

SEASON OF REBIRTH

BY MARC

Proclaimed as a season of renewal and rebirth
But is this not the beginning of the end of life upon earth

For once again the religious factions war in the Holy Lands
And soon young men will stand
In the hot sands of a foreign land gun in hand
Fighting for a millennia-old conflict
They can not possibly understand

Be this not our last hour
For in the west a false prophet has taken power
Who promotes deadly weapons
And death to criminals who have lost their way
Indeed it looms near our judgement day

Nostradamus's prophecies will prove to be provocations
Causing the weak minded to kill leaders in assassinations
Blood will flow poisoning the ground with contamination
And our eternal damnation
Causing an ovation of sinners in all nations
To plead for salvation
But for too long evil has been their occupation
As well as a fascination with satan

Astrologists tremble as they make predictions in the stars
December 25 the day of saturn but should it not be mars
The god of war
The color of red

To avoid the bloodshed
Into their car
From the city they fled
But escape is impossible

As he let loose the plague from biochemical labs
Filling every hospital
But death does not come quick
And there is no cure for those who sick

Fortunate are they who die under the sheets in peace
For anarchy pillaging and looting in the streets increase
The few governing officials that remain
Are demented having lost their senses and half insane
They turn to the only defenses that remain

The last infraction
Man's final destructive action
With the world divided in faction
The nuclear holocaust erupts in a chain reaction

Never again will life grow
The deadly fallout rains down like snow
Spreading destruction in all directions
The four winds blow

Floods fires earthquakes and storms of ice
All prelude to the arrival of the antichrist
