A FEW OF THE DISEASES TREATED.

THE HEART AND CIRCULATION, WITH COMPLICATIONS.
I. Functional Heart Disease. II. Organic Heart Disease. III. Dropsy.
IV. Varicose Veins.

CIRCULATION.—The circulatory organs include the heart, the arteries, the veins and the capillary vessels. Their diseases, though not numerous, are extremely serious in their nature.

HEART.—It is impossible to glance through even the smallest newspaper without seeing notice of a sudden death—of a man or woman, apparently in the full flush of health and strength, being snatched away at an untimely grave. As there is no organ more important than the heart, so there is none in which diseases may be so suddenly fatal, and the appalling frequency of deaths from this cause, and their terrible nature, force the subject upon our notice and demand our attention.

DISEASES OF THE STOMACH.—Indigestion, Flatulence, Sour Stomach, Weak Stomach and Chronic Constipation are the common heritage of the people of America. We cure them certainly and speedily.

THE LIVER.—The largest organ in the body, and one of the most important, is more often diseased (in this climate) than any of the vital organs. Few people are completely free from some form of Liver Complaint. The symptoms are too well known to everybody to demand special mention at our hands further than to call attention to the weary feeling, sleepy, dull feeling after meals, sallow, green skin, pain under the shoulder blades, and dull pains in the right side, with alternation of costiveness or looseness of the bowels. See our reports of cases cured.

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE NASAL PASSAGES AND RESPIRATORY ORGANS.

I. Catarrh. II. Hay Fever. III. Laryngitis. IV. Bronchitis. V. Asthma. VI. Consumption. VII. Emphysema. VIII. Pneumonia.

ONE IN FOUR.—When it is known that twenty-five per cent. of the human race perish from diseases of the respiratory organs, it will be evident to the most careless that such death may be the lot of any. The question of real importance to those suffering from any form of the above mentioned diseases is: "Can you cure me?" We answer: "Our record in the past is the best evidence we can offer."

CHRONIC DISEASES PECULIAR TO WOMEN.

I. Retarded Menses. II. Amenorrhoea. III. Dysmenorrhoea. IV. Menorrhagia. V. Change of Life. VI. Chlorosis. VII. Leucorrhoea. VIII. Displacement. IX. Prolapsus Uteri. X. Flexions and Versions. XI. Inversion. XII. Ulcerations. XIII. Cancer. XIV. Inflammations (Uterus and Ovaries). XV. Tumors. XVI. Pruritus. XVII. Vaginitis. XVIII. Barrenness.

Our success has been very marked in the treatment of the diseases peculiar to women and girls. Over two-thirds of our patients are ladies. Old, young, married and single, can consult us on matters peculiar to their sex, however delicate, in perfect confidence.

CHRONIC DISEASES PECULIAR TO MEN.

BROKEN DOWN.—It is a sad but unavoidable reflection that thousands of men, who should be the bone and sinew of the country, pillars of society, of the church and of the State, are broken down both physically and mentally before they have reached the zenith of their usefulness. Early indiscretions, the result of ignorance and folly; over-exertion of mind and body, induced by inordinate ambition; dissipation and exposure, are continually working the ruin of thousands, whose ability, energy and integrity the world needs to preserve the equilibrium of civilization.

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

MARCH 4, 1890.

Meeting of the Legislature.

The Legislative Assembly of this Province is to meet for the despatch of business on the 27th inst. In the revised and consolidated laws, as prepared by the Commissioners, there will be abundance of business for it to despatch. We hope that even the lively Opposition member for Bedeque will cease from troubling the House and the country with factious party tactics in the face of the great and necessary work which lies directly before it.

It is not likely that the Legislature will have time to do much more than perform this important duty. The finances of the Province may possibly require some adjustment; and reform is called for by the citizens of Charlottetown—particularly those who reside in the northern part of the city and have not representation according to population at the Council Board.

We hear some talk about a reduction of the Legislature. It need not be said that THE EXAMINER is in favor of taking steps in this direction. But how this can be done in the face of the decided opinion constitutionally expressed by the Legislative Council electors at the two last Legislative Council elections is hard to see. Some preliminary measures may be taken to the end that the Legislature may be reduced if the people so desire it. But nothing decisive can be done in respect to this question until the people have first reversed their verdict which they have given at the polls.

The meeting of the Legislature is necessarily somewhat late this year. But there will be time enough to despatch the business, if despatch be used. If the good of the Province, and not the securing of petty party triumphs, be made the end and aim of every member elect, the Province will have cause to be thankful.

Montague.

Montague is still marching onward in the way of improvements. As the "powers that be" have not seen proper to provide sufficient wharf accommodation, private enterprise has come to the rescue. Mr. George Wightman is building a long wharf on the north side of the river. Messrs. Poole & Thompson have about completed a large addition to their wharf which will greatly facilitate their business. Messrs. P. Gaul and A. McLeod are also about commencing extensive repairs to their respective wharves. As soon as the winter is over several new buildings will be erected, some of which are already under contract.

Much sympathy is manifested towards Mr. and Mrs. J. Murphy, who have been called on to mourn the death of their eldest child. Little Selena was a bright and intelligent little girl of about seven summers, and was a special favorite of her teacher and schoolmates. On the day of her funeral about one hundred children from the school, together with the teachers, formed in procession at the school and marched to Mr. Murphy's house, where the coffin was taken charge of by six little schoolmates, who acted as pallbearers, thence to the R. C. cemetery, where the remains were deposited. The procession was most affecting, and brought tears to the eyes of those who seldom wept.

The Methodist tea came off as advertised. The gathering was large and the amount realized far exceeded the expectations of those who had charge of the affair. The George-town brass band discoursed sweet music and enlivened the proceedings.

On one of the very cold days lately, a rather unusual sight was seen on our streets. A stranger was observed with a large fur coat on. Under this he had two under coats. On his head he had a fur cap, and on his neck he wore a large muffler, while on his feet he wore a pair of this summer shoes and cotton stockings. Still he was healthy and never had the grippe or any other disease. How can medical gentlemen reconcile this model of dress with the science of health now taught in some of our medical colleges?

Mr. C. B. Poole, one of our most thrifty farmers and stock-raisers, has recently purchased the thorough-bred horse "General Clary." He is pronounced a very fine animal, and is attracting the attention of leading farmers. He is now in charge of Mr. Pat. Corney, who takes great pleasure in showing him and dilating on his symmetrical proportions.

The Hon. J. Clow has so far recovered from his late illness as to be able to leave his home. He was in the village yesterday, and received the hearty congratulations of his friends.

ANOTHER GLOBE GIRDLER.—It is stated that Miss Regina Rothschild, a young lady of Port Townsend, Wash., will start from there on the 17th inst., on a tour of the globe in an attempt to beat the previous records. The citizens have subscribed $3,000 towards the trip. Miss Rothschild will travel eastward over the Canadian Pacific and expects to leave there the same day George Francis Train is announced to sail from Tacoma westward. Miss Rothschild expects to make the trip in 61 days.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind. Merl 30dy eod wky

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Electeur" Again.

SIR,—I have to again ask your indulgence to reply to another letter from "Grit," which appeared in the Pioneer of the 24th inst., in which he has the effrontery to dare me for proofs of what I stated in my former letters, without even attempting to disprove one of my charges, as he before claimed he could. Why, Mr. Editor, this demand of "Grit" is too childish for anything, as everybody in the district—yes, and all over P. E. Island, by this time—knows, that the ledgers of Myrick and Rogers and Matheson were never before so accentuated. Why, it is only a short time ago since one of Myrick's managers was heard to say, "I worked and canvassed for all I was worth," but, adds this same gentleman, "it was in my private capacity." And it is, no doubt, by some similar technicality that "Grit" claims there was no ledger influence used in the "western end of the district. The shallowness of this claim is apparent to everyone. I would ask the above gentlemen and "Grit," how is a debtor to distinguish between them in their private capacity, and as members of the concerns of which they are reputed to be the heads, and whose wishes at all times they are known to represent. Further, I will venture to say that when these men went to solicit the votes of their unfortunate debtors they did not specify, they only asked for them in their private capacities. On the contrary, they would by every means try to convey the idea that it was the wish of the firm, and assuredly it was. For those poor men knew, alas! too well that it was to the same men who then stood before them they had to look for clemency. Ledger influence, forsooth! Why, the thing is so notorious that further exposure is unnecessary.

The clerical influence, which I before only touched lightly, was just as marked in the western end. Let anyone interested take a walk through the Centre Line or Smith Roads and hear the tales some of the people tell of the way they were forced either to remain at home or go to the polls and vote the Grit ticket, and he will surely be dumfounded. Let physical force too, strike a sore spot in "Grit," and, indeed, it's no wonder, since his most zealous friend was, on account of its exercise on a Conservative elector, compelled to bow down too, and eat humble pie with one who would be considered much his inferior. Now "Grit" hated Tory, as this poor man was, he was magnanimous enough to agree not to prosecute, and accepted an apology in lieu of the twenty dollars your friend at first offered. "Grit" waits proof of men being ordered to pay up at this end of the district for refusing to vote his ticket. For brevity sake, I will name one case; but, if needed, I have others. If he will call on Prosper Arsenault, Lower Road, who was given eight days in which to settle up, he can obtain the desired proofs. Oh, yes, "Grit," you and your friends secured a plurality of votes; but it is plain to anyone how they were obtained. Not even your tu quoque argument (for which there is no foundation) will suffice to justify you before the public. In conclusion, I would advise you to be sparing of your bluster. There is such a thing as being too sure. Remember the sage advice: "Don't cheer till you are out of the woods."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space, and promising not to further trouble you, I remain, etc.

ELECTEUR.
Bloomfield, February 28, 1890.

The By-Elections.

The Ottawa Journal furnishes a summary of the by-elections for the House of Commons held since the beginning of the present Parliament. The record is interesting and illustrative:

There have been 47 by-elections since the general elections in Feb. 1887. Twelve of these have been caused by the deaths of members; six by acceptance of office under the crown; two by members becoming Governors of Provinces; six by resignations; two by members becoming Senators and nineteen by the elections being voided by the courts.

There have been three by-elections in Cumberland County; three in Haldimand; two in Colchester; two in Shelburne; two in Halton, and two in East Northumberland.

The three in Cumberland County resulted in the return of Conservatives on each occasion. Of the three in Haldimand a Conservative was successful in the first and third, and a Liberal in the second.

In the two in East Northumberland a Conservative was successful on each occasion. The same result was experienced in Colchester and in Shelburne. In Halton a Conservative won the first bye, and a Liberal the second, the constituency returning to its choice in the general elections.

Fourteen of the by-elections took place in 1887; 25 in 1888; 7 in 1889 and 1 in 1890. Thirty-seven resulted in the return of Conservatives and ten in the return of Liberals.

Taking the 47 by-elections, 25 were Conservative at the general election, 7 remaining Conservative at the by-elections; 7 were Liberal at the general election and remained Liberal at the by-elections; 1 was Conservative at the general election and changed to Liberal at the bye; 5 were Liberal at the general election and changed to Conservative at the by-election; 1 was Independent Nationalist at the general and remained Independent Nationalist at the bye. Five were Conservative at the first bye, and remained Conservative at the second and third bye; 2 were Conservative at the first bye and changed to Liberal at the second; 1 was Liberal at the second bye and changed to Conservative at the third. These figures show a steady gain of Conservative strength.

KILLED WHILE SHOOTING.—Thomas and Edgar Munro of Whitehead, Guysboro, N. S., went out shooting a few days ago. Their dogs began to fight and Thomas undertook to separate them with the butt of his gun. The weapon exploded, the charge entered his forehead and blew his brain out.
