Every Success Has Its Imitators.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt is a success. Successful in preventing diseases and in curing diseases already developed. Successful in gaining, on its own merits, the endorsements of the leading physicians and medical journals of Great Britain and Canada.

That is why a palpable imitation of Abbey's Effervescent Salt has been placed on the market. The perpetrators of this insult to the intelligence of the public are printers of London, Ontario. Their object was to reproduce as nearly as possible the package used to contain Abbey's Effervescent Salt. The cheap and nasty powder which their package contained did not even have the good point of being palatable. The High Court of Justice has issued an injunction against its proprietors, and its sale has been stopped, but still that when buying Abbey's Effervescent Salt to be sure they get it. Shakespeare's head on the package stamps it genuine. Look for it. There is no effervescent salt but Abbey's Effervescent Salt.

WE WARN THE PUBLIC

AVOID SUBSTITUTION.

(From the Canadian Druggist.)

There are forms of substitution which are quite as reprehensible as a deliberate giving of something else for the preparation ordered—and one of the latest of these has just come under our notice. Abbey's Effervescent Salt is recognized by the physician and public alike as a valuable remedy. Its sale has been almost phenomenal—a fact which is due to its real medicinal virtue. Recognizing this fact, a package has appeared on the market almost similar in appearance, size and style of bottle and package, and with a label as closely imitating it as possible, intended, without doubt, to deceive the public.

It has unfortunately been purchased by some druggists, possibly without considering the evident intention of the makers, and also the loss of custom which must inevitably follow if an attempt is made to sell it in place of the article which it would seek to displace.

For sale by all druggists. Large bottles 60c, trial size 25c.

LOVE'S RECOMPENSE

Strong in the strife, dear,
Still the heart's true;
Storm in my life, dear—
Sunlight for you!

Heaven's love undying
Lead you along;
Give me the sighing,
You the sweet song!

So you are blest, dear,
Joy shall be mine;
Thorns for my rest, dear,
Roses for thine.

Life wreaths above you
Blossom and light;
Only to love you—
My dream in the night.

My song in the sighing—
The star in the sky,
Till life's light is dying
And love kiss goodby.
