Israel Nation Is Challenged

IDFNA, Egypt (Reuters) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser challenged Israel again Tuesday to a "decisive battle" and declared that the United Arab Republic will "never accept the crime of Palestine."

Nasser repeated his statement, issued Sunday at Alexandria, that "we are all waiting for our decisive battle to take revenge for what happened in 1948" when the modern state of Israel was carved out of Palestine.

Nasser spoke for two hours at a land distribution ceremony at Idina, lower Egypt, tracing in detail the course of hostilities in the fall of 1956 when Israel invaded Egypt's Sinai Desert and Britain and France followed up with an attack on the Suez Canal zone.

Nasser said that in 1956 Israel was unable to occupy any Egyptian positions in the Sinai until Egyptian troops were ordered to withdraw and meet the Anglo-French attack.

Prisoners taken by Israel were soldiers and national guards in the Gaza strip, who were ordered not to fight in order to spare the civilians," he said.

Sizzling

(Continued from page 1) they began their tour in the Atlantic Provinces—June 18. The Prince's eyebrows were burned a bright blond and his nose was also burned with the sun.

The Queen's usual peaches and cream complexion was toned a soft tan, which blended with the pink outfit she wore. Her white hat and pearl ear rings and necklace were in sharp contrast to her summer coloring.

Reporters had noticed she looked tired at Port Hope, Ont., but the two-day rest there she appeared fresh and happy when she alighted from the plane, even though hit by a blast of warm and humid air. She continued to look crisp and rested on the drive to the Legislative building. The Black Watch pipe and brass band was in attendance at the airport, where several thousand persons in bright and light summer dress had gathered to cheer and wave the arrival.

CHEERING THRONGS

The seven miles to Fredericton were also lined with cheering and flag-waving people observing a special holiday in honor of the Queen. Her arrival in Fredericton was greeted with the crash and peal of the Anglican cathedral bells.

The motorcade drew up in front of the gaily decorated Legislative building where Premier Hugh John Fleming expressed the "fervent hope that the ties which bind the people of Your Majesty's Commonwealth may remain strong and enduring for the sake of peace and justice in

Minor Blaze Is Squelched

The Queen had donned a light outside coat and was now in a white-spotted pink organza full-skirted dress. She stood forward looking cool and summery to give her brief reply, saying she shared New Brunswick's pride in its great heritage and trusted "that the future may bring ever-increasing prosperity and happiness to its people."

The premier briefly referred to the Queen Elizabeth scholarships announced earlier Tuesday in commemoration of the Royal Visit. Educational scholarships will be awarded annually by the province to 10 outstanding graduates of New Brunswick Teachers' College, equally divided among English-speaking and French-speaking students. The scholarships, starting next June, will be payable at $500 a year for the first and second year of studies leading to a degree in the teaching profession at a New Brunswick university.

At this point in the program the parliamentary lawns were crowded with thousands, all happily waving and cheering each pause in the Queen's reply.

A minor fire in the Proude Building on Great George Street had city firemen out at noon yesterday. The blaze originated on the north side of the structure on the outside indicating that a cigarette might have been thrown in between the wall and sill. Some smoke and water damage was in evidence when the firemen left at 12.30.

Yesterday was the hottest day of the summer—but today is expected to be even hotter.

The meteorological station at the Charlottetown airport reports the mercury climbed to 85 degrees at 3 o'clock and was still that high an hour later.

However few people have been heard to complain about the warm weather, and as some have said, "It beats shovelling snow."
