To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir.—I am happy to communicate the glad feeling that appears to prevail in this locality, occasioned, as it is, from the promising crops now nearly ripe. Harvesting is, this day, commenced by many, with fine weather to begin. Our only source of annoyance is the unwarrantable course taken by your contemporary the Patriot, in daily sending forth its false—and to us unwelcome doctrine—regarding Dominion politics. That the Patriot cannot—or does not write in our interest—is now a well-known fact. And how the Editor of that paper can devote all his ability and time to Dominion affairs, to the exclusion of everything local, is becoming apparent. If the Patriot was as much the people's friend, as it affects to be, why doesn't its Editor write with a view to remedying the Asylum, and causing our harbor improvements to be done in a manner that would be of some benefit to us; and also to give us some explanation in regard to the Souris extension, etc., etc. These are matters of real interest to us.

Having a large acquaintance in this section of the country, I beg to say, from all I can learn and know personally, that the self-styled Free Trading Government and its paid journals, are soon going to reap a very short harvest. We have just parted, with much pleasure, that the people's party purpose holding a big, soul-stirring Picnic at Tracadie Harbor, next Saturday. It is a fact that Messrs. Pope and Brecken's friends are making themselves happy and joyous all throughout the country, and will, no doubt, enjoy a good time at Tracadie on Saturday, and hear such good sound legislative language as will tend to put us through harvesting, etc., with ease.

Messrs. Sinclair and McGill have made a tour through part of the country with but very little success. They called on their known friends (who are but few, indeed), only to learn that their chances are poor. And, indeed, there are some feeling men amongst us who could wish that Messrs. Sinclair and McGill would retire in time and save themselves the painful effects of being defeated, or, otherwise, bring Hon. Alex. McKenzie & Co. down here to the rescue, who might unlose the big purse strings and deal out to us a small portion of misappropriated money, such as he dealt out in the Steel Rail affair or the Neighboring Hotel & Goderich Harbor Jobs.

Hurrah for the triumphant Candidates—Pope and Brecken—the people's choice—the ablest men—their sure success on election day, and a grand hurrah for the big picnic at Tracadie on Saturday next, where I hope to meet thousands of enthusiastic electors—Free Traders in reality—not one-sided like the McKenzieites, and prepared to hear for themselves and do the right square thing viz: vote for Pope and Brecken.

Yours, &c.,

NEW LONDON.

August 14th, 1878.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir.—The following letter was picked up from the floor of one of our Post Offices last week. As it contains matter of interest, showing how despondent parties have become in this locality, I venture to request that you give it a place in the next issue of your valuable journal.

Yours truly,

CONSERVATIVE.

Old Saw Mill, Lot One, 10th Aug., 1878

My Dear Y—o:

I am disappointed at not receiving a letter from you before now. I am informed that you were up to Alberton on Tuesday last, and that you had a meeting with the officials there. How is it you did not let me know? are you becoming suspicious of me or do you want to betray me? You must not be suspicious of me as I cannot join the Conservatives now. They do not want me I acted so treacherously before when I left them and opposed H—lan. I wish I had not done so as I find to my cost that the Grits are very deceitful. You know they have been promising me all along that if I stood by you and helped you all I was able, they would pay me well. But now when they find I was so badly beaten at the Tignish meeting, when I thought I had such good support, and that my influence is gone they want to shake me off. I hope you are doing well down in your own district and that you will have a majority there wherever.

We cannot do much here. Called to King Jan's last Sunday morning to have a glass before going to church. I there met some of our leading friends around here who had called for the same purpose. Of course I had to stand treat. I am beginning to be ashamed of these fellows. They are a despicable hungry lot—not a man of influence or standing amongst them. I am getting short of money. Do you think we can get some of the secret service Fund or will our friends 'make a "big push" to help us. It is too early to draw next session's salary or I might do as I did last year, take half in advance.

But I suppose they would not do that for me now, seeing that my chances for being returned are so small. I have nothing more to say at present; but I shall hold you to "pacta conventa"—excuse the Latin, as I know you do not understand it. I cannot refrain, however, from making a learned quotation, sometimes to show that I have been to school to some purpose.

I believe you never studied much. I am always ashamed of you when you stand up to speak. You use such bad English. You devote too much of your time to learning Indian, which is not much use now, the oxen are so scarce. In conclusion I would say, "ne code malis," and remain yours "Entre deus vici."

THE MCCARTHY MURDER.

DORCHESTER, Aug. 14.

Hon. Mr. Hanington, having sufficiently recovered, is present this morning.

The first witness was A. H. Chandler, M. D., Dorchester. He graduated in Pennsylvania, studied in England, France and the United States. He was examined some two hours on professional ideas, probabilities, possibilities and theories, the position the body would occupy under water, etc.

Hon. Mr. Hanington then cross-examined the Doctor on cases of putrefaction, saying it would make a great difference in a body lying in the water all winter. Several other questions followed, but nothing particularly new or varied was elicited.

The next witness was Mrs. Annie Clark, of Point du Chene, hotel keeper, who said that Allen (the midnight visitor) was at her hotel last fall, but she did not think it was in October. He never was there after dark. He came there about 2 o'clock, p. m., and said he had come over in the boat. He left there about 3, and if he (Allen) said it was 11 in the evening, he said what was false.

To Dr. Tuck—Witness said she was a widow. She knew Allen at Baie Verte. The day he was there was wet and cold. There was no one in but she, her daughter and servant. Witness does not know how to play cards, and never saw Mrs. Brown play cards in her house. Squire Deacon, Seely, Bell and others told witness about Allen's testimony, but she can't tell just what day.

Re-examined by Mr. Palmer—Allen left his mitts at, her house, and they are there yet.

Mrs. Harriet Steeves, widow of Allen Steeves, Coverdale, was sworn. She had a conversation with Mrs. McCarthy a year ago about her husband, between Moncton Station and Paussee Junction.

Dr. Tuck objects to this, as Mrs. McCarthy had not been interrogated outside of last fall.

Mr. Palmer maintained she was, and that she denied having any conversation with the witness. His Honor referring to his notes allowed Mr. Palmer to interrogate witness on the time and place, but not the words of the conversation.

Witness then said she also conversed with McCarthy about her husband in November in front of Harris's store in Moncton. She was a neighbor to Mrs. Osborne for some time and knew her to have the name of a kind, motherly neighbor, especially in sickness. Eliza stopped with her once and was kind, industrious and honest.

To Dr. Tuck—She has a mortgage on certain property given her by Osborne.

To Mr. Palmer—He gave it without asking; she would have taken his word.

Rev. J. D. Murray, of Buctouche, testified to burying Mrs. Lucas on the 13th of October last.

Thomas Kinread, undertaker, Moncton was the next witness sworn. In getting a coat on a dead body he often had to cut the coat in the back. He then spoke of the impossibility of a boy like Harry handling a dead body over 200 lbs. weight. It would take four men to put such a body in the coffin.

Duenn Bartlet, Bathurst, sworn. He said Annie Parker threatened him as the father of her child. She was called Peltier, Peltier-Borie. When he saw her at Osborne's she told him she swore it on Ferguson and got paid.

To Dr. Tuck—The witness said his father is dead, and his name was Robert Bartlett. It was two years last winter since he saw Annie. He knew Dan White, Osborne's son-in-law. He told him what he was going to swear to. White told him to tell the truth. He guessed White got the subpoena. He worked some for White, but did not board with him.

William Warman, Shediac, was employed in rafting, and found some three dozen black hairs on a post of one of the oiler-dams under the Seadouc railway bridge, on the 20th of June. The hairs were about one and a half or two inches long, and he threw them down on the raft. He would not swear it was not dog's hair; did not see any dog there.

To Mr. Palmer—All that were with him said they were human. He told Stephen about it, who wished he had saved it.

To the Court—He never found any more there. The hair was straight, and the roots were all on.

Wm. Allan McDougall, Scotch Settlement, Moncton, sworn. He said he was in Shediac and took dinner at the Waverley on rainy Thursday; he knew it was Thursday by the mail running that day, and no other. He then produced an account of some apples and other things charged to him that day by Smith and Barnes. The item agreed with his own memorandum, and was October 11th. He was in the smoking-room at the Waverley that day, and heard the three agents engage for their board with John Osborne, who looked quite feeble.

Cross-examined—He went home the same night, and had not seen the agents since.

Mr. Palmer thinks he will be through with the defence to-morrow.

We notice a breastwork built for James Peake, Esq., across his premises, extending about one hundred and fifty feet along the shore, and returning up Kent Street about fifty feet, the whole being about twelve feet high. This piece of breastwork reflects great credit upon the builder—Mr. David Palmer—of this city, who has laid the timber so evenly, and fastened it securely with tie beams in every alternate course, the whole being fastened with iron, so that it looks like one solid piece. We would recommend the Commissioner of Public Works, and his Engineer, to take a leaf out of Mr. Palmer's book.

POOR FELLOW.—The amount of sympathy wasted by Grit editors over ex-Governor Tilley, who has "gone astray," is somewhat amusing. When Messrs. Tilley, Tupper and Pope came to Ottawa after the election with a majority of between 20 and 30 at their backs from the three Provinces, the sympathy will be on the other side.—Berlin (Ont.)
