Hot Dog Vendors Picket Shibe Park

PHILADELPHIA, May 2—(AP)—Shibe Park was picketed today in a dispute between concession operators and an A.F.L. union over representation of hot dog vendors by the union. Samuel M. Volov, business manager of local 232, Delicatessen and Cafeteria Workers Union, said the picketing was started after several conferences with concession operators failed to reach an agreement on the union's claim to bargaining rights. Volov said "our fight is not with the Philadelphia Athletics or the Philadelphia Phillies." The two major league clubs use the park owned by the A's.

Dorothy Dix Says—

Occasionally to give you an evening's dancing with your husband, might be a good investment. If you think over all these points and are still convinced that you are married to a chronic philanderer, you'll either have to accept the fact and settle down to make the best of it, or separate. In other words: half a husband, or none.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am in love with a fine girl who has all the qualities I admire in a woman, but my three years at college will mean that I will be thrown with a different group of people and a different environment from my home town. I will come in contact with many girls very different from the one I love. Will I be able to remain true to her in this new atmosphere? Through your experience with youth you must have seen examples of this type of problem and I would like to know how they generally work out. CONFUSED BOY

ANSWER: I have known many cases like yours of a boy tying himself up in an engagement to a girl before starting off to college, and I have seen very few of them—almost none—that worked out satisfactorily to either the girl or the boy. Generally it brought unhappiness to both.

Occasionally, I have known a boy and girl love that was strong enough to last through their separation and the changes that came to both as they matured into men and women, but such cases are almost as rare as hens' teeth. Generally the romances have just died from lack of anything to feed on.

You see, son, your three years at college will do things to you which will to all intents and purposes change you into a different man from the one you are now. You will enter into a new environment in which you will learn new habits and customs. You will be taught to look at all life from a different angle. So when you come back home it is entirely possible that you will find that you have outgrown your sweetheart and that she no longer has the allure and charm for you that she once had.

After all, you and the girl are very young. You are at the puppy-love stage of life and you have no more idea of what you want in a wife when you grow up than you have of what sort of a hat you will want when you are a man. So my earnest advice to you is not to go off to school with any strings tied to you.

DEAR MISS DIX: We are a young married couple who want to go to housekeeping, but my father has just died, leaving only my mother and brother at home. I feel it selfish to leave them, but my mother wants me to go on about my own life. What shall I do? MRS. B. A.

ANSWER: Take your mother's advice. You have your life to live and very likely Mother will enjoy having her house alone to herself. Married daughters are not always a blessing when they live with you.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.
