Calvin A. Russell, Charlottetown, appealing a conviction in city court on a charge of driving without due care and attention, had his original fine of $200 cut to $50 and costs or one month in Queens County Jail, in Appeal Court yesterday.

Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell, Mr. Justice George J. Tweedy and Mr. Justice Mark R. MacQuinn, found the original punishment too severe and stated that they found the appellant to be sober at the time of the offense.

In the case of Alan Charles Robbins, appealing a six-month sentence for possessing stolen goods (cooper wire) belonging to the Island Telephone Company, Harold Campbell, Mr. Justice Tweedy and Mr. Justice Mark R. MacQuinn, found the appellant's character to be good.

The judge adjourned the case to Feb. 21, to allow Lawrence O'Donnell, counsel for Robbins, time to present evidence as to the appellant's part in the offence.

Augustus Quinn, 26 Great George Street, represented by Mr. O'Donnell, had been convicted and sentenced to two months in jail for charging goods at a vendor.

Chief Justice Campbell said that in view of the severity of the minimum sentence and the proceedings having borne two sets of court costs against the appellant, (we will issue no order as to the costs of this appeal.

Unemployment Down in Charlottetown District

The winter works program and its accompanying "do it now" campaign, are attributed by George Cheverie, manager of the National Employment Service in Charlottetown, in aiding the decline in unemployment in this area.

Mr. Cheverie noted that compared to the same period in 1963 unemployment is down by some 25 per cent in Charlottetown and its suburbs.

The overall picture for Queens and Kings shows a decline in claims for unemployment assistance by some eight per cent.

A general increase in winter employment in the rural areas is due to the fact that 21 projects, offering 4,287 man days of labor, have been approved.

These projects range from the construction of senior citizens' housing development, at a cost of $12,000, to a $300 project involving the building of a community rink.

At the afternoon sitting, Mr. Justice R. Bell replaced Mr. Justice MacQuinn.

The appeal of Benedict Joseph Lutz, Peakes Road, represented by John P. Nicholson, was dismissed and the conviction and sentence sustained.

Lutz had been convicted and fined $300 on a charge of selling liquor to another person while not being a vendor.

Chief Justice Campbell said that in view of the severity of the minimum sentence and the proceedings having borne two sets of court costs against the appellant, (we will issue no order as to the costs of this appeal.

Cox Clarifies Proposed Ch town Zoning Plans

By RALPH CAMERON
Zoning changes would have any effect on Nassau Street, town planning committee chairman, Mr. Cox said yesterday.

The proposed commercial area extending to a depth of 800 feet on the west side of Malpeque Road would be stopped 166 feet from both the north and south sides of Nassau Street.

As a result both the northwest and southwest corners of Nassau Street and Malpeque Road will remain residential, he said.

Long study of the situation by the planning committee, he said, shows that, for commercial purposes, the present depth of 250 feet was almost useless because any business establishment meant required more depth than this allowed, especially in view of a regulation requiring any building be set back 50 feet from the highway.

He feels the proposed changes provide the first important step in a practical plan for zoning this area.

Mr. Cox, at the same time, squelched another strong rumor that he was personally interested in acquiring a large tract in the area on which to erect a new milk plant. He said he is not interested in any way in getting property on the west side of Malpeque Road, and intimated negotiations are underway for the purchase of land for a plant in another area.

Regarding Nassau Street, he said, "It is one of the nicest residential areas in our new city and we are not going to get anything being done to harm its quality."

At the same time, he pointed out the new zoning maintaining a solid residential belt by stopping the commercial area 150 feet from the east side of the new Upper Queen Street extension. He also noted it allowed for a completely residential area as far as New Brunswick is concerned, and created a splendid "green belt" to allow for future expansion of St. Jean School.

DESLIVA PRAISED
Mr. Cox paid tribute to the work of Walter desliva as having provided a key for a city town planning with his excellent ideas. He stated though the desliva report might not have been all the city wished, it still had given planners a new insight into their problems and led them along the right path in planning for the future.

His plan for 75 per cent of the report will be adopted as this moves through the various stages of planning. The city change in the general area bounded by Elm Avenue and Upper Queen Street from a possible four stages in rezoning. He said he did not favor bringing one great plan for the entire city in one presentation but rather to involve City Council in long discussions.

He said the present plan was not a "piece-meal" presentation; it was a complete plan. It is believed several stages to all of which consideration has been given in moving a plan for any one stage.

FIRST READING OF CITY COUNCIL
Mr. Cox gave notice of motion of his intention to introduce changes by giving first reading. This will be done at the special council meeting this evening at 8 p.m. It is believed second reading will be given at the February regular meeting.

At the same time, authorization was given for the purchase of land for a plant in another area.

Chef Trainees Are Screened

Applicants for the course for chefs which opens at the Vocational Institute next Thursday, will be left for the incoming Council elected February 12. This, it was said, would negate any reports of attempts to "rail-road" the changes through Council.

Special emphasis will be placed on the cooking area food and island dishes, he said.

A night course will also be starting in the near future for those who now have employment but wish to return to cooking in the summer months.
