That Body Of Yours

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL SLUGGISHNESS - HYPOTHYROIDISM

Most of us are familiar with the symptoms caused by overactivity of the thyroid gland in front part of the neck. This overactivity means that too much thyroid juice is being manufactured and poured into the blood.

While the conditions hyperthyroidism and hypothyroidism can be recognized usually, particularly when the metabolism test is made, that shows the degree of overactivity or underactivity present.

It would appear that underactivity of the thyroid gland (hypothyroidism) is not uncommon as we grow older and our family and friends may feel that we are just "slowing up" because of our age.

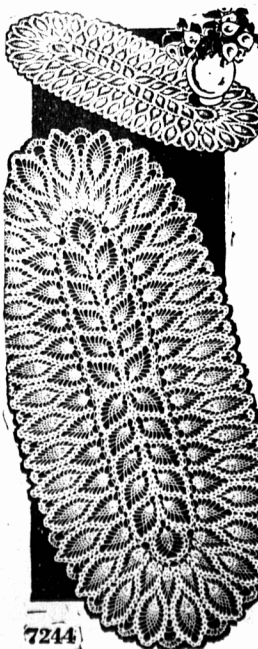

Now when overactivity (hyperthyroidism) is present and too much thyroid extract is being manufactured, it is necessary to remove all or part of the thyroid gland by surgery.

From one grain or less per day of dried thyroid extract, dosage is increased gradually until symptoms are relieved and the basal metabolism returns to normal.

THE STORY OF THE

THE KOH-I-NUR REMAINED IN THE POSSESSION OF RANJIT SINGH UNTIL 1849, WHEN THE PUNJAB WAS ANNEXED TO THE TERRITORIES ADMINISTERED BY THE EAST INDIA COMPANY, AND THE DIAMOND BECAME THE PROPERTY OF THE BRITISH ARMY.

WHILST AWAITING THE DECISION OF THE EAST INDIA COMPANY AS TO THE DISPOSAL OF THE JEWEL, IT WAS GIVEN INTO THE CHARGE OF SIR JOHN LAWRENCE, WHO WRAPPED IT IN A PIECE OF PAPER - PUT IT IN HIS POCKET, AND FORGOT ALL ABOUT IT!

KINGSLEY SUTTON

SIX WEEKS LATER IT WAS DECIDED TO PRESENT THE DIAMOND TO QUEEN VICTORIA AND SIR JOHN WAS ASKED FOR IT. HE GALLOPED TO HIS BUNGALOW AND QUESTIONED HIS VALET, SAHIB, SAID THE VALET, "I PUT THE PIECE OF GLASS ON YOUR OFFICE BOX - HERE IT IS!"

ELLEN'S DIARY

By An Island Farmer's Wife

As so many pictures passing in review on a screen, too quickly for one to catch them in detail, so January, first fruit of the New Year, presents now his days. Gives, but very soon withdraws these, leaving with the spectator her memories and regrets.

Early smokes, billowing darkly from quiet chimneys, and touched sooner or later with the amber and rose of the east; farm-houses - often most bewitching - us, the neat bundle of hay confined now to a tidy fold in the barnyard. A black one, gift of Alderlea, replaces to the lady's satisfaction the summer-sold pet lamb of this place.

Scenes continue - maybe with such familiarity of subject to those who look at them as to pass unnoted. Until that day when grave concerns thrust themselves into our erstwhile pleasant round, to have us wishing vainly against enveloping circumstance.

Going on then to busy themselves with the care of the pullets, the younger lad stopping midway to slide on an icy piece of yard; to play with a kitten or pat the black dog kindly, while Jamie contemplates steadily with the work, ordering "Come Gage!"

And breakfast, a substantial meal of cooked cereal and milk, of eggs and bacon and bread and the incidental preferences which mark individual tastes to send all out in good spirits to the various cares of their day.

Every year, many more parents, themselves conscious of the keen competition in the business world, make sacrifices to educate their children to meet the exacting requirements of a career.

When there's a doubt, the best course is to take the reluctant student out of school, and let her try working for a while. Perhaps the experience may lead to the realization for the need of greater knowledge; perhaps it will confirm the wisdom of the choice made.

Myra, you seem to be hastily headed toward two momentous decisions, both of which need more thought than they are receiving. Don't leave school unless you have carefully consulted your instructors.

ANSWER: Your sister is old enough to know her own mind, and if she has weighed the relative advantages and disadvantages of the marriage and still wants to go ahead with it, nothing will change her now.

For Tomorrow A SUDDEN and quite unlooked-for event may prove startling and breath-taking, with the nerves, feelings and emotions keyed to high pitch of excitement.

For the Birthday Those whose birthday it is may look for an exciting year, with thrill, surprise and drama in its unforeseen and electrifying suddenness. The feelings and emotions are involved, possibly a broken pledge, and while this may seem disastrous and disintegrating, in the long run there may be benefit from the unusual train of events.

All Is Illusion--

The street scene, above, is said distance. The all-wooden theater to be one of the most perfect it was designed by Vincenzo Scamozzi in the make-believe world, and is in nearly perfect condition of the theater. Constructed of lion after 370 years. The Teatro wood in 1882, it is set up in the present patrons fear that "Teatro Olimpico," in Vicenza, stant use of the building would Italy. Actually less than 10 feet in damage it, and it is opened for depth, to the audience it appears one "run" only three weeks each to stretch 30 or 40 feet into the year.

BORED WITH LEARNING Co-Ed, In Love, Would Leave College, But Fears Mother

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 18 years old and a freshman in college, and would like to leave after this semester, but mother is so anxious for me to continue that I hate to hurt her. I'm not getting good marks, since I find the lessons too hard.

Muriel Nissen

should discuss the matter with the authorities at college, rather than trusting entirely to your judgment.

A GRAND OPPORTUNITY

Every year, many more parents, themselves conscious of the keen competition in the business world, make sacrifices to educate their children to meet the exacting requirements of a career. It's a satisfying thing when youngsters take advantage of the opportunity, but not all of them can. Not every child is a student, and it's a waste of time and money to try to force higher education on a boy or girl who simply is not college material.

When there's a doubt, the best course is to take the reluctant student out of school, and let her try working for a while. Perhaps the experience may lead to the realization for the need of greater knowledge; perhaps it will confirm the wisdom of the choice made.

Myra, you seem to be hastily headed toward two momentous decisions, both of which need more thought than they are receiving. Don't leave school unless you have carefully consulted your instructors.

DEAR MISS DIX: My sister is keeping company with a man ten years her senior. He has recently been divorced and is the father of three children. One of the conditions of the divorce is that he turn over all his money to his ex-wife. However, he has a good job and is a fine man. We think my sister is letting herself in for obligations that will prove too onerous. Against him are the facts that he is 36 to her 26, that he must give a substantial amount every year to the support of his children. In his favor: he earns a good salary; they are in love; he is sincere, energetic and ambitious.

ANSWER: Your sister is old enough to know her own mind, and if she has weighed the relative advantages and disadvantages of the marriage and still wants to go ahead with it, nothing will change her now.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm in love with a boy, but we broke up several weeks ago. He is now going with two other girls, but his friends say he likes me and is almost certain to come back if I wait.

ANSWER: It's possible the boy may come back, but why waste your time waiting? Take a leaf from his book and get yourself some new friends.

CANDIED FRUIT BREAD

2 cups sifted bread flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup seedless raisins, 1/2 cup chopped glazed cherries, 1/2 cup almonds blanched and halved, 2 eggs well beaten, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons butter, melted.

Butter a loaf pan, about 9 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches, thoroughly. Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon into mixing bowl. Add sugar, prepared fruits and nuts. Mix well, combine beaten eggs, and melted butter. Add to dry ingredients, stirring just enough to blend. Turn into buttered loaf pan. Let stand for 15 minutes. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., for 1 hour. Bake in centre of oven on middle rack. Turn up on several hours before slicing. Decorate top with almonds, cherries and citron peel.

False Face

By E. C. Buley

CHAPTER XXIII

PETER ARRANGES TO PAINT LOLA'S PICTURE

Marchant began with Smith's face, of which he produced a detailed sketch in a few minutes. Lola's eyes opened wide as she inspected the drawing, but she returned the look with the air of one very little interested.

"I never saw anybody like that in my life," she said. "I wouldn't choose to see them, either. Do you mean to tell me that Miss Soames encourages that to hang about her? Then let me tell you something. She keeps him on the chain, just to annoy you."

But Peter was busy with another sketch, which he executed in a few bold lines.

"That's how he looks when he's swimming," he said, as he finished it. "It gives quite a different impression of him, somehow. You'd hardly expect to see such a face on a man so finely made."

He was talking idly, as he lined in the little sketch; and now he handed it to Lola.

"You know him?" he said insistently. "I can see by your face that you do. Tell me!"

Lola stared at the drawing, without confirming or denying the statement Peter had made.

"Say!" she drawled at last. "We are both going nuts. I think what can anybody say about the picture of a man without a face. This looks to me like any one of a dozen athletic men I've seen in swimming clothes."

"But the first one you thought of was 'Truscott Whalen,'" Peter said. "Isn't that so, Lola?"

"Well, and who would I be thinking of?" Lola asked, in turn. "He's never been out of my mind, day or night, for more than half a year. And seeing you, and talking about the past makes it seem only yesterday when I said goodbye to him. Yes, big boy; your drawing made me think of him. What of it?"

"Oh, nothing, if you say so," Peter said, readily enough. "I had a crazy idea; but the whole of this experience has been crazy. You think that Whalen was the man found dead with my passport in his pocket?"

"Don't I know it?" Lola asked sadly. "Forget it, like I'm trying to do. The point is, how can I set your girl friend right? How is it to be staged?"

"I thought you might write..." Peter began.

"Write, nothing," Lola said contemptuously. "I have to look up too many words in the dictionary. Say; how would it be if I paid you to paint my picture?"

"Wait," Lola said. "I want to be painted in my big scene, in the picture I just finished in Hollywood. I was one of those Inca girls, or whatever. Wait until I show you; I've got a still of it somewhere."

"Feathers," she remarked. "And not so many of them, at that. The rest is just me."

Peter inspected the photograph, and had to grin as he returned it to its proud owner.

"Technically speaking, the picture you want will not be a nude," he said gravely. "There are sufficient feathers for an alibi. And I shall be glad to paint you, in any way you choose."

"That's the plot, then," Lola said. "Where is the scene laid? For this seaside place?"

"We might begin the sittings there," Peter agreed. "I have at my disposal a big room, which I could use as a studio. I'll go back there to-night, and make arrangements. I'll write to you when to come down; and then I can present you as a patron."

"Don't write, telephone," Lola said. "I haven't got all the time there is. Any day I may have to start work on a new film."

The quality of citrus fruit can probably be best tested by its weight. A heavy-feeling orange or grapefruit usually contains more juice. The thickness of the skin is also a good indication. The thick-skinned, spongy-feeling fruit should be avoided.

The Raincoat

If the raincoat has a rip in it, mend it by pasting a piece of adhesive tape larger than the tear on the under side of the coat. It will not show and the coat will be as good as new.

Removing Paint

If sandpaper is used for removing old paint, dampen the sandpaper with benzine to get quick results.

How Can I Utilize Leftover Coffee?

Do not warm up leftover coffee for drinking purposes, as the delicately fine flavor departs soon after being made. Leftover coffee may be used for mixing gingerbread or gelatine desserts. It also may be used in the rinse for tinting curtains or dollies.

What is a Remedy for Boils?

The skin of a boiled egg is a very effective remedy. Peel off carefully and apply to the boil. It will draw off the matter and remove soreness within a few hours.

How can I eliminate smoke from a room?

Dip a towel into vinegar and hot water (equal parts), wring out, and fling it gently over the head about the room.
