

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 6, 1888.

Editorial Notes.

Seven or eight hundred Icelanders will settle in Manitoba this year, no Government assistance being given, the emigrants all paying their own travelling fares, though the Icelandic residents of Manitoba have contributed 20,000 kroner, equal to £1,008, towards the passage money.

It is with great regret we learn of the death of Dugald McNutt, Esq., of the firm of D. & P. McNutt, of Malpeque. Mr. McNutt died yesterday afternoon. He has been a great sufferer the past two or three years from neuralgia. By his death the community in which he lived has suffered a heavy loss, and the Conservative party in this Province a staunch friend and influential supporter.

The city of Toronto is to have a College for women. The new College is to be under the government of the Senate of the McMaster University. To an active member of the Senate, the editor of the C. E. M. said, "I hope the College for women will be Christian, but not sectarian," he replied, "it will be as Catholic as Queen's University, Kingston." It is expected that the new institution will afford women the highest culture under the best conditions.

The Rev. Mr. Cobb of Flushing, Long Island, recently addressed the Alumni Association of Union Seminary, New York; and in the course of his remarks spoke as follows:—

"It was a matter of statistics that the greatest amount of crime was where public education was general. Comparing Massachusetts with Virginia, while the greatest illiteracy (among the white population) existed in the latter, the larger proportion of crime was in the former. The same was true of Connecticut and Alabama. Knowledge was power, but the power could be used both ways for good or for evil. It made the person more capable of committing crime. With education must be inculcated obedience to the Commandments of God."

We learn that Mr. Leslie E. McLeod, the well-known assistant editor of Wallace's Monthly, was selected, a few weeks ago, by the Hon. Norman J. Colman, Commissioner of Agriculture for the United States, to write an exhaustive article on the tanning horse of America, for the annual report of the Department of Agriculture. Mr. McLeod may well feel complimented and pleased, considering that many older and more experienced horsemen were available, and would have been glad of the mark of distinction which the highest agricultural authority in the great Republic has placed upon him. Having obtained the respect of such men as Mr. Colman, Mr. McLeod can afford to treat with contempt the disparagement of anonymous scribblers and others in his native land.

A good deal of feeling was evoked last evening by the fact that postage stamps could not be purchased in the town. The vendor of postage stamps has been discharged, the office in the corridor closed, and not a stamp could be obtained at the registration wicket after six o'clock. This may seem of little of the Postal Department a small matter; and so it is. But it affects, every day, large numbers of citizens, sends them running over the town to the drug stores and hotels, and causes trouble and annoyance. The vendor's wicket in the corridor should be reopened at once, if not by a vendor who sells on commission, by one of the post office clerks. In other cities stamps are easily obtainable, and letters are carried to the residences of the citizens to whom they are directed. But we in Charlottetown can neither get stamps as we want them nor have our letters taken to our doors.

There are five presidential tickets in the field in the United States. First in importance are the Democratic and Republican nominees, Cleveland and Thurman and Harrison and Morton. In the second place are the Prohibitionists with Clinton B. Fiske and John A. Brooks as standard bearers, and the United Labor party with Robert H. Cowdrey and W. H. Wakefield as first and second place men. Last of all is the Equal Rights aggregation, who are fighting under the banner of Belva Ann Lockwood and Alfred H. Love, with Belva probably the best man of the two. Neither the Prohibitionists nor the labor party hope for any good results. The one is encouraged by the Democrats as likely to draw votes from the Republicans, and the other by the Republicans in the hope that it will do a like kind turn to the administration party, and it is openly hinted that the money that keeps the Fiske and Cowdrey beams going comes from men who have not the slightest sympathy with the aims of either.

Methodist Conference.

N. B. AND P. E. ISLAND CONFERENCE.

(Special Correspondence of The Examiner.)

WEDNESDAY, July 4.

CLOSING DAY.

After singing, prayer was offered by Rev. John Prince and Mr. Henry Rackham. On motion, the Mayor and Corporation of Moncton were thanked for the free use of the Opera House for evangelistic services.

In answer to the question, what ministers have died during the year? it was reported none. This was deemed a matter for gratitude. Conference sang "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," and one of the ministers led in prayer.

Conference Special Committee was formed as follows: President and Secretary of Conference, Chairmen of Districts, Rev. H. Pickard, D. D., C. Stewart, D. D., S. T. Teed, R. Wilson and John Read.

Conference proceeded to order of the day. The state of the work. Records on the subject from the district books were read.

Then a most profitable conversation ensued. Dr. Wilson and Dr. Pope spoke for the St. John District. Open air meetings had been held with great success.

Rev. John Read reported for the Fredericton District. There had been no great revivals, but substantial work had been done with a fair amount of success.

Rev. J. S. Allen reported a good work from the Sackville District. In some circuits band workers had been laboring; in others, results equally successful had been obtained without them.

Rev. G. M. Campbell reported from the St. Stephen District. There had been much to encourage during the year.

Rev. Geo. Steele reported from the P. E. Island District. Ordinary methods and regular services had been successful.

The year had been, on the whole, one of steady progress.

After prayer by Rev. H. Daniel, Conference proceeded to other matters.

Rev. W. W. Brewer presented report from the Evangelistic Committee. It created a discussion in which several took part. Report recommended the setting apart of a Conference Evangelist.

The following spoke against it: Revs. H. Daniel, John Read, Geo. Steele, Job Shenton and R. S. Crisp. Favoring it were, Revs. R. W. Weddall, D. D. Moore, A. C. LePage and W. B. Thomas.

Eventually, an amendment, moved by Rev. T. Marshall and seconded by Dr. Pope, to the effect that we set apart a Conference Evangelist as soon as it may be deemed desirable, was carried by a large majority.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

After singing prayer was offered by Rev. G. Steel.

Journal was read. On motion of Rev. G. Steel a letter of brotherly regard was ordered to be sent to Rev. R. Duncan now residing in the States.

Rev. J. Read moved a resolution in favor of abolishing the annual Conference collection. Quite a lively discussion ensued. Motion was lost.

Rev. L. T. Johnson reported from the Children's Fund. There were 207 claimants, requiring $7,160. Assessment on the circuits for the next year was read. Remarks were made by Rev. J. F. Estey, J. Shenton, and C. Evans. Report passed without amendment. Rev. F. Allen reported from the committee to disburse Conference collection.

Table with columns: Total expenses, Income, Deficit. Values: $358 80, 195 75, $163 05.

Deficiency for each delegate $1.55. Report passed.

On motion of Rev. J. Shenton an amendment was made to the Sustentation Fund Constitution. It was to the effect that the appropriation of it should be confined to the ministers on missions until their salaries should reach the amount paid to ministers on semi-independent circuits. Considerable discussion took place. Amendments were moved by Revs. T. Marshall and John Read. Several ministers took part in the conversation. Mr. Shenton's motion passed.

On a second ballot Rev. C. Evans was elected representative to the Missionary Board, Rev. J. Read coming very close to him. Minutes of Conference were read. President and Secretary of Conference signed the same—all the clergy standing. Between 30 and 40 delegates were present when minutes were signed.

After prayer by Rev. E. Evans and Dr. Wilson, the President pronounced benediction about 4.15. A free and hearty hand-shaking and a most profitable Conference closed.

Services for praise and prayer have been held at 6 a. m., conducted by Revs. Geo. Steele, W. J. Kirby, W. W. Lodge, W. W. Brewer, J. C. Berrie and R. W. Weddell, B. A., and Mr. Henry Rackham. These have been most profitable. Many speak of these as the most refreshing they have ever attended.

A temperance meeting, very largely attended, was held, with Rev. J. Shenton in the chair, on Tuesday Evening. Speeches full of humor and point were delivered by N. Peardon and H. Rackham, Esqs., and by Revs. J. C. Berrie and W. Lawson.

Will Filed.

The will of the late Ralph Brecken, Esq., was filed in the Probate Court yesterday afternoon. It is dated October 12, 1883, and is witnessed by F. de St. C. Brecken and B. F. Messervy. Probate is granted his son, Rev. Ralph Brecken, sole executor.

To his wife, Phoebe Brecken, he leaves all his household furniture, etc., and an annuity of $500 a year, payable quarterly, during her life, in lieu of dower.

To his son, Joseph R. Brecken, he gives in trust for his two children, $6,000.

The residue of all his real and personal estate he leaves to his son, Rev. Ralph Brecken, absolutely.

Murdered and Outraged.

RICHMOND, July 5. The body of Lillie Powell, aged 19, daughter of Rev. F. Powell, of this place, has been found near Danville, with her throat cut, and bearing evidence of having been outraged. The girl was visiting the family of a farmer named Buchanan, and met her father while returning alone at night from a Salvation Army meeting.

Things One Doesn't Like to See.

I don't like to see the watering cart out so seldom. There's dust enough flying about to keep the cart actively engaged day and night.

I don't like to see young men racing about the sidewalks on bicycles. It may be fun for the riders, but it is dangerous for pedestrians.

I don't like to see three or four girls march up the sidewalk abreast, compelling the male pedestrian to take to the street to let them pass. Such conduct shows a lack of manners to say the least.

I don't like to see so much fast driving on our principal streets. So great is this nuisance that at times it is positively dangerous to cross the street. The police should move in the matter of abating the nuisance.

I don't like to see so many drunken men and boys reeling about our streets. It shows that liquor of a very intoxicating character is freely sold contrary to the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act. Temperance men should try to effect a reform in this direction.

I don't like to see so many changes made in the postal service. The last change prohibits the sale of registration stamps after 6 p. m., greatly to the inconvenience of many persons who cannot get to the office during the day. The public are certainly entitled to better accommodation, in this respect at least, than they are getting.

I don't like to see so many young men standing about the street corners during the day and evening, chewing tobacco and indulging in language not fit for the ears of respectable people. If persons must chew tobacco they should do so where their expectorations will not disgust everyone but themselves.

I don't like to see a girl munch candy or any other species of confectionery at an entertainment. Such conduct is very reprehensible.

I don't like to see a person who is fair to one's face and deceitful behind one's back. Such people may flourish for a time, but their actions tell on them when they least expect it.

I don't like to hear one woman tell another that her bonnet or dress looks charming, and in the next breath rush off and tell her friends that So-and-So has a new bonnet or dress which makes her look a perfect fright. Next to having something new herself, there's nothing the average woman likes so well as to ridicule what some other person wears.

I don't like to see a rich man dress shabbily because he is rich, any more than I like to see a poor man dress flashily in order to create the impression that he is well off in this world's goods.

I don't like to see the newest and consequently the slowest clerks in the Post Office placed at the delivery wicket during a rush after the arrival of the foreign mail, while the older clerks stalk about talking horse or politics.

I don't like to see a bank official or Government employe who draws a large salary, live so high that he is never out of debt, while the hard-working mechanic jogs along comfortably on $8 or $10 a week. The two should change places for a while.

I don't like to see intelligent persons argue in favor of predestination because one man escapes all the ills that flesh is heir to and is finally killed by a train, or another passes unscathed through several wars and finally succumbs to whooping cough or measles.

I don't like to see the habit some persons have of tying their horses to the ornamental trees planted throughout the city. If an example were made of some of the offenders there would be less of such conduct in the future.

I don't like to see the way some people have of sacrificing the comforts and pleasures of life in order that they may amass money. Such people are of little use to the community in which they live, and after their death their relatives recklessly squander the money which they strived so hard to obtain.

I don't like to see people who disapprove of lectures or entertainments hang about the neighborhood of the hall or theatre wherein the lecture or entertainment is in progress, trying to steal a look at the lecturer or see or hear what is going on. Last night a great many people took up positions on the Square outside Market Hall during the progress of the lecture, when they could have heard the whole discourse for fifteen cents. But of course it was not the admission fee that kept them outside; it was principle.

I don't like to see people when speaking of another person who is present, refer to him or her as "he" or "she," or indicate the individual spoken of by a nod of the head or a jerk of the thumb. It is much better and just as easy to call the person by name.

I don't like to see a person going about town with his hands in his pockets complaining about the way he has been used by certain other persons, instead of setting about doing something which would give the parties injuring him to understand that he can live comfortably without their assistance.

I don't like to see our people allow themselves to be taken in by every foreigner who happens to cast his lot with us for a brief period. If we were to assist ourselves more and foreigners less, the community would be much better off.

Supreme Court.

JULY 5.

John Regan vs. John H. G. Murphy.—Action for assault. Verdict for plaintiff for $40. Peters & Peters for plaintiff; McLean & McDonald for defendant.

Michael Laverty vs. Lucius O. Kelly.—Mr. Hazard for plaintiff moves, and Mr. McLean for defendant consents, that judgment be entered for plaintiff, for $37.64. Court ordered it to be so.

John Reid vs. City of Charlottetown.—Action for damages sustained by falling into a cellar left unprotected after the fire on Kent Street. Peters & Peters for plaintiff; R. R. Fitzgerald, Q. C., for defendant. Now being tried.

—Earl Spencer, in a recent speech at Thornbury, said that the Government had fallen in one of its principal objects, namely to crush the National League, the subscribed to which are as numerous and the influence of which is as great as ever. Repression, he said, would do more harm than good in Ireland, but if the policy of representative institutions were tried it would succeed.
