Father Macleod Celebrates His First Mass.

Rev. Chas. A. Macleod, formerly of this city, was ordained a member of the Redemptorist order on Wednesday, June 25th, by the Right Rev. J. J. Glennon, of Kansas City, Mo. After the ordination, accompanied by a young priest ordained with him, Father Macleod set out for Boston where he arrived on Friday, the 27th ult.

Sunday morning, in the midst of relatives and friends, he celebrated his first holy mass in St. Joseph's church, Roxbury. After mass the entire congregation proceeded to the altar rail to receive the blessing of the young missionary. At 10.30 Father O'Regan, who was ordained with Father Macleod, celebrated Solemn High Mass in the Mission Church, Roxbury. At this mass Father Macleod officiated as sub-deacon. The decorations for the occasion were elaborate. Thousands of electric lights shined their mellow rays on the heads of those young missionaries, who in all probability are visiting Boston for the last time.

Father Sheehan, the well-known orator of the Redemptorists in Boston, preached an able and appropriate sermon on the priesthood. In the evening at 7.45, Father Macleod sang solemn Vespers and Benediction.

Thursday evening, August 2nd, at his mother's residence, 36 Highland St., Roxbury, a reception will be tendered the young priest by his relatives and friends.

Father Macleod is a son of the late James Macleod, tailor, of this city. Eleven years ago he left Charlottetown to enter the Redemptorist College in Kansas City, Mo., and after this long and trying course of studies he has finally attained the summit of his ambition. Blessed with a healthy constitution, and a shadow which is continually growing larger, he is in every way fitted to undertake the arduous duties of a missionary in the Western States. Father Macleod leaves Boston for Kansas City on Tuesday, August 7th.

SAD DEATH AT SUMMERSIDE

James Houghton Takes His Life

SHOT HIMSELF WITH A REVOLVER LAST NIGHT.

Inquest Being Held To-Day - Synopsis of Evidence.

About eight o'clock last evening, Mr. James Houghton, proprietor of the Campbell Hotel, Summerside, committed suicide by shooting himself. Mr. Houghton came from California some years ago, and was well known throughout the province. The tragedy was a great shock to the community and much sympathy is expressed for his wife and family.

An inquest was held at Summerside this morning by Robt. S. Bowness, Coroner, and the following jury: W. H. Barnard, foreman, Robt. L. Roncke, Chas. D. Strong, Kenneth Ellis, Joan A. McKay, John Matheson, Daniel McNeill.

Proceeding first to the Campbell Hotel the evidence of the dead man's widow, was taken as follows:

Mrs. Houghton, (sworn)—I am the widow of the deceased. For the past six weeks he had been a teetotaler but on Sunday I noticed he had been drinking. Since then he has been acting strangely. His mind appeared to be deranged and he ate nothing. He seemed to be suffering remorse for having returned to drinking. I believe he was out of his mind for the past two days. On Monday night he went to bed fairly early, but woke up suddenly and asked me if I did not see the man in the room trying to drown him. I tried to soothe him and after a while he fell asleep.

In the morning he said he was all right and started to dress himself, then came down stairs. I tried to prevent his going out but he went to Jack Croke's. He came back at dinner time looking terribly bad and with a fearful look upon his face as if he had made up his mind to do something desperate. He ate no dinner but slept about two hours. He then went back to Jack Croke's and stayed there all afternoon. He returned between seven and eight o'clock and sat down on the lower step of the stair leading to the third story. He picked up the little baby and asked it for a kiss. The child refused and he said "Won't you give poor old Jimmie a kiss for the last time." At this time I was turning on the electric light in the hall eight feet away from him. I heard the crack of a revolver and saw him fall sideways. I never knew him to carry a revolver and did not know he had one. I am strongly of the opinion that his mind was deranged.

The inquest was then adjourned to the Board of Trade rooms, where a number of other witnesses were examined: They testified to hearing the shot fired and to seeing the deceased after the wound had been inflicted. Dr. McPhail examined the wound shortly after the act had been committed and testified that when he arrived he had found deceased lying on the floor. Breathing had ceased, but the pulse beat for a little while.

Harry Fraser, a clerk at D. Rogers', sold Houghton a revolver that morning—Would not swear that weapon produced was the identical one sold; but thought so. Inquest adjourned until 2 o'clock.

HORSE DROWNED—Yesterday afternoon a horse belonging to Mr. T. J. Morris was drowned at the Ferry wharf. He was harnessed to the delivery wagon, and was standing on the wharf facing the river. Another horse was driven past him, and at this he began to back. The wagon turned to the right, and the hind wheels were over the side of the wharf before the driver, who had been away from the wagon, could secure the bridle. The driver did all he could to prevent the horse from backing, but failed. Horse and wagon went into the water. The wagon remained upright, but the horse somehow turned over on his back. Aid was slow in coming, and when a boat was secured and the horse towed ashore it was too late to save his life.
