A Hard Profession.

Old Dr. Johnson once said, addressing a class of medical students, that the study of medicine was a most arduous undertaking; that the most comprehensive mind and the most industrious student could scarcely do more than explore the portals to medical knowledge during the brief time allotted to study before commencing practice, but that throughout his whole life the responsibilities of his profession should rest upon him like a nightmare.

He should explore every avenue of natural knowledge, must become familiar with chemistry, natural philosophy and natural history, but, above all, he must learn the construction of his own frame, the means by which he lives, moves and has his being. He must understand the nature of all those influences by which health is broken down and restored, and by what means disease, suffering and death may be averted. Dr. Johnson further says that nothing contributes so much to the support of quackery as the present insufficiency of medical knowledge. Men do not, he says, easily abandon hope but as readily put faith in ignorant pretenders as drowning men catch at straws.

"The good that men do in this life lives after them." During the life time of old Dr Johnson he invented what is known as Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, a standard family remedy of surpassing merit. This liniment is both for internal and external use and it is safe to say that no single remedy ever discovered has done so much good as has this one. It is inexpensive, ready at a moments notice night or day and may be used with absolute confidence in the thousand and one ailments that afflict humanity. In the cure of severe cramps or pains in the stomach or bowels, dysentry, diarrhœa it is certainly worth its weight in gold. It has been known to cure cases from ten to fifteen years standing after the sufferers had been given up.

Irish Home Rule.

NEW FINANCIAL PROPOSALS IN CONNECTION WITH THE IRISH PARLIAMENT.

A London despatch says the new financial proposals in connection with the proposed establishment of the Irish Parliament were issued on Friday. Clause ten relates to the separate consolidated fund and taxes; eleven relates to hereditary revenues and income tax; twelve to the financial arrangements as between the United Kingdom and Ireland; thirteen relating to the treasury account of Ireland is omitted from the new proposals.

The new scheme provides that the revenue shall be divided into two classes, general and special. The general revenue is to consist of the gross taxes of Ireland; a portion of the hereditary crown revenue; a certain amount of the customs and excise duties collected in England on articles consumed in Ireland; the residue of the general class revenue after Ireland's imperial contribution is paid shall come from the special revenue. Ireland shall bear her own civil charges. A separate exchequer and consolidated fund shall be established, and the taxes imposed by the Irish parliament shall form a part of the special revenue to be applied to the public service of Ireland. The postage duties in Ireland, until the imperial constitution is revised, shall be imposed by the imperial parliament. If the post office revenue is less than the expenditure, the deficiency must be paid to the imperial exchequer out of the Irish exchequer.

HE WAS HARMLESS.—The vicinity of Upper Prince Street was considerably alarmed at a late hour a few evenings ago, by the peculiar actions of a young man who was flapping his hands and running about in a most unaccountable manner. The neighbors, thinking that he was crazy, feared to approach him, until finally some young men who were passing cleared up the mystery by discovering that the supposed madman was only an entomologist engaged in the harmless pastime of capturing moths.

The Telephone Company
—OF—
P. E. ISLAND.
PARTIES using the Telephones would find talking much more satisfactory if they would observe the following rules:—
1st. Speak with the mouth about four inches from the transmitter.
2nd. Speak in a moderate tone of voice, not too loud, and distinctly.
3rd. Place the telephone so as to cover the ear just as if you wished to shut out all other sounds Do not press too hard on the ear.
It is possible to talk and be heard when standing back two or three feet from the transmitter, if you shout loud enough, but it is not a pleasant mode of conversation, is entirely unnecessary, and is a useless waste of wind and lungs, besides being very annoying to all within range of your voice.

GERTRUDE MCKERVEY.
Father, Mother, and Daughter cured of Weakness & Distress in the Stomach, Pain across the Back and Limbs, Sick Headache, Dizziness, Vomiting, and habitual Constipation by using Groder's Botanic Dyspepsia Syrup.
SAINT JOHN, N. B., December 15, 1892.
GENTLEMEN:
Our daughter, twelve years old, has always been sick from weakness of the stomach and limbs; pain across her back, and general debility have kept her from school. We could not get help for her from the several doctors whom we tried. The countless medicines we bought gave her no benefit. Her appetite never was good; all she ate was a few mouthfuls of graham bread at a meal. Last summer we lost all hope, for we were afraid of her dying of consumption. Six weeks ago she could not walk two hundred yards without getting very tired. Now she can walk to the city, two miles, and back, without the least weariness; her appetite is such, she relishes anything a hearty man would wish to eat. For the first time in her life she knows what health is.
The mother says, For twenty-two years I have had severe sick headaches. Nothing ever eased them until I used which has wrought a permanent cure. No less than six physicians, and medicines without number, have failed to help me.
The father speaks: I have had dyspepsia almost ever since I can remember. Of course I was better sometimes than others, but I have always suffered with vomiting, distress in the stomach and bowels, dizziness, and habitual constipation until I used Groder's Syrup, which has cleared my head, given me a good appetite, and my food does not distress me. Our statements are all true, and I am ready to answer questions concerning them.
