False Claims Charged In Medical Care Plan

WINNIPEG (CP)—Medical officials make false claims about the proposed national health care plan, Mr. Justice Emmett Hall, chairman of the royal commission on health services, said here.

The commission last June recommended a universal, pre-paid, government sponsored medical care program for Canada.

Mr. Justice Hall told the health division of the Winnipeg Community Welfare Planning Council.

Officials of the Canadian Medical Association keep repeating without any foundation in my view—that doctors will be controlled, that the essential doctor-patient relationship will be lost, that our programs are in effect state medicine, that our doctors will leave Canada.

The truth is that the state will not interfere in anyway with the doctor's professional management of the patient's condition nor with the confidential nature of the physician-patient relationship.

Only the manner of payment will be altered by the government plan, he said.

Mr. Justice Hall said "scare headlines generated by officials of the Canadian Medical Association that doctors will leave Canada by the hundreds is just plain nonsense."

In Saskatchewan, the number of doctors increased after the introduction of the provincial medical care program, he said.

Text of Mr. Justice Hall's address was released in advance of delivery.

He said the emphasis on freedom to practise should not obscure the fact that a doctor has moral and social obligations as well as self-interest to do well in his profession.

Tireless Arms, Pride In Job Considered Shoe Black Needs

VANCOUVER (CP)—A pair of tireless arms are vital to a shoe black. A pride in the job makes it all worth while.

Fred Herrick has both—he's been at the same stand for 37 years and has given a glimpse to the leaders of some of the most famous.

He counts Bing Crosby, Groucho Marx, the McGuire Sisters, Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker among his customers.

From the basement of the Georgia Hotel here he's watched shoe fashions change. The high buttoned women's shoes of the '20s were replaced by the lean years of the Depression and after when fewer people had their shoes slicked up. But when they did, he says, the shoes were generally shabbier than in years before.

The business boomed in the '40s when Mr. Herrick noticed the high-leathered military boots mingling with the civilian footwear.

"But the boots belonged to regular soldiers on leave, not officers—they had their batmen to do theirs. The boots were terrible to polish—greasy because they were treated for water repellency."

That decade saw the end of the family shoeshine, he says.

"Before then, whole families would go for walks and stop in for a shoeshine, each one waiting his turn. Now you seldom see families together."

His most unusual experience came in the '50s.

"It was the funniest sight I have ever seen," he grabbed the shoe out of my hand and kissed the sole."

The shoes belonged to Elvis Presley, here during a 1958 tour, and the girl happened to overhear Mr. Herrick remark that he was polishing the singer's footwear.

Manufacturing Of Windmills Hits Bottom

FERGUS, Ont. (CP)—William F. Pearson has had the wind taken out of his sales—and in his business that's bad.

He's the sales manager for a windmill manufacturer in Canada's last, he claims, and from now on any company will be supplying parts only.

Mr. Pearson, employed by Beatty Brothers Ltd., said the demand has become so small that it no longer warranted production.

The Ontario firm ran into pockets of resistance with competition from two U.S. windmill manufacturers who, he says, have been accepting as payment money loaned under the Colombo Plan.

In the last 30 years, Beatty's had sold more than 15,000 windmills, exporting to 25 countries. In 1964 exports overtook domestic sales.

William Montcalm, a farm specialist with the Ontario department of agriculture, says that 20 years ago some 30 per cent of the province's farms had windmills.

Today, many of the old towers still stand, but the wind blows idly by as electricity does the work.

Let's say you're declarer at six spades and West leads a trump. You win it in dummy, cash the A-K of diamonds and ruff a diamond, and then play three more rounds of trumps, discarding two hearts from dummy.

You next play a heart to the king, losing to the ace, and East returns a heart which you ruff in each hand and your only concern is that one opponent may have four clubs to the jack. If this is the case the jack can be trapped by a finesse, but

Rusk Rules Out Withdrawal, Expansion In Viet Nam War

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk has ruled out either U.S. withdrawal from or a major expansion of the South Viet Nam war at this time.

He said that with unity and aid, the South Vietnamese themselves can beat the Communist guerrillas.

In a year-end television interview with the NBC network Rusk generally saw progress on the international scene although "there remains much unfinished business."

But he conceded he shares with many Americans "a sense of frustration that things are not somehow moving more rapidly toward a conclusion" in the long South Vietnamese campaign against the guerrillas.

"It is going to require persistence. It is going to require a good deal of effort by the South Vietnamese, as well as ourselves, and a certain coolness in dealing with this problem," he said.

"Rather than taking reckless action which would move us over thoughtlessly in either the direction of defeat or in the direction of a very great catastrophe."

He said pulling out would only encourage a militantly expansionist Communist China to push on with further aggression leading toward a major catastrophe.

He said expanding the war would multiply casualties by the thousands, subject Asian people to devastation and lead down a trail "the end of which no one in any country could possibly see with assurance."

And a political settlement, he said, is possible only if the Communists give up their aggressive designs—and the Communists have refused to do this.

He said South Viet Nam people can defeat the guerrillas "if they can obtain the unity and the assistance that is needed for that purpose" and "the basic problem is in the effort of the South Vietnamese, with our large assistance."

NOTION HELD BY SOME

"The notion held by some that the physician has an absolute right to fix his program as he sees it, unrelated to the mores of our times, is incorrect."

The CMA and the insurance industry "now appear to be making common cause" against the principle of a universal program, he said.

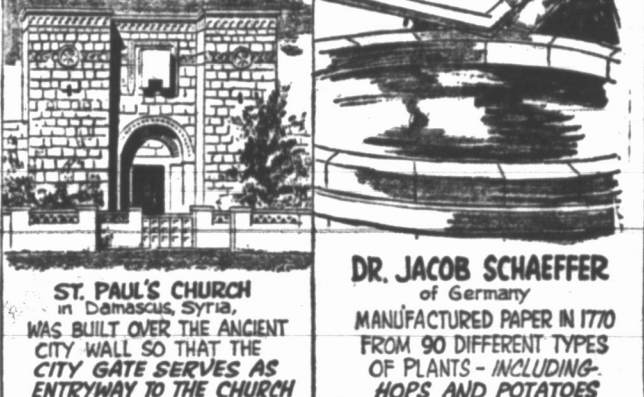

"One may wonder why the CMA does not pit its strength behind the doctor-sponsored programs that will be the ultimate victims if the commercial carriers are put in the position of skimming off the cream of the business."

"On the other hand, I can understand the position of the insurance companies. There is a perfectly valid one. They are in the business of selling this coverage and they want to continue doing so."
