspicions hitherto entertained of the course of the ball have been greatly strengthened. If in the anterior wall of the abdomen it is not likely to give them any trouble at present, and no effort could be made to extract it until it becomes necessary, or the patient has recovered sufficient to undergo the operation without danger. The President's body is just now pretty sore from head to toes. His feet and legs pain him, and his back feels as if broken in two. While the abdomen is tender he would probably fail to detect just now the exact spot of soreness due to the bullet; at least it would not do to depend upon such a feeling. I expect to be able to say when a week is gone that the patient is absolutely out of danger." The yellow tinge has almost disappeared from the President's face.

A Faction Fight in Mid-ocean.

TERRIBLE RIOT ON A COOLIE SHIP—CARBOLIC ACID AS A DESSERT.

The ship "Aon Boynton" has arrived at Portland, 34 days from Hong-Kong, with 350 Chinese. On June 15th a riot broke out because the Chinese cooks favored one gang of coolies more than another. The parties were about equally divided, and were armed with cordwood sticks, cast-iron bars, and belaying pins, with which they fought desperately up and down the ship, receiving terrible wounds about the head and body. Fearing for the safety of the ship and finding pistol threats of no avail, Capt. Nason and the crew began throwing carbolic acid among the infuriated Chinese, which soon brought them to their senses. Capt. Nason justifies his course from the fact that it was impossible to quiet the terrible riot in mid-ocean and save the ship and the lives of himself and crew in any other way. Had he killed the ring-leaders the Chinese would have been enraged beyond all hope of control. Marks of the severity of the struggle between the two gangs, one hundred and fifty on each side, are plainly visible all over the ship, as are the marks made by the carbolic acid.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

EUROPE AND THE EAST.

LONDON, July 13. Lefroy's friends and relatives have decided that a solicitor shall undertake his defence. The solicitor's clerk interviewed Lefroy, who stated that he was entirely innocent. He gave the clerk a narrative of what had occurred on the train, revealing some new circumstances which throw a different light on the prisoner's conduct. A London pawnbroker has identified Lefroy as the man who recently redeemed the pistol from pledge.

LONDON, July 13. The Daily News says William Shaw, (Home Ruler) member of Parliament, has declined the Premier's offer of a seat on the Land Commission on the ground that he has not the necessary time at his disposal.

DUBLIN, July 13. The assertions of the leaders of the League that the Orangemen have largely adopted the principles of the League were not corroborated by any testimony supplied by yesterday's demonstrations. On the contrary, not for years past have Orange meetings been so largely attended as at present.

UNITED STATES.

DAYTON, Ohio, July 13. Out of one hundred cases of stroke nearly thirty have proved fatal.

NEW YORK, July 13. The United States and Brazil Steamship Co. dissolved yesterday; liabilities $200,000; assets $287.

ALBANY, July 13. Senator McCarthy, of the Senate Census Committee, this morning sent a reply to the Assembly Census Committee, declining to join them in a call for a caucus, referring to his former letter for reasons.

CINCINNATI, July 13. The tunnel on the Cincinnati & Northern railroad, under Crown Street, Walnut Hill, about two miles from Central Park City, fell in at 10.30, to-night, on a party of 30 workmen. An effort is being made to extricate them. It is not yet known what their condition is.

The weather moderated slightly to-day, but there has been fully as many prostrations to-day as yesterday, while the fatal cases are quite as numerous. The total number of burial permits issued to-day was 96, more than half of these being the result of excessive heat. This mortality has never been exceeded, except during the cholera in 1866. Business generally is much restricted.

MADRID, July 13. The Government has decided to reinforce the garrisons at Ouesta, Merilla, and other stations on the coast of Morocco. South Rustico Notes.

We are happy to see your prompt and welcome journal enlarged, and possessing such an animated appearance.

There is quite a rush for the Seaside Hotel at present. We trust the Editor of THE EXAMINER will soon pay a visit to this pleasant summer resort.

The crops are looking remarkably well, especially the hay crop, which has the appearance at present of surpassing that of last year. Some farmers are already making preparations to secure this luxuriant yield of hay.

A lottery for an organ came off on the 24th ult. This organ was formerly used in the Roman Catholic Church here, but a more suitable one is now procured. Upwards of five hundred tickets were sold, which realized the handsome sum of $100. One Mr. Gallant was the fortunate winner.

Notwithstanding the poor inducements regarding mackerel fishing, there is a lively interest in preparing Rustico mackerel fleet which decorates our harbor as usual.

A barrel factory has also been started at the harbor which is expected to turn out about 10,000 barrels this season.

Several fishermen have been disappointed in the gill net, which has proved a failure here.

South Rustico, July 11, 1881.

According to the New York "Nation," the rise of a self-made man in American life is not a hardening process, as it is in many other countries. He encounters very little of the embittering indifference patient merit, of the insulence of office, and of the hindering malice and envy, through which the ambitious youth, who seeks eminence from humble beginnings, has to fight his way in the Old World. On the contrary, at nearly every mile of the road he finds a helping hand and an encouraging word. This sweetens rather than sours the temper, and if it have any injurious effect at all it lies in making an easy temper too easy, and in increasing the difficulty which probably every high officer finds the greatest difficulty in the successful discharge of executive duties in a democratic country—the difficulty of saying No. Gen. Garfield's fault as an executive officer, and most of his troubles, have arisen out of this shrinking from refusal. But it is the fault of a man to whom the world has been kind and helpful, to whom friends come easily, whom every one likes, and who sees life on that large scale without which, as has been well said, it is not possible to be either hopeful or happy.

On the Sunday after President Garfield was shot, Archbishop Ryan, of St. Louis, spoke in the pulpit of the Roman Catholic Cathedral as follows: "Especially here, it seems to me, we should have reverence for our rulers—here where the church is so free—in fact there is no country in the world where large freedom is allowed the Church, no country where she has greater hope than in America. This freedom which our country guarantees us should make us love its institutions and desire the permanence of the Church."

Mr. Bradlaugh's Demonstration.

Mr. Bradlaugh has invited his supporters to meet in Trafalgar Square on the 2nd of August, for the purpose of insisting that the law enabling him take his seat in the Commons be carried out. He has also announced his intention to assert his rights as a member of Parliament at the bar of the House on that day.
