SDU President Visits Senator 'Ted' Kennedy

Rt. Rev. G. A. Macdonald, president of St. Dunstan's University, recently returned from a trip which took him to Halifax, Wolfville, Ottawa, Toronto, Boston and New York.

While in Boston, Msgr. Macdonald called on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy at the New England Baptist Hospital in Roxbury, Mass.

Senator Kennedy addressed the graduates at SDU last May and received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

During his half-hour chat with Msgr. Macdonald, the senator spoke with pleasure of his visit here, expressed his elation over his recent senatorial victory and showed no signs of fatigue.

He said he expected to be back on his feet by Christmas week, but will be forced to wear a brace for about another six months.

TOURIST

wines and beer at canteens in established camping grounds. Mr. Stewart replied that liquor laws in the province had been liberalized this year and he hoped there would be further easing.

It was pointed out by a delegate that some states now charge license fees for old car bodies that are visible from public highways and asked whether or not a similar system could be started in this province. Mr. Stewart said he tried to introduce legislation along this line at the last session of the Legislature but "didn't get to first base." He said "I am going to try again at the next session."

Mr. Storey, who manages the Confederation Memorial Building, said the centre has provided new interests for Island people. He said that since the art gallery opened last June close to 100,000 people had passed through it. He said that more than 100 children are now taking art courses at the centre, as well as about 25 adults.

BUILDINGS' FUTURE

Pointing out that questions have been raised as to what will be done with the new complex outside tourist seasons, Mr. Storey said "local people are beginning to appreciate what they can do with the building." He mentioned that building officials would have been happy if they could get at least 200 persons for the local film society that recently showed its first film. He said "it was amazing but 630 memberships were sold for the society."

Mr Storey told association delegates that next summer's eight-week theatre program is now being drawn up. The main program is expected to run from July 4 to Aug. 29. He said "while such personalities as Lorne Green and Wayne and Shuster have said they would like to return to the theatre, we may not be able to afford the cost."

Speaking on tourism generally, Mr. Storey emphasized the importance of "finding what peoples' interests are and co-ordinating ourselves so that we can serve those interests."

Highways Minister Matheson said he is "enthusiastic about the tourist industry and I am in a job that is basic to the industry."

He said the federal-provincial Roads to Resources program, which called for 438 miles of highway to be paved over an eight year period at a cost of $15,000,000 is almost complete. "We have," he said, "spent about $14,750,000 and have about 70 miles to complete."

Mr. Matheson said his department's chief worry is over road signs and highway markings. He said "although we put up 7,600 signs in the past year at a cost of $125,000, we don't seem to be keeping pace with the demand."

VANDALISM COSTLY

Vandalism at Hallowe'en, said Mr. Matheson, resulted in $7,000 worth of signs being damaged. He suggested that organizations such as the tourist association could help in preventing this kind of damage.

The minister also pointed out that his department had been criticized because some parts of the Trans Canada Highway were not adequately marked with white lines. He said "people forget that it is impossible to mark highways when construction is going on and a seal coat has not been laid on the pavement."

Mrs. Burton Lewis Dies In Hospital

Mrs. Burton Lewis, 143 Euston Street, died at 6 a.m. yesterday at the Prince Edward Island Hospital. She was the wife of the executive editor of The Guardian and The Evening Patriot.

With Charlottetown as her home since 1958, she was a member of the Anglican Church, attending St. Peter's Cathedral, and of the Hillsborough Chapter of the IODE.

Mrs. Lewis was widely known in newspapering circles across Canada, in the U.S. and elsewhere abroad. Last May she figured actively, as a hostess, in arrangements for the national gathering held in Charlottetown of the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference, of which Mr. Lewis was a director.

Her earlier friendships in the field of newspapering were formed while living in four Canadian provinces (B. C., Sask., Ont. and P.E.I.) in three states (Wash., Ore., and Ida.), and in Washington, D.C., Nassau, Bahamas, and Kingston, Jamaica, when her husband served as editor of papers in these places.

Mrs. Lewis, the former Barbara Anne Wolfe, was born in England in 1903, but came to Canada at the age of three when her parents settled in the Okanagan Valley, living at Penticton and Peachland in B.C.

She spent part of her girlhood in California, but returned to B.C., where she trained as a nurse at the Vancouver General Hospital. In 1923 she married Mr. Lewis at Vancouver, B.C., and dropped her plans for a nursing career.

Surviving Mrs. Lewis, in addition to her husband, are one daughter, Joan, Mrs. E.T. Fraser, and five grandchildren: Barbara, Hugh, Bruce, Margo and Jeffrey Fraser, all of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and one brother, George W. Wolfe, of Tacoma, Wash.

The late Mrs. Lewis is resting at the MacLean Funeral Home. The funeral services will be held from there at 2:30 p.m. today when the service will be conducted by Archdeacon J. R. Davies who will also officiate at the graveside.

Interment will be in Peoples cemetery.

Lobster Value Up Third Over Last Season Here

An increase of almost one third over last year's lobster value was recorded this year by Prince Edward Island fishermen with a total value of $4,194,448 landed.

Figures released yesterday by the provincial department of fisheries showed that during the spring and fall seasons, Island lobster men caught 7,795,569 pounds.

In the 1963 season, landings were 7,576,000 pounds, with a value of $3,167,000.

Higher prices to fishermen were seen as the reason for the increase in dollar value.

An official of a Charlottetown packing plant said yesterday that "there was a tremendous increase to fishermen this year with prices ranging between 55 and 60 cents per pound."

According to the Dominion all types of fish in the Maritime Provinces for the first 10 months of 1964 amount to 708,200,000 pounds, valued at $47,800,000. Bureau of Statistics, landings of The figures for the similar period in 1963 were 636,900,000 pounds, valued at $41,300,000.

The 1961 to 1963 average landings during the first 10 months were 598,200,000 pounds, valued at $37,400,0000.

The bureau of statistics says "fishermen have landed greater quantities of fish during the first 10 months of 1964 than during the entire year of 1963. The 1964 landed value of fish in the Maritime Provinces will exceed $50,000,000 and will be a record."
