Govt. Cold Storage

The freezer is expected to be a big help to the fishing industry as there is a steady and heavy demand for filleted fish when sales of other types are down. The small fish-processing plants of the Province will need only a holding room for the fish while packing them, after that they will be able to bring them to this city where the plant will freeze them and keep in storage at the right temperature until shipped.

Carefully Supervised
The temperatures in all the storage rooms are under strict control and are checked by engineers every two hours through-out the 24-hour day. The rooms vary in size and temperatures with such items as chicken, butter and bait in rooms very cold while cheese is stored in near normal temperature.

Two Guardian representatives were escorted on a tour of the plant yesterday by Mr. Ivan Williams of the staff. Muffled in heavy windbreaker and a cap with ear-lugs Mr. Williams had the advantage. The guide explained the entire storage operation in detail and took the reporters from room to room and from the old building to the new. There were occasional moments between rooms when temperatures in the 50's permitted them to partially thaw out. Mr. Joseph MacEachern of the office staff assisted the reporters in gathering the information needed to complete a picture of operations at the plant.

Curran, who is honorary chairman, has been an honorary member of the Canadian Cancer Society for a number of years and his strong support of the cancer campaign and other worthy causes is well known.

Mr. Charles Linkletter, general chairman, has become particularly well known through his promotion of Schurman's School Parade. He has gained splendid experience and ability in organization through his work in Summerside campaigns. He anticipates a most successful 1951 cancer drive in Summerside.

Mr. Harold Gaudet is special names chairman. Proprietor of the Capitol Theatre and other enterprises, he has been prominent in Kinsmen work and other local campaigns. He was town chairman for the St. Dunstan's University drive, one of the most successful in the history of the Province.

Farmers Hold Meeting At Kinkora Hall

Close to 100 farmers of Kinkora and surrounding districts met in Kinkora Hall last night to hear agricultural problems discussed by Federal Agriculture officials and Mr. W. R. Shaw, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. Earl Duffy. Mr. Shaw discussed market prospects for various farm products and stressed the necessity of farmers supporting their organization in order to gain a measure of control in the marketing field. At the close of his remarks, Mr. Shaw gave a brief outline of his observations in Europe and his impressions of farm organizations in that country.

The meeting heard Messrs. Louis O'Connor, Allison Proffitt and J. L. Dewar discuss the Federation program and stress the necessity of united effort on the part of all farmers.

It was evident that Kinkora farmers who have always been substantial potato growers are strong in their support of the Potato Marketing Board whose chairman and manager, Mr. D. A. MacDonald outlined the past activities of the board and gave an interesting analysis of prospects for the coming season.

Both Mr. Shaw and Mr. MacDonald stressed the fact that reduced production this year would have a favorable effect on markets and quite likely ensure higher prices than had prevailed for the past three years.

Sharp Split In C.C.L. Ranks

VANCOUVER, Sept. 21 - (CP) - A sharp split in the top ranks of the Canadian Congress of Labour was climaxed dramatically tonight when Pat Conroy, national secretary-treasurer and chief executive officer of the 350,000-member C. C. L., tossed in his resignation and stamped out of the Congress convention.

The fiery red-haired Conroy walked out because, he said, the convention had repudiated his judgment in failing to re-elect the C. C. L. executive committee Sam Baron of Hamilton, textile union leader who has been the subject of an intense back-room battle among Congress factions in the last few days.

Earlier C. H. Millard of Toronto, Canadian chief of the 60,000-member United Steel Workers of America—the country's biggest union—refused to run for the vice-presidency because he split with the executive over the Baron issue.

Millard supporters managed to get Baron knocked off the executive in the annual elections that concluded tonight—putting two steelworkers on the executive committee—and Conroy immediately got up and announced he was quitting.

He told the convention he had been the spearhead of the pro-Baron forces and he regarded Baron's beating as a vote of non-confidence in his leadership.

As he stalked out of the hall, the convention of about 600 delegates was thrown into pandemonium. The C. C. L. hadn't seen anything like it in its 12-year history.

Lloyds Of London Win 50-to-1 Bet On Stamp Show

TORONTO, Sept. 21 - (CP) - Lloyds of London today won a 50-to-1 bet at the Canadian International Philatelic Exhibition.

Lloyds gave those odds last year to organizers of the show of $15,000,000 worth of stamps against a general war's breaking out before the exhibition opened today.

More than 14,000 stamp collectors converged on the Canadian National Exhibition's automotive building for the first day of the display that closes Sept. 29.

The show marks the 700th anniversary of the issue of the first Canadian postage stamp, designed by Sir Sandford Fleming in 1851.

The Governor-General opened the display which includes part of the King's personal collection, some of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's and a new issue of stamps commemorating the Canadian anniversary.

Viscount Alexander was 25 minutes late for the ceremony from Ottawa because the plane carrying him and engine trouble, turned back and was replaced by another aircraft. Belgian Ambassador Vicomte du General, whose only claim to philatelic fame is his job as collector of stamps for his daughter Rose, said: "The stamp today is the art culture and even history of a nation can be displayed."

The display is the first of its kind held in the Commonwealth outside the United Kingdom.

the old Communist build-up triangle.

With elements of three divisions, it was one of the heaviest tank-infantry assaults of the war. Field dispatches reported it accomplished its first objective—to shoot up all Communist strongpoints and then withdraw.

Resistance varied. The Chinese Reds fought like demons against two tank-tipped forces. There was only light opposition to the third force.

Churchill Fit, Alert For Election Tussle

By FRASER WIGHTON LONDON, Sept. 21 - (Reuters) - With a national election close at hand many wonder what changes the years have worked with Winston Churchill since he was Britain's great wartime Prime Minister.

Churchill will be 77 in November. Those close to "Winnie" say his mental and physical powers are virtually undiminished.

Even the attacks of pneumonia which brought him down in the years of his war leadership have left a robust frame unimpaired. He is slightly deaf and sometimes sits scowling in the House of Commons with a hand cupped around his ear.

Churchill makes heavy demands on his constitution, smoking heavily and eating richly though he has not an excessive appetite.

He wakes early, and though he likes breakfast in bed, he works as he eats. His breakfast tastes are varied, and he has a weakness for an occasional partridge as his first meal of the day.

The famous Churchill cigars are always within reach. But though he smokes considerably, his consumption of tobacco is not so heavy as cartoonists suggest. Some of those who know him well say he wastes as much as he smokes.

Out of bed well before 9 A.M., he throws himself into work at a pace that keeps his big entourage of secretaries and other staff on the go.

With plunging step he moves about, dictating and conferring. Churchill seems to gain in energy as the day goes on, and his activity builds up to a climax when other people are thinking of going to bed.

He thinks nothing of following up a late dinner with five or six hours of dictation and conferences, finishing in the early hours of the morning much fresher than colleagues half his age.

But there is a break in his day whenever he can manage it. He has made it a rule to have a nap after lunch.

Admiring Looks Only For Posh Mink Coats

HARROGATE, England, Sept. 21 (CP)—Canadian mink coats flown to this Yorkshire town from Paris caused gasps of astonishment among women buyers. The prices were in the four-figure bracket.

Examples included a natural Canadian silverblu mink coat costing £4,500, a natural Canadian wild mink at £4,200 and a silverblu short jacket costing £3,170.

Cheapest furs in the collection were priced at £800 and £640.

"Plenty of women in this area can afford expensive furs," said T. J. Paterson, manager of the Harrogate store who organized the show. "But no inquiries were made."

"English women are so defeatist about furs," said E.J. Jacobs, Paris representative of the furriers.

Harrogate, a watering-place with wide, terraced streets, has long been a favorite residential area for wealthy factory owners in the industrial midlands. That is why it was chosen for a show of the type of furs usually seen only in London and Paris.
