ELLEN'S DIARY

Family Sitting Room Is Haven In Thunderstorms

"The air is cool", we commented following James from the old bed with some reluctance just past daybreak this morning. "We might expect that" he said briskly, "after last evening's thunder. Fairly sharp that storm was" he reflected.

Sharp as we measure such it was indeed. Lightning split momentarily the dark southern sky. Thunder rumbled like we fancied the crashing of great trees of the forest when they fall to a hurricane. At times our lights flickered, the telephone bell jingled eerily, touched by its force.

"Better light a lamp, Ellen, in the event we are suddenly left in darkness" James had advised at the outset, coming in from closing doors of barns and buildings about. Indoors, we too had shut doors and windows, withdrawn electrical cords from this and that convenience of kitchen and room. And then in accord with the poet's ideal of marriage:

"Two minds with but a single thought
Two hearts that beat as one"
We repaired to the sitting room, there to await the welcome signs of the clearing. Ever since James was a child, it has been a custom of this household if about, to forgo in this old room to pass these the interval of such a storm.

"I can't say why it is" James offered with a smile, bringing a bit of reading to a couch "but no matter where I am, when I see a thunderhead gathering, I always wish to be in this room. It gives me a comfortable feeling—if one can be comfortable in a thunder storm!"

"It's like the time" we chuckled, "we overheard the woman coming out of church, complimenting the minister on his sermon. I enjoyed it so much. He looked at her solemnly. 'Sister, sermons aren't meant to be enjoyed' he said."

"Just to watch the fury of an electrical storm is to know how puny man is—no matter if he

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD BENNETT PUBLICOVER

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Young Couple

St. James' Church, Georgetown, was the scene of a very pretty summer wedding on Wednesday, August 26, 1959, when Margaret Theresa Joan, only daughter of Mrs. Herbert N. Murphy and the late Mr. Murphy, Georgetown, became the bride of Harold Bennett Publicover, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Publicover, Georgetown.

The double ring ceremony and Nuptial Mass was celebrated by Rev. Owen Kiggins, Parish Priest, assisted by Messrs. Joseph and Herbert Murphy, brothers of the bride, as acolytes.

The St. James Girls Choir, accompanied by organist, Miss Jamie Batchelder, sang several beautiful hymns during the ceremony, and signing of the register. The Church was beautifully decorated with baskets of pastel gladioli.

Mr. Gerald F. Murphy, brother of the bride, was best man. The guests were ushered by Pie. John C. Publicover, brother of the groom, and Mr. Frank Rause, friend of the groom, to news marked with white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Leo Fay of Newport, was radiant in her half-length gown of Angeli lace over peau de soie, with scalloped pouff skirt. It featured a fitted bodice with scalloped sabrina neckline, sprinkled with sequins and seed pearls, and long fitted sleeves. A circular chapel veil of tulle illusion caught by a tiara of sequins completed her bridal attire. She carried a tumbling bouquet of red roses adorned with white satin streamers trimmed with sweetheart buds.

Miss Bernice DeLory, friend of the bride, was bridesmaid. Her gown was of orange-ice chiffon over taffeta with a draped cummerbund drifting to two large streamers which topped the half-length bouffant skirt. She wore a matching headdress and mits and carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Little Miss Ariens Condon, cousin of the bride was the very handsome flower-girl in her short rock of Shadow-green Vervet over white nylon. She wore matching bandeau and mits and carried a tiny nosegay of yellow and white carnations.

Mrs. Murphy chose for her daughter's wedding a shantung dress of forest-vert with matching black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Publicover, mother of the groom, wore a sheer dress of yellow nylon with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for ninety guests was held at the Queen Hotel, Charlottetown, where Mr. J. Waldron Lavers, friend of the newlyweds, capably acted as toastmaster, while Miss Peggy Johnson was in charge of the guest book. The toast to the bride was proposed by the best man, Mr. Gerald F. Murphy, and responded to by the groom. The brides table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake adorned with miniature love-birds. Decorations were gladioli.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Publicover left on a honeymoon motor trip to Boston, Niagara Falls and Toronto. For traveling the bride chose a sky-blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

On their return the young couple will reside in Georgetown where the groom is engaged in a trucking and fishing business and the bride is a member of the teaching staff of Georgetown High School.

Prior to the wedding the bride was entertained at a shower at the home of Miss Peggy Johnson where she received many useful and valuable gifts.

ALEXANDRA W. L.

The September meeting of the Alexandra W.L. was held at the home of Mrs. Aubrey Gamble. The Mary Stewart collect was repeated and nine members answered roll call.

The minutes were read and reports were given by the different committees. Mrs. Bashuis gave a report on the annual committee. It was decided to entertain Pownal W. I. at a corn boil.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harold and Mrs. Owen Beaton. Roll call to be answered by each member passing in a teaspoon, and a bottle of pickles. Lunch committee to be Mrs. Glendon Brehaut, Mrs. Fred Poind and Mrs. Joan Kornphuis.

A contest was put on by Mrs. Glendon Brehaut and won by Mrs. George MacLennan. Meeting adjourned and lunch was served.
