and parked for exhibit in a different place each day of the week.

The City School children will hear talks from the City Police during "Safety Week" on matters pertaining to intersection proceedure and bicycle driving.

A walking "Safety Sam" will be in evidence during the week passing out copies of traffic regulations and performing other duties.

A letter contest has been underway since last Monday and the winner will be published in the papers next Thursday, May 25th. The contest, which is open to any resident of P.E.I., consists of writing a letter of not more than 250 words regarding driving conditions in this Province with suggestions for its improvement.

Courtesy tickets for parking and traffic infractions have been printed and distributed to the members of the Charlottetown Junior Chamber of Commerce. The members will act as "policemen" during the week. The tickets do not call for any fine but they will doubtless surprise many people during "Safety Week."

Three thousand pamphlets have been printed and will be distributed at the theatres where, during the week, a film entitled "Gentleman Jekyll and Driver Hyde" will be shown daily. This film concerns highway and traffic safety and from advance reports is a good one.

Special cartoon posters have been drawn up for distribution to special locations. These will depict common infractions of traffic rules and regulations.

The country schools will be circularized during the week by the Department of Education. The school children in the rural areas will be brought up-to-date on rules pertaining to highway safety while walking or driving a bicycle.

On Monday Chief of Police MacArthur will speak to the Charlottetown Rotary Club on aspects of highway and traffic regulations. During the week the radio will be carrying flashes, spot announcements, and special speakers. The speakers include Chief MacArthur, Hon. J. W. Arsennault, Mr. B. Graham Rogers and Cpl. Green (R.C.M.P.)

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, who are sponsoring Safety Week, have the following members working on the details: Fred Pound, (chairman), Harold Bernard, Brian Cudmore, Walter LePage, Don McIntyre, Bud Norman, Gerald Prowse, Ed Pineau and Bob Younker.

Remember the 21st to the 27th is Highway and Traffic Safety Week. Be Alert today — be alive tomorrow. Drive safely, the life you save may be your own.

too optimistic." The phrase was that of weather-wise D. M. Stephens, Manitoba's Deputy Minister of Resources, who told a press conference that considerable rain over the entire Red River watershed is in prospect for the next few days.

A half-inch of rain fell last night over much of the flood area. No rise in the water level resulted but Mr. Stephens said his worry was that further precipitation would "prolong our crest," which has been moving through greater Winnipeg since Sunday at bridge-floor level.

He said more rain "in all likelihood would cause an inching upward."

The over-all picture, said the Deputy Minister, was "neither black nor white but a kind of grey."

That also was the army's view. It said the general situation remained serious and at certain points — particularly along McGillivray Dike — "critical."

Outline of Flood Picture

Brig. Ronald Morton, the army's flood commander, gave this outline of the flood 29 days after it first hit the metropolitan area:

"The whole area now is a succession of lakes. It has lost the conception of a river. It is a lake subject to very high currents and winds. It has all the effects that a lake would have. We no longer regard it (the Red) as a river."

About 600 square miles of Southern Manitoba now is a lake stretching 70 miles from Winnipeg to the international border. In this lie Emerson, Letellier, Morris, St. Jean Baptiste and several other towns. The water is always pressing northward, sometimes driven by still winds which make waves sweep its surface.

Along the Red's tortuous course, homes and farms have been swallowed up with losses which have been estimated unofficially by responsible sources at anything from $100,000,000 to $300,000,000.

FOUR NUNS

Sister Ste. Marguerite de la Charite, 35, of Shawinigan Falls, Que.

Fire chief Adelard Audette said one body has been recovered from the ruins. He doubted if a thorough search of the still-smoldering building would be possible before tomorrow

Both Sister St Charles and Fire Chief Audette said they had no idea how the fire started. Breaking out in the central section of the three-section building shortly after 10 P. M. EDT Thursday, the blaze spread through the whole section. The wing used as sleeping quarters for the 64 nuns in the building suffered some damage, but the fire-proof students' section was unharmed.

Sister St. Charles said that soon as the fire was dicovered all the 85 pupils in the students' dormitory were aroused and were led down the stairs. There was no panic and no use was made of exterior fire escapes.

She said that at the height of the blaze two nuns escaped from the top fourth floor. One jumped into a firemen's net and the second was carried unconscious down a firemen's ladder.

AGREE ON

The delegates also recommended a more comprehensive development plan for countries in that area, to cover six years. Informed sources said the sum of £26,000,000 ($80,600,000) was mentioned as the total of commitments for six years The final figure will be determined at a resumed conference planned for London in September.

Projects such as mechanized agriculture, irrigation, hydro-electric power, communications and transport are envisaged in the immediate aid program. Delegates said the first call for aid will come from the newly-formed United States of Indonesia, bidding for flour, medical aid and technicians.

There was a general understanding among delegates that the burden of providing funds and credits will fall mainly on Britain and Australia, with those two Commonwealth members absorbing 70 per cent of the total cost.

India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Canada and New Zealand, in that order are expected to provide the balance of the funds.

Fisheries Minister Robert Mayhew, head of the Canadian Delegation, at a formal concluding session said:

"Canada has taken an active interest in this conference and will continue to do so for two reasons: Fristly, because we are a member of the British Commonwealth; secondly, because we are greatly interested in the Pacific, with distance meaning so little to us now.

"We have had a successful conference and taken the first step towards rehabilitating these nations."

ADMIRAL INSPECTS

Commodore Godfrey M. Hibbard, R.C.N. (R), President of the Navy League of Canada, P. E. I. Division and other members of the Navy League were present for the inspection Admiral Mainguy made rounds after the Sea Cadets had been dismissed and signed the deck log. He also joined the boys at the canteen where they were enjoying pop and a chocolate bar and they found that even an Admiral can be not only human but a "good sport."

This morning Midshipman R. A. Watson and Petty Officer James Wood leave for Camp "Major" on Mahone Bay where they will assist in running Sea Cadet camps until the end of August. The camp is some 75 miles from Halifax and within a few miles of Treasure Island, famous for its legends concerning Captain Kidd and other pirates.

Lieut. J. D. Smallwood, Executive Officer of the Corps, and Sub. Lieut. R. Hennessey, the training officer, will attend a 14-day officers' training course at Winnipeg commencing July 9th. The course is to be conducted by the Royal Canadian Navy and was arranged through its Director of Sea Cadets.

Other Sea Cadet Petty Officers are Chief Gunners Mate W. A. Davey and Petty Officer D. C. Carmody. Leading Cadet R. W. Henderson also assists in instruction.
