The Markets.

OATS.
Oats are at present quiet in the English market. They bring nineteen shillings per quarter of 304 pounds for the continent, and seventeen shillings and sixpence for ports in Great Britain. In New York and Boston the market for oats is also quiet, and prices have very little change. They range from 36 to 44 cents, as to quality. In Halifax and St. John the market is dull. The price in Halifax is 40 to 41 cents, and in St. John, 41 to 42 cents. In Charlottetown they sell at 32 cents.

POTATOES.
The outlook for a potato market in the United States is not good. Markets in Boston and New York are reported quiet. Fifty-three cents per bushel is the highest price obtained for the best quality of potatoes in Boston. Northern Rose are there quoted at from 45 to 50 cents, Eastern at 50 to 53, and Eastern Prolifics at 50 to 55. Here in Charlottetown, potatoes sell at from 16 to 18 cents per bushel. Several vessels are loading at outposts for the Provincial and United States market.

EGGS.
We are pleased to see there is an improvement in quality of eggs sent from the Island to Boston, and that our eggs are bringing almost as high a price as the best sold in that market. Circulars of Oct. 20, quote the best stock:—Eastern—fresh at 28 cents, while P. E. Island is quoted at 27 cents. This is a good position for P. E. Island eggs to hold, but we think with a little more care it can be bettered, and P. E. Island stock, eggs, butter, potatoes, etc., can be placed on a par, as regards price, with the very best in the Boston market.

PORK.
The Montreal Gazette says a limited volume of business transpires in the hog products, sales of pork being mainly of jobbing lots for city and country account at $14.75 for Western Mess. Pork in Charlottetown sells at from 5 to 5 1/2 cents. The market is dull.

FISH.
The receipts of Mackerel at Boston for the week ending Oct. 20th, have been 5,932 bbls, including 3,214 bbls from domestic and 2,718 bbls from foreign ports. Trade has not been very active, and on the lower grades of Mackerel prices are easier, but choice are held forth at previous rates. Provincial Mackerel are pretty well sold up, and the range of prices is about the same. E. T. Russell & Co., Boston, quote Island No. 1 at $15 to $16; No. 2 at $12 to $13; and No. 3 at $10 to $11 per barrel. Unculled lots sold at $12.50 to $13 per barrel. Nova Scotia range from $9.50 to $10 per barrel, as to quality. Shore mackerel have dropped a little on 4's, and we quote large lots as follows:—Extras $20 to $22; No. 1, $18 to $19; No. 2, $13 to $14; No. 3, $9 to $9.50, and No. 4, $5.50 to $6 per barrel. Bays are selling at $13.50 and $14, out of pickle. The shore fleet have been operating in the bay, but did not catch many mackerel during the week, owing to strong winds. The total quantity landed at all the ports by fleet is 7,717 bbls, against 3,854 bbls. same week in 1882, and 10,383 bbls. in 1881. Codfish are in liberal supply, and prices continue low on all kinds except Georges, which are virtually out of market. Sales of pickled cured Bank at $3.87 1/2 and $4 for large, and $3 for medium; dry Bank at $4 to $4.25 for large, and $3 to $3.25 for medium; pickle cured are $5.50 per quintal.

BUTTER.
As yet there is no provincial market open for butter. It sells in the city at from 18 to 20 cents.
HERRING.
Herring are in demand in the city at $5.50 to $6.50 per barrel, but large arrivals are expected.

CANNED GOODS.
The Montreal Gazette says: The Canadian lobster canneries have all sold up their product pretty close, and Boston dealers have now turned their attention to this market, enquiries having been received from them for round lots. Stocks here, however, are very light and are quoted firm at $5.50 to $5.80 per case, according to quality, and brand. London Grocers' Gazette of October 6th says: "Stocks in first hands have almost entirely disappeared, and the consumptive demand has been so brisk that dealers have very little left to offer; under these circumstances holders have advanced their prices, and we now quote tall tins from 23s 6d to 25s per case, and flat tins from 22s to 31s per case. Mackerel are quoted here at $5.50 to $4.60 per case."

A short time ago a young lady residing in a village near Ottawa went to a photographer to have her likeness taken. When the photograph was completed she refused to pay for it, alleging that it was not a correct likeness of her. The photographer, out of revenge, added a moustache and a cigar to the picture, and placed it on exhibition in his window. The young lady thereupon entered an action for $1,000 damages, but the matter was compromised by the photographer paying her a smaller sum.

The total population of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, according to the census of 1881, is 28,613, of whom 20,100 are of German origin, and it may be interesting to note that in this country between 1871 and 1881 the rate of increase in population was almost 23 per cent., while that of the whole Province was but 13 1/2 per cent., and that of the four Provinces which originally constituted the Dominion 17 per cent.

PHYSICIANS and druggists have been in the habit of charging patients and customers more than many of them are able to pay. We are glad to inform our readers that Mack's Magnetic Medicine is sold at the low price of fifty cents a box, a quantity sufficient to last over two weeks. Sold in Charlottetown at Apothecaries Hall. Read the advertisement in another column.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

To James R. McLean, Esq., Souris.
Sir,—I fear you have grown impatient of a reply to your letter, which appeared in the Patriot of Wednesday last, but I may be permitted to say, by way of apology, that matters of greater importance have ever since engrossed my attention. Now, however, I shall endeavor to give your letter full consideration. You will perceive that, for convenience sake, I take the liberty of addressing myself directly to you.

Your letter, Sir, opens with a mis-statement, and closes with something less excusable in a gentleman of your pretensions. You state that I, in a former letter, accused another gentleman and yourself of having produced a certain communication for the Patriot, while, what I really did say in that letter was, in substance, that rumor had informed me to that effect. I cannot see how my words could have escaped your observation. I notice, however, that you do not deny having written that letter in question. You simply say that you did not "assist" etc., "either in writing or revising" it, leaving the inference to be drawn that either one of you might have written it without the assistance of the other. Such evasive quibbling, Sir, is to no purpose. I assure you, it matters very little to me now, which of you wrote it. It was written, and badly written too, and the writer may live to regret having ever conceived the idea of writing it.

You evidently wish to convey the idea that a "feud" exists between Mr. McEachern and myself. If such is the case, I confess, I am altogether ignorant of it. I am persuaded that that gentleman is no particular friend of mine, but I apprehend no serious consequences. You may, therefore, compose your mind on the "feud" question. The militia will not be called out.

You appear a trifle hurt for being named in my last letter, and demand in rather imperious tones my authority for having used your name in such a manner. I may tell you that I have had no positive instructions from any person to use your name in print. I took the liberty upon myself, and I suppose this correspondence is the penalty. But it strikes me that I have met with your name in print before. In fact, I believe there are few men who have received more newspaper corrections and have profited less by them than myself. No person laments more sincerely than I do, the evil consequences of an acrimonious discussion of this nature, but I have the consolation that I am not the aggressor. The Souris correspondent of the Patriot has for years been throwing out small, mean insinuations about my private character, and if this correspondence will unearth the cowardly booby, my chief object in writing will have been attained.
