

How U. S. Presidents Economized.

James Monroe died in New York insolvent. Buchanan left over $250,000 to his nephews and niece. Martin Van Buren did not save much out of his salary, but left $300,000. Adams was poor, but by his wise, able management, he never suffered want. James K. Polk left about $150,000. As he had no children, Mrs Polk received it all. Fillmore left the White House a poor man, but by his second marriage became wealthy. Pierce did not do as well. Fifty thousand dollars was his limit, with no one to inherit it. Of the earlier presidents, Washington was the wealthiest. At his death his estates was valued at $300,000. When Jefferson entered the White House he was a wealthy man, but he lost his property and died insolvent. John Tyler went to the White House a poor man, but managed to save enough out of his salary to live in comfort. President Arthur was a very high feeder. He spent a great deal of money on his table, and managed to save nothing. President Cleveland will probably not be able to save more than $100,000 out of his whole term, if he saves that much. Andrew Jackson was counted a rich man in his day. The Hermitage, which he left to his adopted son, is now the property of the State. Mrs. Hayes ran the financial end of the house during Hayes' administration, and that she is a financier is proved by the amount saved out of his salary. Garfield was not in office long enough to save much money. He left about $40,000 and the gifts Mrs. Garfield has received have made her a wealthy woman. Madison was wealthy when he became president, and left a handsome estate, which Mrs. Madison's son, Payne Todd, squandered, and left her a poor woman. Grant never saved much of his salary, but the generous gifts of his friends made him independent. He lost all in the Grant-Ward failure. The sale of his books has placed his wife in an affluent position.

What to Teach Boys.

Teach them how to earn money. Teach them to be strictly truthful. Teach them economy in all their affairs. Teach them to be polite in all their manners. Teach them history and political economy. Teach them arithmetic in all its branches. Teach them to avoid tobacco and strong drink. Teach them to ride, drive, jump, run and swim. Teach them careful and correct business habits. Teach them how to get the most for their money. Teach them, by example, how to do things well. Teach them to avoid profane and indecent language. Teach them habits of cleanliness and good order. Teach them the care of horses, wagons and tools. Teach them to be manly, self-reliant and aggressive. Teach them to be neat and gentle in their appearance.

Troubles of Large Minded Men.

It is rather sad to think of Mr. Blaine standing outside the Edinburgh Council Chamber vainly endeavoring to convince the janitor that he had left his ticket in his other vest. A reporter has frequently had the same experience at a baseball match. The petty conventionalities of life are often exceedingly annoying to large minded men.—Kansas City Times.

An American Woman's Clever Answer.

The clever wife of a Professor in a western college once wrote in one of those confession books where people put down their opinions on all sorts of subjects, in answer to the question, "What is your idea of a heroine?" "An educated American woman who does her own housework."—Boston Traveller.

A Midsummer Suggestion.

Perhaps Dr. McGlynn has his eye upon the place left vacant by Henry Ward Beecher. The popular platform moralist, with the happy knack of oratory and brain to boot, is always welcome among the people.—Philadelphia Record.

Loss of flesh and strength, with poor appetite, and perhaps slight cough in the morning, or on first lying down at night, should be looked to in time. Persons afflicted with consumption are proverbially unconscious of their real state. Most cases commence with disordered liver, leading to bad digestion, and imperfect assimilation of food—hence the emaciation, or wasting of the flesh. It is a form of scrofulous disease, and is curable by the use of that greatest of all blood-cleansing, anti-bilious and invigorating compounds, known as Dr. Pierce's golden medical discovery.
