

Baby Literature.

LOOK ON THE BRIGHT SIDE.—It was old Isaac Walton who said, "Every misery that I miss is mercy;" a saying worthy of the profoundest philosopher. It is only too true that misfortunes come to us on wings, but with a limping pace; and yet out of the world are ready to meet calamities half way and indirectly to welcome them.

FINE WORDS.—We learn from a scientific work that Eckhard agrees with Savory, Clark, and Schulz, that "striated muscular fibre is not developed from cells; but from a nucleated blastema."

Curran one day having a violent argument with a country schoolmaster on some classical subject, the pedagogue, who had the worst of it, said, in a towering passion, that he would lose no more time, and must go back to his scholars.

In an Auckland (New Zealand) paper, a girl advertises for a situation to take charge of a laundry or dairy. She can cook, understands housekeeping, and adds—"None but a respectable mistress, who wishes to leave her servant in uninterrupted discharge of her duties, need apply."

There is no funeral so sad to follow as the funeral of our own youth, which we have been pampering with fond desires, ambitious hopes, and all the bright berries that hang in poisonous clusters over the path of life.

"What brought you to prison, my colored friend?"—"Two constables, sah."—"Yes, but I mean had interence anything to do with it?"—"Yes, sah, dey was bofe of 'em drunk."

A woman who dresses too grandly, or too absurdly, or too shabbily, has some mental oddity, or insanity, or meanness which develops itself outwardly in her garments.

A Connecticut Yankee has cleared his house of rats by catching one and dipping him in red paint. He then let him loose, and other rats, not liking his looks, left immediately.

Why are ship-carpenters the most impolite of men?—Because they are several days making a bow.

Why is a dishonest bankrupt like a honest poor man?—Because both fail to get rich.

Why is a tired man like an umbrella?—Because he is used up.

It is a very easy thing for a man to be wise for other people.

HORSE-BREAKING AND HORSE-SENSE.

A horse's sense is good common sense. Many a man does not know half so much about some things as a horse, and there is a great difference in horses. The horse is not naturally suspicious, but he is timid when young. He learns very soon what his weapons are—teeth and hoofs—and in what his security lies—flight. His boldness and "the glory of his nostrils" come when "he rejoiceth in his strength." With his eye come some knowledge of his powers, and if he has never been mastered—never made to yield to any will but his own—if he is to be made useful, the struggle must come sooner or later, and man's will or horse's will must triumph. We think it best to begin quite young with colts to control them. So advise to halter a colt while it runs with the mare, and to do it after feeding it with carrots and sugar, until it thinks it will get only caressing from mankind, and has no fear of any man. The colt submits easily, because it is the easiest and pleasantest thing he can do, provided he is not frightened, and would as lief be led as run loose, since the curtailment of his freedom is made up by the sweets or carrots. The sense of smell in horses is very acute, and if they are suspicious of anything, they always approach it cautiously and smell it. They should be indulged in this; and harness, saddle, etc., should all be investigated by the nose as well as by the eye before a more intimate acquaintance is forced upon the horse. A horse ring of 40 to 50 feet in diameter is one of the greatest aids a horse trainer can have. In this a horse too restive and spirited to take a lesson may be tired, so as to be very docile, and a tired horse is much more susceptible to both favors and instruction, than one full of vim, and fire and play. There are a very few simple common sense rules which, if followed, will commend themselves to the horse as well as to the trainer, viz:

1st.—Always feel kindly toward a horse, no matter what he does to you, and consequently never show "temper." Remember the horse knows instinctively how you feel.

2nd.—Never go near a horse if you are afraid of him, the horse will know it and take advantage of it before you acknowledge it yourself.

FOR THE SPRING TRADE!!

The Subscriber has opened a

in Mr. H. J. RICHARDSON'S Old Stand, which he trusts will be the real Fashionable one of Summerside. If an accurate fit, stylish cut, and superior workmanship can ensure custom, he flatters himself that he shall not be without patronage from the discerning and discerning. Every trade requires brains, and none more so than the art of cutting and making up a garment to fit every variety of the human form; but some people seem to imagine that it requires no more judgment to cut a coat than to hew a log,—an erroneous idea, the effects of which are seen in the tasteless and ill-fitting garments we every day behold in the streets. There is no ordinary reason to prevent us Provincialists from being as elegantly and fashionably dressed as the Americans, and the subscriber will use his best endeavors to reach a "consummation so devoutly to be wished."

Mrs. S. A. Allen's PREPARATIONS FOR THE HAIR.

Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer

is suited to both young and old. It strengthens the Hair, prevents its falling or turning grey, and imparts to it a beautiful glossy appearance. It never fails to RESTORE GREY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL YOUTHFUL COLOR.

It is not a DYE, but acts directly upon the roots of the Hair, giving them the natural nourishment required, producing the same vitality and luxuriant quantity as in youth. It will restore it on bald places, requires no previous preparation of the hair, and is easily applied by one's self. One bottle will usually last for a year, as after the hair is once restored, occasional applications once in three months will insure against grey hairs to the most advanced age.

The Restorer Reproduces and the Hair Dressing Cultivates and Beautifies. Principal Sales Office, 198 Greenwich Street, New York City. August 1, 1867.

Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Dressing, or ZYVOLAISAMUM, is essential to use with the Restorer, but the Hair Dressing alone often restores, and never fails to invigorate, beautify and refresh the Hair, rendering it soft, silky and glossy, and disposing it to remain in any desired position.

FOR LADIES AND CHILDREN, whose hair requires frequent dressing, it has no equal. No lady's toilet is complete without it. The rich glossy appearance imparted is truly wonderful. It cleanses the Hair, removes all dandruff, and imparts to it a most delightful fragrance. It will prevent the Hair from falling out, and is the most economical and valuable Hair Dressing known. Millions of bottles sold every year.
