Rising Education Cost May Mean More Taxes

Unless the government moves quickly to alleviate the inequity of the situation where the City of Charlottetown has to pay the education shot while the government takes care of expenses in other areas, a sharp increase in taxes faces citizens of Charlottetown.

The fast rising and ever increasing cost of education in this city has become too great a burden for the people, Mayor Walter Cox said yesterday. He pointed out the aggravating part is that the City Council has to take the blame for taxation but it has no control whatever over educational expenditures.

These are the sole province of the Charlottetown School Board, an appointed body, operating under the provincial School Act. The board makes all decisions regarding size and use of school buildings and decreases when new ones shall be built. The elected members of City Council are then charged with the task of finding the money requested by the school board.

This situation exists only in Charlottetown and Summerside with the government providing for education elsewhere in the province.

The subject has been brought into sharp focus because of two recent developments. First was the announcement by the school board of the building of a new high school to cost approximately a million dollars; the second was the reported deteriorating physical condition of the forum and the necessity of providing greater recreational facilities for the youth of the city. Cost of building a new rink to take care of the need is estimated at one-quarter million dollars.

Recently the school boards of Charlottetown and Summerside met with the government representatives seeking assistance for the building of required new schools. A formula, which would give a certain amount for each classroom and laboratory plus a sum for assembly rooms, was under review. Using the figures mentioned at the time this city would receive approximately $200,000 towards the cost of its new high school.

INCREASE FEARS

Cows Listed As Producers

Three cows from the Experimental Farm here are listed in the Canadian Ayrshire Review as having qualified in record of performance tests.

Charlottetown - Burr Rebecca produced 10,286 pounds milk, 453 pounds butterfat as a senior three-year-old, for breed class averages of 131 in milk, 140 in fat.

The other two heifers were two-year-olds. Charlottetown Super Twinkle produced 8,546 pounds milk, 387 pounds milk, 387 fat for BCAs of 128 and 134 and Charlottetown Super Tinker produced 8,843 pounds milk, 387 fat for exactly the same breed class averages according to the table in the Review.

Will Ask Ottawa Help In Grower Aid Scheme

The province will make representations to Ottawa on behalf of the growers for food processing plants who suffered losses this year, Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae told the Guardian last night.

No decision has been reached to date on whether the government should ask for 60 per cent of the crop losses this year, as suggested earlier this week by the Minister, or go along with the idea of 80 per cent of the losses as suggested in the brief presented yesterday by a committee of the Montague, Kensington and Charlottetown areas.

Mr. MacRae told this paper that he has not had time to study the proposals closely, but he was warm in his praise of the brief the growers' spokesmen presented. "Their brief was well prepared and presented - it is obvious these men know what they want," he said. I will receive most careful consideration, he assured.

Mr. MacRae is asking the plant managers at Montague, Sherwood and New Annan for further information on comparison of the returns to the growers this year with those received in the normal moisture years.

The brief said that the experience of the growers during the past growing season "has ranged through fair to disastrous from an income standpoint."

Losses "can be very serious in some instances... some growers will be most reluctant to run the risk of repeating the experience with these new crops. In some cases the Montague plant was probably in mind here - the growers' effort was in the nature of a pioneer effort," the brief said.

The brief suggested seriously that the people of the province through their government have a degree of financial interest in this new industry. "The producer should not solely underwrite the losses involved in getting a new industry underway."

The fact that crop insurance is not yet available for this type of crop - it is available for potatoes and grain - and the relief of a serious financial situation in a number of individual cases, were two reasons listed for asking aid.

BASIS OF AID
The committee suggested consideration for the idea that assistance should be provided on the following basis:

1. In the case of green peas the following formula to be applied. Establish for the two years (1963 and 1964) for the province the average return in cash per acre.

2. Establish the return per acre for individual growers for the 1965 crop.

3. Establish the difference for the individual grower between (1) and (2).

4. Compensate the grower for 80 per cent of the difference.

In the case of cole crops it was suggested the average for the province be calculated for the three years 62, 63 and 64.

In the case of green beans where experience is rather limited we recommend that compensation per acre be at the same level as determined on the average for peas.

In addition, we suggest consideration of the following points:

A. In the case of any particular crop where averages are being computed, any year with an abnormal low yield should be left out.

B. Payment of compensation should be made directly to the producers.

Youths Fined $50 And Costs

Acceptance by the Court of a plea for reduction of a charge of theft of over $50 in that of damaging property saw four Charlottetown youths each fined $50 and costs, assessed $15 each for damages and ordered to stay away from the Basilica Recreation Center for a period of one year.

The accused were arraigned in City Police Court yesterday before Magistrate A. James Haslam, QC.

The four charged were: Milford Gordon Quinn, Brian Earl Glenn, Garry Bruce Kaulbeck, and Charles Richard Conkey.

The charges arose from the theft of a Beaver peanut vending machine and a quantity of coins.

There were three other cases on the docket. Lloyd Ernest Blaquiere, city, charged with driving without due care and attention was fined $30 and costs or 10 days.

Peter Gavan Duffy, city, charged with speeding, 40 mph in a 20 mph zone, was fined $30 and costs or 10 days.

George Henri Roy, city, charged with failing to transfer registration of a vehicle was fined $10 and costs or five days.

TAXES GO UP
Corporation tax in Canada has increased from 15 per cent in 1959 to about 50 per cent today on profits over $35,000.
