McSHANE'S DEFEAT

A Heavy Blow to the People's Jimmy.

Mercier and His Gang to be Arrested.

SEVERE SNOW STORM IN LONDON

[SPECIAL TO THE GUARDIAN.]

MONTREAL, March 9.—The conservatives swept the province yesterday, assisted by a large body of liberals who disapproved of Mercier's methods. There were 53 conservatives and 20 liberals elected. Only Mercier and Shehyn were elected out of the old government. The return of six conservatives from Montreal was unexpected. Mayor McShane's defeat was a severe blow to "the peoples Jimmy." It is the alleged intention of Attorney General Casgrain to immediately take out warrants for the arrest of Mercier and others and prosecute them to the utmost extent of the law.

Under Consideration.

OTTAWA, March 9.—In the house yesterday, Hon. Mr. Foster to'd Mr. Perry that the question of building a tunnel under the Northumberland straits was still under consideration.

Church Burned.

BOSTON, March 9.—A portion of the Mission Church of the Redemptorist fathers, at Roxbury, was burned to-day. Costly vestments and silver plates were lost.

Ethel Osborne Sentenced.

FLORENCE, March 9.—Ethel Osborne today pleaded guilty and was sentenced to nine months imprisonment with hard labor.

Judge Wetmore Buried.

FREDERICTON, March 9.—Judge Wetmore was buried to-day. The funeral was a very large and representative one.

Snow Storm in England.

LONDON, March 9.—A heavy snow prevails in London and other parts of the United Kingdom.

Waldo Adams Dying.

BOSTON, March 9.—Waldo Adams of Adams Express is dying.

Actor Shot Dead.

BOSTON, March 8.—Fayette Welch, an actor, was this morning shot and killed by William F. Flannery, a variety performer, professionally known as William J. Gould. The parties and Mrs. Flannery had a discussion, during which Welch called Mrs. Flannery hard names. Flannery asked for a retraction, and failing to get it, he fired as he was approaching him in a threatening manner.

Flannery made no attempt to escape, and was arrested. He is 28, and Welch is about 10 years older.

A Desperado Captured.

A man by the name of John McKenna, a native, I believe, of Kings County, whose violent and unlawful acts have rendered him notorious in the neighborhood which he frequents, has been arrested. He has on several occasions eluded the vigilence of the officers of the law, and when captured has more than once escaped from their hands. He was arrested at Cardigan last Wednesday, and committed to the County Jail, and on Saturday last, 5th inst., was brought before Wm. P. Lewis and A. C. Stewart, justices of the peace, and committed for trial in the Supreme Court for breaking into the dwelling of Mrs. McAree, on Baldwin's Road—breaking the doors and causing the inmates to escape thr ugh the window to save their lives, as they believed, so violent were the threats he made to take their lives. This took place on the 3rd October last, and he was arrested, after a desperate resistance, by the constables shortly after the occurrence, but effected his escape and left the province. He returned quite recently, and began to raid other dwellings and to commit other lawless acts.

In addition to the above, there were three sworn complaints against him; one for assault and battery, one for malicious injury to property, and the third for violent threats. He pleaded guilty to the two former charges, and was fined and committed for default of payment of fines and costs. In the latter he was ordered to find sureties to keep the peace. Verily, "the way of the transgressor is hard."—COM.

Georgetown, March 7, 1892.

Mr. Bain's Lecture.

Mr. Bain announced that the subject for the night was "The stem of a plant, its forms and functions." He directed attention to an illustration of a kidney bean, and explained the different parts, specially the caulicle. This caulicle grows upwards, forming the stem of the plant. The points from which the leaves spring are called nodes, these nodes are easily seen in grasses, and are either entire or divided, according as they wholly or partially encircle the stock. Spaces between the nodes are called internodes. From the nodes spring the buds and, from them the branches. A branch grows by the development of its terminal bud.

In speaking of herbacious or succulent stems, the lecturer said they were annuals, and the largest native plant he knew was the Blue Lettuce. In speaking of hairs, he said that each one was simply the extension of a cell beyond its companions.

He also spoke briefly of the culm of a grass, and showed that while a scape springs from the root, bearing a flower, the peduncle springs from the stalk.

Many stems of plants are under ground. Gray says that "these are almost as varied and interesting as those above ground."

A great many of our native plants grow from swollen under-ground stems.

The two divisions of woody stems are Exogens and Endogens. Of these the Exogens grow from the outside, forming annual rings, and have a pith and a true bark, while the Endogens grew in the centre and have no true pith nor true bark. The bark of our common white birch is closely allied with the cork of commerce. In Exogens the growth takes place just inside the bark. The necessity of plant-life and that for which the plant will struggle is air and light. Mr. Bain spoke of some Endogens having annual rings and being considerably like Exogens.

On the question being asked "Does Nature make no provision for the return of surplus sap?" Mr. B. stated that the circulation down the sides of the stalk was only caused by the work going on in the cells, and quite unlike the process which carries sap from the roots to the leaves.

The class-work after the lecture was conducted by questions and answers referring to the different forms of flowers.

COM.

Fidelity Lodge.

To the Editor of the Guardian:

SIR,—Our postponed basket social, musical and literary entertainment came off on Saturday evening, 5th inst., and was fairly successful. Owing to the almost impassable state of the roads but few of our distant friends were in attendance. The number of baskets furnished by heads of families is encouraging, inasmuch as it indicates that the majority of the people in this vicinity are favorably disposed toward Fidelity Lodge, and that they still regard it, at the least, as a representative Lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars, notwithstanding the belittleing appelation which was bestowed upon it in the public press by one of its would be friends. The performers acquitted themselves with the skill of professionals, and where all did so well special notice would be unfair. The stage fixings and the order and harmony with which everything was conducted made the managing committee deserving of much thanks and praise. About ten dollars was realized from the sale of baskets.

Entertainment at Stanhope.

The new hall at Stanhope was crowded on Monday evening to listen to a rare treat in the form of readings, recitation, etc., given by the members of "Reform" Division, York.

For a long time the settlement has felt the need of a public hall, and the members of Blooming Heather Division wishing to hold a public entertainment on their first night in the hall, invited the members of "Reform" to come and give such a one as they are famed for, and it was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Worthy Patriach, Bro. Enman occupied the chair and the following program was very successfully carried out:—

Singing, Members of Division.
Recitation, Miss Lottie Deacon.
Solo on temperance, Mr. George Ayers.
Recitation, Miss Emily Ayers.
Quartette, Mrs. G. & J. Crockett, & Messrs. L. & G. Crockett.
Recitation, Miss Hattie Brown, Miss Rena Large.
Reading, Mr. Thomas Vessey.
Song, Members.
Recitation, Miss Lillie Gill.
Dialogue, Messrs. W. & F. Bryenton.
Recitation, Mr. Melville Deacon.
Speech & Reading, Mr. Geo. Crockett.
Recitation, Miss Aggie Vessey, Mr. Enman.
Singing, Members.
Recitation, Mr. Geo. Ayers.
Speech, Mr. Wallace Bryenton.
Singing, Members.
Recitation, Miss Clara Alexander.
Speech, Chairman.

There were several others on the programme who did not take part as the hour was getting late.

At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was given to Reform Division for their excellent entertainment. Their perseverance in driving so far on such bad roads is certainly worthy of praise.

After singieg "God Save the Queen," the crowd dispered well pleased with their evening's entertainment.—COM.

AN advertising pamphlet of about 64 pages, will shortly be issued by Mr. John Ross, proprietor of the "Magic Healer" Salve, one half of which will be devoted to some sketches of his public career, in the various professions in which he has been engaged, especially while publishing Ross's Weekly, in supporting the Tenant League agitation to it completion, his attitude in favor of the Railway movement, and recent success in placing the "Magic Healer" Salve before the public. That portion of the "Reminiscences" which we examined, promises to be very interesting to the people of this colony, especially those who remember the different incidents of that exciting season, known as the Tenant League period. We bespeak for it a good sale.

The Mutual Life's Report for 1891.

The Forty-ninth Annual Report of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, shows the extent of its operations during the past year, and its financial condition on December 31st, 1891. Each successive report has usually been declared to be "the best in the history of the Company." The report for 1891 is no exception, demonstrating as it does the increasing popularity of the Mutual Life and the extension of the benefits conferred upon those who hold its policies. The assets now amount in the aggregate to $159,507,138.68, and the liabilities to $147,476,171.52. The surplus fund for the payment of dividends and to insure the policy-holder against every emergency amounts to $12,030,967.16. See ad. in another column.
