THE DAILY EXAMINER.

OCTOBER 7, 1889.

Another Triumph.

Our militiamen have won another signal triumph. We refer, of course, to the result of the Dominion rifle shooting match, reported by telegraph from all parts of Canada, which is chronicled in this day's issue of The Examiner.

The proud distinction of possessing the best team of marksmen in all Canada belongs to-day Prince Edward Island—to Charlottetown.

This is a small province, and people in the province of Ontario are accustomed to regard it as of small importance. They will have learned, ere long, that it can at least produce men equal—in some respects, superior—to those of the biggest.

After all, it isn't the size of the town or country which fixes its rank in the world. Good men are of many times more value than large areas of country.

We heartily congratulate our champion marksmen. They have brought credit to themselves, and they reflect credit upon their town and country.

China Point Wharf.

It will be seen by reference to The Examiner's advertising columns that tenders are called for for the rebuilding and repairing of China Point pier. Plans and specifications can be seen with Mr. McDonald, Postmaster, Vernon River Bridge. Tenders must be in by the 18th inst.

It is satisfactory to know that this much needed work is at length to be undertaken. But we hope the Department will not omit to make immediate temporary provision for the fall's trade which is just now opening. We understand that the importantance of this point has been pressed on the Department by the Hon. Mr. Ferguson.

The delay attending the repairs of this and other public works in this Province for the last two years has given rise to a good deal of dissatisfaction. But the people must bear in mind that this is a certain consequence of the present state of our representation at Ottawa. The more our public works are neglected, the better pleased are our noble representatives. Their position is just this: attack the ministers on every subject right or wrong; mystify and mislead them regarding the wants of the Province; and then denounce them for everything that goes wrong,—and the more that goes wrong, the better for the purposes of the representatives. This was well illustrated in Mr. Wm. Welsh's denunciation of Sir Hector Langevin last session because the repairs to the steam dredge were not made at Pictou instead of Charlottetown. The steamer Stanley is now laid up at Pictou, and all necessary repairs and supplies will fall into the hands of the mechanics and merchants of that town. The mechanics here will naturally feel sore,—and that is just what Messrs. Welsh and Davies want. It is of little use for our mechanics or merchants to remonstrate against work being done at Pictou, in face of the fact that the man they elected to represent them at Ottawa has declared that $5,000 will go as far in Pictou as $12,000 in Charlottetown.

Notes and Clippings.

—We are in receipt of papers from Peoria, which contain articles on Clarke Braden's charges against Ingersoll. Both deny Braden's charges in very strong language; and both use very strong language in condemnation of Braden. As to the denials, we quote from the Journal, of Peoria:—

"As a whole, the charge is a monstrous and villianous lie, cunningly concocted and villianously planned."

And again—

"Mr. Ingersoll's domestic and private life is singularly frank and open, his devotion to his family and friends is not exceeded by that of any recorded, be he saint or sinner. His faults are, in like manner, open, frank and unconcealed. What he did, he did above board. To represent him as belonging to a degraded and vicious class of the community, is a great wrong to one who is the embodiment of generosity."

The Peoria Daily Transcript says:—

"If the other charges in relation to Mr. Ingersoll's life and conduct at other places rest on no more substantial basis than do the ones concerning his conduct here, Mr. Braden is simply a monster of lying."

We quote as above in simple justice to Ingersoll. The denunciation of Ingersoll's personal character was not at all necessary to Mr. Braden's argument in favor of Christianity and the Bible. There were some fine old heathens in ancient times; and it would be strange, indeed, if there were not in modern times, and in America—where we breathe the atmosphere of Christianity—some unbelievers of excellent personal character. There have been from the beginning doubters and unbelievers—there was one who lived very near our Lord; but the mass of mankind rests in belief of some kind. It would be sad if belief in Christianity were dependent upon either the personal good character of all who profess not to believe in it or the personal bad character of all who profess not to believe in it. The defence of Christianity and the Bible rests upon much surer ground.

The coal business at Parrsboro' N. S., is evidently looking up. It is said that the company have lately received a number of large orders from the United States, which is owing no doubt to the superior coal they have been shipping of late.

Dr. Burwash on Education.

Rev. Dr. Burwash, of Mount Allison College, occupied the pulpit in the Methodist Church last night. He preached an educational sermon. A very large congregation was present, and listened with rapt attentien to the eloquent discourse.

The Text was Psa. c x l iv :12., "That our sons may be as plants grown up in their youth; that our daughters may be as corner stones, polished after the similitude of a palace;" and the following is an outline of a few of the points made by the Doctor:

The Psalmist is enumerating the good things which go to make a great nation, and asking them for his people Israel. To what does he give the first place? To cattle, crops, houses, and other property? No. He starts with a prayer that the sons and daughters of the land should not be frivolous, but might be trained up aright to be the support and glory of their country.

People are too apt, in weighing a man, to put nothing in the scales but his material riches. With us Anglo-Saxons it is always property, property. Of that, in its various forms, we are always speaking and thinking. You ask: "What is that man worth?" You are told "ten, fifty, or a hundred thousand dollrrs"

No mention of his stalwart sons and amiable daughters, or of his own good qualities of head and heart. This is a great mistake. Our children are the most precious things which God has given us; and, accordingly, to them, to their education and morals, we should devote more time and thought than to any other business.

The objects of education are threefold: to impart knowledge; to discipline the mind; to strengthen the moral character. The educational agencies are domestic, social, and scholastic. The periods during which they act are those of childhood, youth and college life. The family is the only place where the proper foundation for an education can be laid. God grant we may never lose its advantages as a moral safeguard. The family is the social unit. I believe it should also be what it was with the Hebrews, the political unit, and that the heads of families alone should vote.

While a boy is at home he is in a good moral atmosphere, and is not open to doubts. But, when he enters a college, he cuts himself off from all outside influences, and lives in a collegiate atmosphere. This is the time at which his mind begins to grapple with those great questions which must come to every man: Is there a God? what can I know about Him? is this book divine? How essential, then, that this separate atmosphere he breathes should be one pervaded with sound moral principles, and one that will not poison his mind with secularism or infidelity.

During this period, his character is forming; when he goes out into the world it will be formd; a time will come when it will be fixed; and there can be no changing it to all eternity. The higher education, then, should be under the control of the church. For a young man to go into the regions of higher thought, without a saving knowledge of Christ, is like rushing into a black field, full of pit-falls, without a lamp to guide one's feet.

Some people object to this university training. They say it is a mere waste of time; and recommend those engaged in it to go to work and earn their living in some useful way.

They are blind to the facts. No nation can progress without it. Not only is this college study essential to those who are fitting themselves to become the leaders of the people in the professions and sciences, and through these indirectly beneficial to the nation at large, but those very people who complain are directly bettered by it; the food they eat, the cloth they wear, every convenience of life—the very soap with which they wash their dirty faces (that is their faces when they are dirty)—is improved and cheapened, as a result of advanced thought in the arts and sciences.

Others say "What is the good of trying to educate a man into something he cannot be?" We are what our ancestors have made us. We inherit our character." But does there not come to us as our birthright something besides the traits of our forefathers? Does not God give to every man the power of the will with which to mould and fashion those inherited qualities, to battle the weaknesses within himself, and to overcome the difficulties surrounding him?

I would not remove the obstacles from a boy's path. This struggle of the will against his own evil nature, and the hardness of life, is an education in itself. It is this fighting and conquering that form his character.

The young men who go abroad from these Provinces take first rank, and are sought after to fill the most responsible positions. Why? Because they were born and brought up without silver spoons in their mouths; they had to use their will and their brains on all occasions, to get the better of the hardships surrounding them; and so have educated themselves, and are ready for whatever comes to hand.

They have learned the great lesson without which no lasting success can be had, that is, not to be discouraged at difficulties.

AT THE TOP AGAIN.

Island Marksmen Victorious.

THEY LEAD THE DOMNION

In the Telegraph Match.

The Island marksmen have again asserten their superiority over their companions-in-arms throughout the Dominion. On Saturday last they won the telegraph match in competition with some eighteen teams, representing all sections of the country. The excellence of their shooting is the subject of much favorable comment and congratulation to-day.

The telegraph match was arranged by the Montreal Rifle Association as a finale of what, without doubt, has been the most successful season in the history of rifle shooting in Canada. Teams from the leading cities of the Dominion were invited to compete. The prize consists of twenty badges (similar to the Kolapore badge), one for each member of the successful team. The match was shot on Saturday last, and after firing the result was telegraphed to Montreal.

The firing began at Kensington Range on Saturday afternoon, about half-past twelve. The sky was overcast and a moderate breeze was blowing from the left front. During the afternoon there was a slight rainfall, which, however, did not interfere to any extent with the shooting, which, we believe, is equal to any ever made elsewherein the Dominion. The moisture in the atmosphere had a beneficial effect upon the fouling of the rifle, making accurate shooting more easy than it would otherwise have been. The dull grey light was also favorable. Indeed, the weather throughout was all in the marksmens' favor. The match was shot with the Martini rifles. The possible at each range was 35; for the three 105. The team scored 1695 out of a possible 2100. The excellence of the individual work will be seen on examination of the scores below:

MONTREAL'S GREETING.

The following telegram from the Secretary of the Montreal Rifle Association, to whom all the returns were telegraphed, shows what team was successful:—

Montreal, Oct. 6.

Major Dogherty, Secretary Rifle Association:

Accept warmest congratulations from Montreal riflemen. Badges will be forwarded on arrival.

W. R. Pringle,
Acting Secy. M. R. A.

NOTES.

"Our Boys" have won another big victory. What are we going to do about it?

In Hamilton, Ont., the match was shot in a thick fog and rain, and the wind was variable.

Captain J. A. Longworth, No. 2 Battery, was in command of the Charlottetown team. Col. F. Dogherty was range-officer.

At Quebec the weather was cloudy and cold and a strong wind was blowing. The light was dull and the fouling moist. The same remarks apply to Ottawa, Montreal, and one or two of the other places heard from.

The publishers of the Dominion Illustrated are to publish a "telegraph edition," which will contain photographs of the different teams. Every person desirous of securing a copy should make application early.

In Assinboia the match was shot with Snider Rifles. The weather was cold and a strong gale was blowing. The Secretary's tent was blown down three times during the firing. To this high wind is attributed the lowness of the scores.
