

NEW BRIDGE Souris Cariva Gets Underway

Western Area Central Districts

The Guardian, Charlottetown, Thurs., Jan. 30, 1964. 3

SOURIS — The Souris Dramatic Society is planning a busy season.

It will present a three-act play "The Wayward Kids" at the school on Friday at 8:30 and on Saturday at 2:30. The play is a production of the Provincial Drama Festival in Summerside, a three-act comedy "Look Who's Here" in Souris on Saturday at 8:30, and two one-act plays for an Easter presentation, "A Pair of Lunatics" and "Barabas".

Representatives of Central Mortgage and Housing, and Municipal Development Loan Board arrived at the Charlottetown Hotel last evening as part of their Maritime tour to discuss local problems. They are from left to right: R.F. George, manager, Central Mortgage and Housing, Moncton;

J.M. White, Central Mortgage and Housing, head office, Ottawa; Wendall MacKay, deputy provincial secretary who met the sisters, and J.C. Kerr, Municipal Development Loan Board, Ottawa.

Reports that some federal government officials are opposed to including railway facilities on the proposed P.E.I. causeway, is creating a measure of concern here. Premier Walter R. Shaw said yesterday:

"It certainly wasn't our idea of what the causeway was going to be," he said.

"I would think that the argument against a rail line is based on two factors — cost and actual need."

"A large amount of material goes in and out of this province by rail," Premier Shaw said, "and serious consideration should be given to this before any suggestion is made that rails be eliminated."

"The provision of rail on the causeway would add several million dollars to the cost of the project. It certainly would be ill advised to use rail to replace that service here."

The judges for the Carnival Queen Contest will be John Mullally, MP for Kings, Mrs. Edward Kasner, and Mrs. Jacques Gallant. The judging will take place today and the winner will be announced and crowned by Mr. Mullally at the Hootenanny.

Mr. Mullally will officially open the carnival before the basketball game tonight at 7:30. The carnival will continue on the agenda in the form of a sleigh race between classes. Each class will carry the class's home room teacher and

HOUSING, MUNICIPAL LOAN OFFICIALS HERE

Representatives of Central Mortgage and Housing, and Municipal Development Loan Board arrived at the Charlottetown Hotel last evening as part of their Maritime tour to discuss local problems. They are from left to right: R.F. George, manager, Central Mortgage and Housing, Moncton;

Acadians Parade Plan Centennial Mardi Gras

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

An Acadian "Mardi Gras" sponsored by the Acadians of Summerside as their project for Centennial Year, will be staged on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the first meeting of the Fathers of Confederation.

The Mardi Gras celebration will begin Saturday evening, Feb. 27, at the Grand Hotel in P.E.I. The parade will be held on the old time music will be under the direction of Toussaint Arsenault, the 1963 P.E.I. fiddling champion. Dancing will be directed by Frank Arsenault, USA DREX.

Couples are invited to wear their best 1864 dress, as prizes will be given for the best attire. There will be singing, step-dancing, old-time and modern dancing. The evening's celebrations are sponsored by the Assumption Society.

Efforts Of Private Industry Said Best For Development

The annual meeting of the P.E.I. Builders' Exchange was held last evening in the Charlottetown Legion Home. Charles P. MacLeod, president, invited guests enjoyed dinner and dancing between the architectural and engineering professions were in attendance.

The dinner speaker was Mr. Daley who discussed construction activity on the Island and the development of industry in this province.

He stressed that industrial development can be best achieved by the efforts of private industry and pointed out the need for the proper attitude to accomplish this.

Mr. Daley acknowledged that the province is deficient in transportation facilities, industrial sites for the erection of plants and in trained workmen.

A. Profit Heads Crop Ins. Agency

In a re-organization of the provincial Crop Insurance Agency, Allison Profit, Freetown, has been appointed manager, replacing W.M. Melish, Charlottetown. Agriculture Minister, Andrew B. MacIver announced the change.

Edison Drake, Vernon, is chairman of the agency, while St. Patrick's Day, and two one-act plays for an Easter presentation, "A Pair of Lunatics" and "Barabas".

200 French Families to Relocate

The French families repatriated from Algeria will settle in this province. The French government has to find farms in Canada for 1,000 families. Agriculture Minister A.W. MacKenzie indicated yesterday up to 100 families could be settled in this province without difficulty.

Trinity United Church, S'side Has Growth In Membership

SUMMERSIDE — The annual meeting of Trinity United Church, Summerside was held Tuesday evening at a good attendance.

Rev. C.R. Webber conducted a memorial service for the names of deceased members of the church. In respect to their names, minutes of prayer were observed with prayer by the pastor.

E.M. Hutchinson, treasurer, submitted the financial report for the 1963 year, which revealed the church to be in a healthy condition. Total receipts from all services was over $46,000.

Contributions to Missionary and Maintenance Fund was over $13,000 which represents another high in this phase of church activity. Total church membership is now over 1,000 members.

Mr. Webber and Dr. L.P. Archibald made some 2,000 visits during the year.

Members received from the minister, trustees, stewards, United Church Women, student assistance fund, AOTS Men's Club, Young People's Union, CGIT, Christian Education, Sunday School, Taxis group, Sigma-C, Explorers, Messengers, and cradle roll.

Nominated to the committee of stewards for three years were: Harold J. Macze, Robert Simpson, Thomas Bagdie, Wesley Westwood, and Earl M. Atkinson, Hubert W. Cooper, Wesley MacPhee and Mrs. John Scott.

Large Group Of YPCs Leaves Today

TORONTO (CP) — Observers estimated that 14,000 young people will leave today for the 1964 Young People's Conference in Toronto.

The delegates are expected to arrive in Toronto on Friday and conclude Sunday.

The Island delegation, headed by provincial president Arthur McInnis, consists of: James Leung, president of YPC, Queens County association; David Hyndman, Harold MacDonald, George Hall, 1963 YPC president, and Mrs. Welfrum MacLaughlin, Robert Jorganson and Mrs. Arthur Campbell.

The delegates expect that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD THREE

FRANK ZAKEM

- Age 32
- Married
- Bachelor of Arts
- Bachelor of Commerce
- First class teacher's qualification
- Taught at P.W.C. and S.D.U.
- Ten years business experience
- On board of directors of C.M.H.A. and the Boy Scout Association

IF YOU THINK I CAN BE OF SERVICE TO WARD THREE AND TO THE CITY

YOUR VOTE WOULD BE APPRECIATED

Permit Cancellation Is Declared Improper

Judge C. St. Clair Trainer yesterday found the cancellation by the Liquor Control Commission of the Southampton Club's permit for the sale and possession of beer and spirits to be improper because he felt the commission's action was not in accordance with its own by-laws.

During the session, which was held in court, the commission's action was found to be in violation of its own by-laws. Allison M. Gillis, representing the club, pointed out that the commission's duties specify that it set up as an independent commission which must exercise proper discretion in suspending or cancelling a permit. This power cannot be exercised by anyone else.

He noted that the Attorney-General by law does not have the power to cancel or suspend a permit, but is authorized to see that rules governing the commission are kept.

200 French Families to Relocate

The French families repatriated from Algeria will settle in this province. The French government has to find farms in Canada for 1,000 families. Agriculture Minister A.W. MacKenzie indicated yesterday up to 100 families could be settled in this province without difficulty.

INTERNATIONAL STATUS FOR REGATTA HERE

It was learned last night that the Royal Sailing Regatta being held in Charlottetown, P.E.I., will actually be of international status for the first time.

The Charlottetown Yacht Club is sponsoring the regatta for the regatta.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

New Head For Housing Commission

William Meggison business manager of the provincial housing commission has been appointed as chairman of the commission. Agriculture Minister, Andrew B. MacIver, who departs for Ottawa today, announced yesterday.

Mr. Meggison succeeds head of the commission, who was recently named director of research for the province. It was the pressure of Mr. MacIver's new commission made the change necessary, Mr. MacIver said.

DEATH NOTICES

COLGAN — At the Livingston and MacArthur Nursing Home, North River, P.E.I., on Feb. 2, 1964, William Colgan, of Boston, Mass., formerly of Penelope MacKinnon, North River, P.E.I., aged 90th year. Resting at the Catholic Funeral Home, Summerside, until 10:30 a.m. Thursday, service commencing at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Catholic cemetery, Summerside. Cutoff receiving vault.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher, who will be one of the main speakers, and his leadership of the party.

Other guest speakers will be: Ben Macquarrie, YPC, Queens; Egan Chambers, Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, and Dalton C. Camp.

WELFARE

(Continued from page 1)

Minister of commerce is a movement of big-business, the money makers. But, he produced figures to show that by far the greatest percentage of members were small business.

Expressing that hard-working people are entitled to a community he said it was a pleasure to see such fine new buildings in Charlottetown as the Confederation Memorial Centre, the new Legion Home and the Basilica Rectory. "Building is a sign of progress," he said.

DISCUSSING BLUENOSE

Speaking of the ship Bluenose II, which was introduced by his firm, Oland and Son of Halifax, Mr. MacKenzie said that his settlement offers Vice-Chief Minister in charge of the local affairs of citizenship and immigration.

The French officials, Jacques Tardif, of the ministry of patriation, Paris and Robert Baudouy, of the ministry of foreign affairs, emphasized that there was no wish to form a French community with the new families. Instead, they insisted on complete integration. However, they would be pleased to help the strangers if they were somewhere here in the province.

The families will receive generous financial assistance from the province government, with an outright grant of $6,500 in aid in purchasing a farm, and a subsistence allowance of $1,300 for the first year of operation in the province.

The families were among hundreds of thousands of French people who returned to their homeland during and after the Algerian crisis. These, however, could not be absorbed by France as they were firm in their stand they would not settle for any other way of life than farming.

France was unable to handle so many, and new homes are being sought. It hopes to bring a majority of them to Canada.

HALFALEX YPC

The youth office staff of Halifax held their 34th annual meeting last Wednesday. The delegates expected that there is a very full agenda has been prepared for the proceedings, and that the YPC will do a way committing themselves were of the opinion that in all probability considerable discussion may be centred around John Dieffenbacher