

The Shadow of the Rock.

"A hiding-place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place; as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."—Is. xxxiii: 2.

In the shadow of the Rock Let me rest, When I feel the tempest's shock Thrill my breast; All in vain the storm shall sweep, While I hide, And my tranquil station keep By Thy side.

On the parched and desert way Where I tread, With the scorching noon-tide ray O'er my head; Let me find the welcome shade, Cool and still, And my weary steps be stayed While I will.

I in peace will rest me there Till I see That the skies again are fair Over me; That burning heats are past, And the day Bids the traveler at last Go his way.

Then my pilgrim staff I'll take And once more I'll my onward journey make As before; And with joyous heart and strong I will raise Unto Thee, O Rock, a song Glad with praise!

About Youngsters.

Never frighten a child. It unman a boy, and it unnecessarily shocks a girl's nerves. Men who were known to have been fearless soldiers have trembled in a 'haunted' room. They were frightened in their childhood, and although their manhood revolted, yet the subtle influence of their early training overcame their manly efforts at composure. It is possible, no doubt, to overcome this early terror of the unknown, but in the majority of cases the men—and they are more numerous than they themselves will admit—who are timid when alone in 'haunted' chambers are those who, in early life, have been unnerved by senseless stories about ghosts. In the good old times, when the 'gentle fays and fairies gay' played pranks around the household, frightening children was a common practice. The young ones were then lulled to sleep with stories of 'rath' and 'bansees', 'leprehawns' and 'Jack-o'-the-lantern', while others of a fierce mien brought terror to the young one's mind. And they all did harm. The child crouched in terror, and men, so reared, often started at the rustling of a leaf, and strained their imagination to find a "warning" in the murmuring of a brook, or the banshee's call in the whining of a dog. When still older children should be guarded against reading the vicious novels which now inundate the market. The other day we read of three respectable boys who, incited by stories of Indian hunters, went West for the purpose, as they declared, of hunting bears and killing Indians.' The dime novel had done its work, and crime was so glossed over as to appear like virtue. The danger of the immoral literature now sold in so many booksellers' shops is that, in the hands of the author, 'crime loses half its vice by being robbed of all its grossness.' What any boy or girl would admit to be wrong if asked deliberately, is yet made appear as if it were right, because it is dressed in the deceptive language of subtle deceit. Parents incur a grave responsibility by not watching and knowing the character of every book their children read, and at this season of the year the two evils to which we have referred are particularly liable to be fallen into.

Rest for Headaches.

Dr. Day says, in a late lecture: Whatever be the plan of treatment decided upon, rest is the first principle to inculcate in every severe headache. Rest, which the busy man and the anxious mother cannot obtain so, long as they can manage to keep about, is one of the first remedies for every headache, and we should never cease to enforce it. The brain, when excited, as much needs quiet and repose as a fractured limb or an inflamed eye, and it is obvious that the chances of shortening the seizure and arresting the pain will depend on our power to have this carried out effectually. It is a practical lesson to be kept steadily in view, in that there may lurk behind a simple headache some lesson of unknown magnitude which may remain stationary if quietude can be maintained.

There is a point worth attending to in the treatment of all headaches. See that the head is elevated at night, and the pillow hard; for, if it be soft, the head sinks into it and becomes hot, which with some people is enough to provoke an attack in the morning if sleep has been long and heavy.

A man sentenced to the penitentiary was told that he could select any occupation he chose. "Very well, then," he said, "I prefer to be a sailor."

The Greatest Medical Discovery since the Creation of Man, or since the Commencement of the Christian Era.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters. DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTERS are acknowledged by all who have used them, to act quicker than any other plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different: the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect. Physicians in all ages have thoroughly tested and well know the effect of Capsicum; and it has always been more or less used as a medical agent for an outward application; but it is only of very recent date that its advantages in a porous plaster have been discovered. Being, however, convinced of the wonderful cures effected by DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTERS, and their superiority over all other plasters, they now actually prescribe them, in their practice, for such diseases as rheumatism, pain in the side and back, and all such cases as have required the use of plasters or liniment. After you have tried other plasters and liniments, and they have failed, and you want a certain cure, ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER. You can hardly believe your own convictions of its wonderful effects. Although powerful and quick in its action, you can rely on its safety for the most delicate person to wear, as it is free from lead and other poisonous material commonly used in the manufacture of ordinary plasters. One trial is a sufficient guarantee of its merits, and one plaster will sell hundreds to your friends. Ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER, and take no other; or, on receipt of 25 cents for one, $1 for five, or $2 for a dozen, they will be mailed, post paid, to any address in the United States or Canada.

CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy CURES CATARRH.

Hear what a Reverend Gentleman says of the Constitutional Remedy.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., Brockville, Ont.:—DEAR SIR—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me. I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you, as at first the happy effects seemed to me to be "too good to be true."

I was afflicted in my head for years before I suspected it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case described in many particulars. The inward "drop" from the head had become very disagreeable, and a choking sensation often preventing me from lying long, I would feel like smothering and be compelled to sit up in the bed. My health and spirits were seriously affected. When your agent came to Walkertown in August, 1876, I secured three bottles. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found decided relief, and when I had used two bottles and a third, I quit taking it, feeling quite cured of that ailment, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some for a cold in my head. A sense of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, prompts me to send you this Certificate, unsolicited, with leave to make what use of it you may see proper. Yours truly, W. TINDALL, Methodist Minister. Port Elgin, Ont., Aug. 24, 1878.

"THE ENAMORADO"

A DRAMA IN V. ACTS, BY HUNTER DUVAR

THE above interesting book is for sale at all the Bookstores on the Island.

Col. Duvar is happy in having selected for the theme of his drama, one of the most romantic incidents of a romantic and soldierly time. The scene is laid in Spain, amid all the accessories of grave and gay, love and chivalry, poetry and song, with room for the display of many types of character,—knights and ladies, priests and soldiers, courtiers and peasants, cooks and clowns. Many lyrics in the author's best style are interspersed in the dialogue, which is, in general, quaint and sparkling. Price: Paper cover, 50 cents; in cloth, 75 cents. Summerside, Jan. 25, 1879—
