The plant of the Procter & Gamble Co., a view of which is shown above, was erected in 1914-15 at Hamilton, Ontario, to manufacture for the Canadian market their famous brands of soap.
These factories—which include a Separate Crisco Factory—are operated on the Profit Sharing plan, e.g., sharing profits with employees—and employ almost exclusively Canadian employees.
These goods are marketed in Canada from Coast to Coast through the medium of an all Canadian Sales Force.
Through our advertising columns Charlottetown and P. E. Island readers and householders will benefit by clipping the coupon from today's issue of The Guardian, and taking it to your grocer.
