[SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.] Heavy Fires. PITTSBURG, Nov. 11. James Colley & Co.'s tannery and houses have been destroyed by fire. Loss, $125,000. The dock and buildings at East Liberty Stock Yards were also damaged. Loss, $250,000. GALVESTON, Nov. 12. The greater part of the business portion of Bluffton was burned yesterday. The loss is great, insurance small. The fires was incendiary. KEYWEST, Nov. 12. A fire in the hold of the steamer "Spearman," which had been burning several days, has been extinguished. Fourteen hundred bales of cotton were destroyed. Meeting of Parliament. OTTAWA, Nov. 12. The Canada Gazette contains a notice that Parliament is summoned for the despatch of business on the 17th of January. The London Explosion Caused by Dynamite. LONDON, Nov. 12. The police have discovered proofs that the recent explosion on the underground railway was the work of New York dynamiters. The police hope to be able to arrest the guilty persons. Weather Bulletin. Probabilities for the next 24 hours for the Maritime Provinces. TORONTO, November 12-10 a. m. Winds shifting to west and northwest, and increasing to gales, cloudy weather with rain, followed by colder weather and snow flurries. The Petticoat Case. ARREST AND ARRANGING OF THE SUPPOSED TRAMP. At last there seems to be a prospect that the true inwardness of the mystery connected with the assault on Mrs. McCann will be brought to light. For several days constables have been on the track of a man named Daniel Mitchell, who is suspected of having committed the deed. They found no difficulty in tracing Mitchell's movements from North River through by way of Cowdale to Moncton, from which point he went to Painswick Junction, and afterwards to Memramcook, passing on to French Village where he was arrested by Mr. McCann at six o'clock on Tuesday morning at a house occupied by Mrs. Powell. When notified that he was a prisoner, which was done without ceremony, Mitchell somewhat excitedly asked what he was charged with; and when told it was for cutting Mrs. McCann's throat, he exclaimed with an oath that he had not done it, and that she had done it herself. He refused to go with McCann and resisted arrest violently, but McCann succeeded in tying his hands and getting him into the wagon, after which he took him to Moncton, being joined by Constable Chapman. On Wednesday morning the prisoner was conveyed to Petticoat, and Mrs. McCann stated that she thought he was the man. He had, however, changed his clothing and shaved off his whiskers and moustache, which greatly altered his appearance. For the first time the woman stated that the man had asked her for money and made improper advances before attempting the deed. Her identification of the prisoner was complete. The evidence was strong against him, and he was committed for trial at the next session of the County Court. N. P. Industry. PROGRESS OF THE GIBSON COTTON MILL. The St. John Telegraph reports that "Mr. Gibson is making astonishing progress with the erection of his new cotton mill at Marysville, N. B. Although the superstructure of the building was commenced but a short time ago it is now nearly completed, a large portion being already roofed in, while the brick work of the mill building proper will be finished and ready for the roof in about two weeks. It requires a visit to Marysville to gain a correct idea of the vastness of the enterprise undertaken by Mr. Gibson, and the great amount of executive ability necessary to manage such a large business. Just now the little village is a busy place, probably one of the liveliest in the Province. Between 300 and 400 persons are employed about the cotton mill, and in addition to this Mr. Gibson is making preparations to send away to the woods the usual number of men to cut 50,000,000 feet of logs. The provisions required for these men are just now being forwarded to the different camps, and Mr. Gibson's teams are to be everywhere met with along the roads leading out of the village. This business alone requires great personal attention, but Mr. Gibson somehow manages to give much of his time to the supervision of the building of the mill. About 180 masons are at present employed on the structure, and to any one approaching the mill the upper part of the wall appears to be perfectly black with men, by whose exertions the wall continues to grow visibly higher every hour. Besides the large number of bricklayers, a large number of laborers are required to keep so many men supplied with building material. To lay the floors and keep up the carpenter work, another large crew of men are required, while a dozen or more teams are engaged in hauling the lumber to and from the planing mill on the bank of the river. It is doubtful if a cotton factory was ever built to such advantage as this one. The stone for the foundations was procured close at hand and the bricks in the walls of the superstructure are obtained from clay found within 100 yards of the mill and manufactured by three machines at the rate of 70,000 a day; the lumber, excepting pitch pine, is obtained from the lumber mills of Mr. Gibson. The machinery of course will be imported. Next season Mr. Gibson intends to erect about 150 brick dwellings and two hotels for the accommodation of the mill operatives. The newest and cheapest Dress Materials are at YOUNG'S.

Talmage on Luther.

During his lecture on the events of the week, in the Brooklyn Tabernacle, last Friday evening, Talmage referred to the preparations for the approaching Luther celebrations. This week, he said, has begun the series of Martin Luther celebrations. It is 336 years since Luther nailed his protest to the church door at Wittenberg. The thump of that hammer has resounded through succeeding centuries and will continue to resound until all over the earth people may worship God in their own way without threat or hindrance. No man that ever lived did so much for the liberation of human thought or for religious freedom as Martin Luther. But the world and the church ever and anon need another iconoclast to break ecclesiastical pretension. In all religions and churches there have been those who would tyrannize over the souls of the people. There are those who suppose that the Catholic Church has had a monopoly of persecution. It is a great mistake. Cotton Mather, a Protestant minister of Boston, advocated the burning of people who were supposed to be bewitched. We want a new Martin Luther at least every fifty years to extirpate the spirit of religious tyranny. You see it ever and anon cropping up in all denominations. If the reformer be in the Methodist Church his antagonists will try to get him appointed to some insignificant station on a small salary. If he be in the Baptist Church his antagonists will try to have him expelled from the association. If he be in the Congregational Church they will call a council and will not invite him. If he be in the Presbyterian Church they will try to grind him up between the Book of Discipline and the Westminster Catechism. I am not so much opposed to one Pope, if he be a good man, as I am to these scores of little popes all over Protestantism—Methodist popes, Baptist popes, Episcopal popes, Lutheran popes, Congregational popes, Presbyterian popes—and I will say that in this country it takes less timber to make a pope than in any country in the world. But ever and anon some one rises and catches Luther's spirit, and there is another crash of consecrated humbugs. In the harness of the Church there is too much breaching strap and not enough traces. A father, whose son was addicted to some vicious propensities, bade the boy drive a nail into a certain post whenever he corrected an error. In the process of time the post was completely filled with nails. The youth became alarmed at the extent of his indiscretions, and set about reforming himself. One by one the nails were drawn out; the delighted father commended him for his noble, self-denying heroism, in freeing himself from his faults. "They are all drawn out," said the parent. The boy looked sad, and there was a whole volume of practical wisdom in his sadness. With a heavy heart he replied, "True, father; but the scars are there still." Parents who would have their children grow to sound and healthy character, must sow their seed at the fireside. Charitable associations can reform the man, and perhaps make him a useful member of society; but alas! the scars are there. The reformed drunkard, gambler, or thief is only the wreck of the man he once was; he is covered with scars—dishonorable scars, which will disfigure his character as long as he lives. An old whaler confirms the value of oil as a means of preventing heavy seas from breaking over a vessel. He relates one instance in particular where his vessel was caught in a heavy gale in the sea of Japan. An eighty-barrel whale had just been laid alongside the vessel which, despite the storm, the men proceeded to cut up. In a short time, however, owing to the escape of oily matter over the waters, instead of "combers" breaking over the vessel there was only the long swell which rolled by harmlessly. The oil had prevented the sea "combing" near the vessel. THE Halifax Presbyterian Witness estimates the population of Newfoundland as follows by religions:—Roman Catholics, 64,317; Episcopalians, 59,561; Methodists, 35,702; Presbyterians, 1,168; Congregationalists, 461; Baptists, etc., 165. ALWAYS avoid harsh purgative pills. They first make you sick and then leave you constipated. Carter's Little Liver Pills regulate the bowels and make you well. Dose one pill a dose. [no12 2w cod wkly.] A FAST 4-YEAR OLD.—Lee Morris, probably the fastest 4-year old in New Brunswick, was driven a trial by his owner in 2.47 1/2 on York Driving Park last week, which is no mean feat in his speed, as the last half of the mile was done in 1.22, and he had only been three weeks from pasture. ALL our druggists now heartily endorse the amazing success of Mack's Magneto Medicine, and recommend it for both sexes in all cases of sexual weakness. Sold in Charlottetown by Apothecaries Hall Co. See advertisement in another column. [no12 1w wkly.] THE unveiling of the Luther monument at at Eiseleben took place yesterday, the 11th of November. The Crown Prince, Prince William, the Ministers, and many high officials were present at the celebration. WINTER and wild beasts make sad work among domestic animals in Russia. Last year it is declared that from cold, snow storms, and disease, 5,550 camels, 32,000 horses, 14,000 cattle and 130,000 sheep perished, and that 70,000 cattle were killed by the wolves. If your hair is gradually thinning and fading away, use Ayer's Hair Vigor. It restores color and vitality. [no12 1w wkly.]
