

"Covers Prince Edward Island Like The Dew"

CHARLOTTETOWN, CANADA, MONDAY, MAY 25, 1964.

NOVEMBER SEVEN CENTS

18 PAGES

385 Die In Peru Game Riot

CP From AP-Reuters
LIMA, Peru—A Lima newspaper says 385 persons were killed Sunday in a riot following the Peru-Argentina soccer game and at least 500 were injured.

An Associated Press correspondent reported about 200 bodies in only two of the hospitals in which victims of the disaster were taken.

In the Hospital of The Workers, 95 bodies were counted. At the Loayza Hospital 135 bodies were counted.

Authorities piled the bodies into ambulances and hauled them to the nearest hospital. Some were dead when picked up, some died on the way and others died in the hospital.

The city morgue is small and it was unknown how many, if any, bodies were taken there. Bodies were taken to other hospitals, however.

All available ambulances and police patrol cars were rushed to the area to haul away the dead, dying and injured.

AUTOS TAKEN OVER
Police also commandeered private automobiles and trucks. The riot broke out during an Olympic elimination match.

An eyewitness said the riot broke out during an Olympic elimination match. He said Peru into a 1-1 tie with Argentina.

The match was for the right to represent South America in the Tokyo Olympics.

There were an estimated 45,000 fans at the game.

An eyewitness said: "The Peruvian fans jumped up screaming insults at the referee when he nullified Peru's goal."

"They threw seat cushions and bottles and anything else they could lay their hands on."

CHARGED ON FIELD
"Severing" at the top of their lungs, some of them charged the field when the game was over and ran out onto the field.

"When it looked like things were getting out of hand, police began shooting tear gas into the surging crowd."

"Some tear gas grenades were fired into the crowd still in the stands and the panic was on."

"Because of the tear gas some spectators fainted. Others, trying to get out of the field, tripped themselves."

"None of the players on either team, Argentina or Peru, was involved in the fighting. With police help, both teams reached their dressing rooms."

"What I have left now may come off, too," he said. "That depends on how short the wise man wears his."

He said he will consult a "wise man" who lives in the Atlas Mountains and will not return to Britain "until my mind is clear."

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

French Millionaires Escaped From Trade Board Sessions Scheduled Here Today

An executive meeting and registration started the 68th annual meeting of the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade last night at the Charlottetown Hotel.

Some 100 delegates are expected for the two-day meeting which will be held at the Hotel. This morning the opening remarks will be made by president of the board, Captain Claude Hunter of Charlottetown at 9:15.

Also speaking during morning sessions will be a president of the Atlantic Provinces Junior Chamber of Commerce, James Mitchell of Sydney.

The president's report will be given by Captain Hunter; the executive secretary's report by A. T. Parks and the financial report and the 1964 budget and assessment will also be given.

At 10 a.m. Doug Henderson, manager of the information department, Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Montreal will speak. The chairman of the Maritime Transportation Committee, J. M. Crosby will follow.

MARITIME DEVELOPMENT
At 10:30 a panel discussion will be held on "The Maritime Industrial Development Potential."

A joint luncheon will be held at noon, speaker being the president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Howard T. Mitchell, Vancouver.

During the afternoon, business sessions will be held including policy discussion and resolutions.

This evening the annual dinner will be held, guest speaker being Dr. Frank MacKinnon, president of the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Foundation.

ON TUESDAY
Tomorrow the closing session will be held and will include a report on the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council by J. S. Wright, Summerside, president. A discussion forum, "100 Years After," So What? will follow.

At 11:15 the report of the nominating committee will be read and the election of officers will be held. Following the election, delegates will tour the Fathers of Confederation Buildings.

A civic luncheon will be held at noon, which will be co-chaired by Mayor A. Walten Gaudet and George Chandler, president of the Charlottetown Board of Trade. This luncheon will end the meeting.

For the views of the delegates, a full program has been arranged. They will tour Government House on Monday and attend luncheon at the Belvedere Golf and Country Club. On Tuesday they will tour the Confederation Memorial buildings.

French Millionaires Escaped From Trade Board Sessions Scheduled Here Today

Turning from a dinner with friends:

"They forced me into their farmhouse outside Paris on a routine check Sunday and found Mme. Marcel Dassault, who kidnapped wife of a French millionaire airplane builder."

"I didn't hear anything or see anything. But then I realized my senses and I heard one of the kidnappers say: 'Don't be afraid. We won't hurt you. We are taking you to Orleans (southwest of Paris). If you are good we will let you go.'"

"I was afraid," the 63-year-old woman said, "but I was ready for anything."

She celebrated her release over champagne with her husband.

"My kidnappers didn't mistreat me," Mme. Dassault told reporters. "The chief was charming with me. But they were dangerous men."

Police said that four men were involved in the kidnapping, which took place outside the Dassault home in Paris after their return early Saturday from a dinner party. She had spent 45 hours in the hands of her abductors.

Police immediately began a manhunt for the men — two of whom were born in Algeria — to a motive for the kidnapping.

Police officers received a anonymous telephone call Saturday morning which indicated the kidnapping. The secret army organization was involved in the kidnapping. The secret army force was the 10th division of Algeria in 1962.

But police said a check showed the men seized had police records of no previous crime and had no connection with the secret army organization.

Police records identified all three as "little gangsters" mixed with criminals and other underworld activities.

ARRESTS GANGSTERS
Police sources identified one of the trio arrested as Mathieu Costa, a known gangster with a police record.

The two other men, police said, were brothers Gabriel and Gaston Darmen, owners of the abandoned farm where Mrs. Dassault was held.

The two gangsters were part of a force of 14,000 officers on a mission to seek abandoned houses in the Paris region.

Dassault, building the plane for President de Gaulle's atomic strikes force, said reporters he had not turned over a franc in ransom money and in fact had not been contacted by the kidnapers.

The 75-year-old Dassault, who has one son, said he had a hooded kidnap gang, got out of bed and sped in his chauffeur-driven limousine to a joyous reunion with his wife, Madeleine.

IN GOOD SPIRITS
Mme. Dassault seemed a bit ruffled but in good spirits.

Mme. Dassault caught in a throng of friends and reporters, rattled off his account of her kidnapping which occurred just as she and her husband stepped from their limousine after returning from a dinner with friends:

French Millionaires Escaped From Trade Board Sessions Scheduled Here Today

"They forced me into their farmhouse outside Paris on a routine check Sunday and found Mme. Marcel Dassault, who kidnapped wife of a French millionaire airplane builder."

"I didn't hear anything or see anything. But then I realized my senses and I heard one of the kidnappers say: 'Don't be afraid. We won't hurt you. We are taking you to Orleans (southwest of Paris). If you are good we will let you go.'"

"I was afraid," the 63-year-old woman said, "but I was ready for anything."

She celebrated her release over champagne with her husband.

"My kidnappers didn't mistreat me," Mme. Dassault told reporters. "The chief was charming with me. But they were dangerous men."

Police said that four men were involved in the kidnapping, which took place outside the Dassault home in Paris after their return early Saturday from a dinner party. She had spent 45 hours in the hands of her abductors.

Police immediately began a manhunt for the men — two of whom were born in Algeria — to a motive for the kidnapping.

Police officers received a anonymous telephone call Saturday morning which indicated the kidnapping. The secret army organization was involved in the kidnapping. The secret army force was the 10th division of Algeria in 1962.

But police said a check showed the men seized had police records of no previous crime and had no connection with the secret army organization.

Police records identified all three as "little gangsters" mixed with criminals and other underworld activities.

ARRESTS GANGSTERS
Police sources identified one of the trio arrested as Mathieu Costa, a known gangster with a police record.

The two other men, police said, were brothers Gabriel and Gaston Darmen, owners of the abandoned farm where Mrs. Dassault was held.

The two gangsters were part of a force of 14,000 officers on a mission to seek abandoned houses in the Paris region.

Dassault, building the plane for President de Gaulle's atomic strikes force, said reporters he had not turned over a franc in ransom money and in fact had not been contacted by the kidnapers.

The 75-year-old Dassault, who has one son, said he had a hooded kidnap gang, got out of bed and sped in his chauffeur-driven limousine to a joyous reunion with his wife, Madeleine.

IN GOOD SPIRITS
Mme. Dassault seemed a bit ruffled but in good spirits.

Mme. Dassault caught in a throng of friends and reporters, rattled off his account of her kidnapping which occurred just as she and her husband stepped from their limousine after returning from a dinner with friends:

French Millionaires Escaped From Trade Board Sessions Scheduled Here Today

"They forced me into their farmhouse outside Paris on a routine check Sunday and found Mme. Marcel Dassault, who kidnapped wife of a French millionaire airplane builder."

"I didn't hear anything or see anything. But then I realized my senses and I heard one of the kidnappers say: 'Don't be afraid. We won't hurt you. We are taking you to Orleans (southwest of Paris). If you are good we will let you go.'"

"I was afraid," the 63-year-old woman said, "but I was ready for anything."

She celebrated her release over champagne with her husband.

"My kidnappers didn't mistreat me," Mme. Dassault told reporters. "The chief was charming with me. But they were dangerous men."

Police said that four men were involved in the kidnapping, which took place outside the Dassault home in Paris after their return early Saturday from a dinner party. She had spent 45 hours in the hands of her abductors.

Police immediately began a manhunt for the men — two of whom were born in Algeria — to a motive for the kidnapping.

Police officers received a anonymous telephone call Saturday morning which indicated the kidnapping. The secret army organization was involved in the kidnapping. The secret army force was the 10th division of Algeria in 1962.

But police said a check showed the men seized had police records of no previous crime and had no connection with the secret army organization.

Police records identified all three as "little gangsters" mixed with criminals and other underworld activities.

ARRESTS GANGSTERS
Police sources identified one of the trio arrested as Mathieu Costa, a known gangster with a police record.

The two other men, police said, were brothers Gabriel and Gaston Darmen, owners of the abandoned farm where Mrs. Dassault was held.

The two gangsters were part of a force of 14,000 officers on a mission to seek abandoned houses in the Paris region.

Dassault, building the plane for President de Gaulle's atomic strikes force, said reporters he had not turned over a franc in ransom money and in fact had not been contacted by the kidnapers.

The 75-year-old Dassault, who has one son, said he had a hooded kidnap gang, got out of bed and sped in his chauffeur-driven limousine to a joyous reunion with his wife, Madeleine.

IN GOOD SPIRITS
Mme. Dassault seemed a bit ruffled but in good spirits.

Mme. Dassault caught in a throng of friends and reporters, rattled off his account of her kidnapping which occurred just as she and her husband stepped from their limousine after re-

AND THE ONLY unsmiling face is the one on the trophy. Stella Finlayson and Maurice Evans, both of the Harbours Players from Toronto, struggle in with two of the major awards won in the Dominion drama was a Festival Saturday night. Punch bowl held by Stella in the Nella Jefferson Challenge trophy, proving her in the eyes of Philip Hope-Wallace best actress in the

Quebec Actress's First In Festival Awards List

Perhaps the sheer size of the award elicited for Diane Piard of Les Compagnons de Gai the strongest reaction of Sunday night's final Festival presentations.

For her "best performance in French" as La Quinzalla, Piard won prize from the Quebec government of $3,000 for study abroad in the dramatic arts. At the ceremony the 22-year-old girl from Quebec City also won $200 for study this summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Earlier, at the Western Quebec Regional Festival, she won the award elicit for Diane Piard of Les Compagnons de Gai the strongest reaction of Sunday night's final Festival presentations.

For her "best performance in French" as La Quinzalla, Piard won prize from the Quebec government of $3,000 for study abroad in the dramatic arts. At the ceremony the 22-year-old girl from Quebec City also won $200 for study this summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Earlier, at the Western Quebec Regional Festival, she won the award elicit for Diane Piard of Les Compagnons de Gai the strongest reaction of Sunday night's final Festival presentations.

For her "best performance in French" as La Quinzalla, Piard won prize from the Quebec government of $3,000 for study abroad in the dramatic arts. At the ceremony the 22-year-old girl from Quebec City also won $200 for study this summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Earlier, at the Western Quebec Regional Festival, she won the award elicit for Diane Piard of Les Compagnons de Gai the strongest reaction of Sunday night's final Festival presentations.

For her "best performance in French" as La Quinzalla, Piard won prize from the Quebec government of $3,000 for study abroad in the dramatic arts. At the ceremony the 22-year-old girl from Quebec City also won $200 for study this summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Earlier, at the Western Quebec Regional Festival, she won the award elicit for Diane Piard of Les Compagnons de Gai the strongest reaction of Sunday night's final Festival presentations.

For her "best performance in French" as La Quinzalla, Piard won prize from the Quebec government of $3,000 for study abroad in the dramatic arts. At the ceremony the 22-year-old girl from Quebec City also won $200 for study this summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Earlier, at the Western Quebec Regional Festival, she won the award elicit for Diane Piard of Les Compagnons de Gai the strongest reaction of Sunday night's final Festival presentations.

For her "best performance in French" as La Quinzalla, Piard won prize from the Quebec government of $3,000 for study abroad in the dramatic arts. At the ceremony the 22-year-old girl from Quebec City also won $200 for study this summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Earlier, at the Western Quebec Regional Festival, she won the award elicit for Diane Piard of Les Compagnons de Gai the strongest reaction of Sunday night's final Festival presentations.

For her "best performance in French" as La Quinzalla, Piard won prize from the Quebec government of $3,000 for study abroad in the dramatic arts. At the ceremony the 22-year-old girl from Quebec City also won $200 for study this summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Earlier, at the Western Quebec Regional Festival, she won the award elicit for Diane Piard of Les Compagnons de Gai the strongest reaction of Sunday night's final Festival presentations.

For her "best performance in French" as La Quinzalla, Piard won prize from the Quebec government of $3,000 for study abroad in the dramatic arts. At the ceremony the 22-year-old girl from Quebec City also won $200 for study this summer at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

competition. The somber-faced statuette carved in wood by Florence Wyle, R.C.A. Toronto, symbolizes Grecian tribulations to drama, and is awarded to the group which produces the best play.

The match was for the right to represent South America in the Tokyo Olympics.

There were an estimated 45,000 fans at the game.

An eyewitness said: "The Peruvian fans jumped up screaming insults at the referee when he nullified Peru's goal."

"They threw seat cushions and bottles and anything else they could lay their hands on."

CHARGED ON FIELD
"Severing" at the top of their lungs, some of them charged the field when the game was over and ran out onto the field.

"When it looked like things were getting out of hand, police began shooting tear gas into the surging crowd."

"Some tear gas grenades were fired into the crowd still in the stands and the panic was on."

"Because of the tear gas some spectators fainted. Others, trying to get out of the field, tripped themselves."

"None of the players on either team, Argentina or Peru, was involved in the fighting. With police help, both teams reached their dressing rooms."

"What I have left now may come off, too," he said. "That depends on how short the wise man wears his."

He said he will consult a "wise man" who lives in the Atlas Mountains and will not return to Britain "until my mind is clear."

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

LONDON HAIRDRESSER IS VOLUNTARY EXILE

LONDON Reuters—Fashionable London hairdresser Peter Mr. Teasie (Weasie) Raymond, 35, left here Saturday for Morocco and self-imposed exile in a monastery, declaring "I think the world has gone crackers."

The family character in the city's West End, who owns a 16 hairdressing shops, stopped a double scotch at London Airport and sported a black beard to cover his closely cut hair.

Raymond said it was the first time he ever had his hair so short and it was for "penance."

"What I have left now may come off, too," he said. "That depends on how short the wise man wears his."

He said he will consult a "wise man" who lives in the Atlas Mountains and will not return to Britain "until my mind is clear."

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

He has a general "mistake" of the world.

Successful Hamilton Play Is Delight To Audience

Take three delightful murderers, two diabolical villains, a dear old couple, their Cinderella daughter, a highly poisonous snake, and what have you got?

My Three Angels, that's what! The St. Thomas More Players' production of the play by that name so delighted the audience and the adjudicator at the last performance of final Festival 1964 on Saturday night that within some 10 minutes an hour after the curtain came down it had won a three-ward award.

After a succession of rather disappointing productions, the play was a godsend and put everyone in Memorial Theatre in a very good mood for the presentation of a award which followed.

To Philip Hope-Wallace it was a "big broad, boules" at least a very enjoyable play. He said that there were at least three very good performances.

LITTLE FAULT FOUND
The London critic adjudicator used the adjective "very" very often in commenting on the production. There were not many things with which he found fault.

That the Hamilton, Ont. play was a member godsend and put everyone in Memorial Theatre in a very good mood for the presentation of a award which followed.

To Philip Hope-Wallace it was a "big broad, boules" at least a very enjoyable play. He said that there were at least three very good performances.

LITTLE FAULT FOUND
The London critic adjudicator used the adjective "very" very often in commenting on the production. There were not many things with which he found fault.

That the Hamilton, Ont. play was a member godsend and put everyone in Memorial Theatre in a very good mood for the presentation of a award which followed.

To Philip Hope-Wallace it was a "big broad, boules" at least a very enjoyable play. He said that there were at least three very good performances.

Flag Issue Seen Hiding Stage At ODE Convention

By JANET KASK
FREDERIC TON (CP) — Mayor William T. Walker told the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire Saturday night that the ODE's national flag design should be delayed until universal acceptance is certain.

The Fredericton mayor said it is unfortunate the Red Ensign has been scrapped because the Union Jack should have at least a small design to be adopted for a flag, he told the ODE's national chapter's 64th annual meeting.

The flag issue is expected to highlight the five-day meeting. The 29,000 member women's organization strongly supports adoption of the Ensign as Canada's flag.

Mayor Walker said he sees no objection to the Ensign. He said it is a meeting of the Royal Canadian Legion which also seeks adoption of the Red Ensign as Canada's flag.

Eighty ODE standard bearers in Union Jacks joined the meeting to the tune of God Save The Queen.

FLAG NOT MENTIONED
National President Mrs. D. W. McGibbon, who earlier said

INSIDE TODAY

- Births, deaths 2, 16
- Classified 16, 17
- Comics 12
- Sport 10
- Special 10
- Editorials 4
- Quebec 4
- Summerside 3
- Prince Co. 2
- Women's 2

BOARD OF TRADE DELEGATES REGISTER

The registration for the 68th annual meeting of the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade began last night at the Charlottetown hotel. The meeting will run today and Tuesday, all sessions to be held at the Charlottetown hotel.

Guest Speaker

Pierre Delegrave, president of the Canadian Tourist Association will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the directors of the P.E.I. Tourist Association, scheduled to be held at Dalrymple May 28 and 29.

Nikita Grants Huge New Loan To Egyptians

CP From AP-Reuters
CAIRO—Premier Khrushchev granted Egypt a huge new Soviet loan Sunday and in return got the signature of Egyptian President Nasser on a joint communique extending all-out support to Soviet foreign policy.

Nasser announced the Soviet credit of 252,000,000 roubles ($277,000,000) at a lavish banquet given in his honor by Khrushchev.

In return, Nasser went right down the line with Soviet party policy.

In signing the joint communique, Nasser:

Renounced American overtures of Cuba and joined Khrushchev in warning that they would have "fatal consequences."

Endorsed Moscow's views on "peaceful co-existence," in effect taking sides against Communist China in the struggle for Africa between the two Red giants.

Approved the Soviet Union's claim to be considered an Asian power and therefore eligible to take part in the planned Asian-African conference. Peking has vigorously disputed this claim.

Joined Khrushchev in denouncing what they called "attempts to torpedo the Geneva agreements of 1962 with regard to Laos." They did not say whether they thought the United States or the Chinese Communists were doing the torpedoing.

Red Troops Mass To Aid N. Viet Nam

OTTAWA (CP) — Stewart Bates, Soviet president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said Sunday a strong effort would be made to attack in a restaurant in neighboring Dominion-provincial. He was pronounced dead on arrival after being rushed to hospital by ambulance.

Mr. Bates, a native of Scotland, has been a distinguished public career. He was secretary of the Economic Council of Nova Scotia in 1936. Two years later he served as economist with the royal commission on Dominion-provincial finance—the Rowell-Sirois commission.

The newspaper says the build up of planes and troops, including commandos and paratroopers, is centred