WE advise all of our readers who are fond of reading a good well-written and immensely popular novel, to begin the one THE EXAMINER is now publishing. THE iron bridge constructed by Mr. Granville C. Cunningham, C. E., in the year 1877, and which has since been lying on the railway works at this place, will be utilized. THE BOSTON COMEDY CO.—Every seat in the Market Hall last night was filled by the large audience assembled there to hear played the powerful temperance drama of "Ten Nights in a Bar-room." The play was well put upon the stage, not a hitch occurring in the whole performance. It is not necessary to make any special allusions to any of the performers, as they are all more or less favorably known. The crowded houses that have greeted them since their arrival here testify most unmistakably to their popularity. To-night the White Slave will be played, and we doubt not will be liberally patronized. YESTERDAY, on motion of Hon. J. H. Davies, Q. C., Mr. J. E. The London Times attributes the failure of Morris Ranger, Liverpool cotton broker, to his grossly reckless speculations in England and America and on the Continent. Ten thousand Arabs, divided into two columns, attacked the Egyptian square on two sides, thus enabling Hicks Pasha to use 6,000 Remington Rifles, Krupp guns, and Nordenflett rocket batteries. The Arabs were only armed with lances. Failing, after some time, to reach the square, they fled, leaving 8,000 dead, and all the women, food, baggage and animals behind. Hicks Pasha pursued the main body of the fugitives and overtook them at Melbos, where he found El Mahdi posted with the fugitives and a body guard of 2,000 cavalry. The Arabs again attacked and were repulsed with great loss. El Mahdi is reported to have been cut down by the light cavalry in pursuit of him. Hicks Pasha has taken possession of El Obeid and the Government treasury. The Egyptian loss was nothing. Weather Bulletin. Probabilities for the next 24 hours for the Maritime Provinces.
