SHORT FASHION NOTES.

THE ARBITRARY DAME 'AYS ALL WOMEN MUST TAKE THE VEIL. But When Obedience to Fashion's Dictates is Unbecomingly or Uncomfortably It is More Chic as Well as Sensible to Rebel. No well-dressed woman is supposed to be seen abroad without her veil, no matter how imperfect her eyesight, or how sincere her desire for "unstrained air."

Brown shoes are not made of goat this season; the healthy, but expensive Russian kid. It is light-weight and very glossy, which lends the foot a slender appearance. Prices are not high. Hand-turned low shoes sell at $4 and $5.50, and the $2.50 goods are very desirable. Fashion never tires of red. It is the life of a dull complexion, and the salvation of a plain face.

Women are shirt-waist crazy. Shirting, calico, silk, satin and mull have been levied upon, converted into a backless blouse, belted over or under a skirt and finished off with a jacket or blazer. Some are tucked, some have butterfly sleeves, others are frilled and all are fluffy, comfortable and moderately pretty.

Fancy sailor hats fully trimmed with ribbon and flowers are a departure from the simple severity so long in vogue. Beware of black hats. They are harmless enough in cool weather, but they are dangerous in a sizzard. In the hot sun and a black bonnet a woman runs a risk of being sunstruck; and a girl in a black hat is apt to get brain fever playing tag or tennis.

Ballroom sleeves have begun to collapse, voluminous skirts are subsiding, flamboyant hat trimming has had several reefs taken in, equalizer ruffles have been ripped from the dresses of short girls and wadding women, and the summer fashions are beginning to be slightly. A PRETTY SUMMER WAIST. Pale Green Chambray Trimmed With Narrow White Washable Ribbon. One of the pretty summer waists is made of pale green chambray trimmed with narrow white washable ribbon.

Found a Rich Gold Mine. Lower Jordan Bay, N. S., July 3.—Mr. Samuel Locke, of this place, has just discovered a gold mine here that pays out 100 per cent of pure metal to the ton. It was a rich vein of sound health to which he was restored, by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and which he would not exchange for any other mine in America. All last winter he suffered from kidney trouble which would not yield to the prescriptions of several doctors. A few months ago Mr. Locke heard of the good done by Dodd's kidney pills and tried them with the invariable result. Today he is well and thinks no praise too great for this wonderful remedy. His neighbors are much interested in what they describe as a marvelous cure. Take time by the forelock, and Putter's Emulsion by the spoonful, and your cough will vanish and your rosy cheeks return.

A BOOMERANG.

There's that cat on the breakfast table again, I'll just show her— "—where her place is!" (But the cat had a pull.) —Puck.

A Familiar Trait. She—If I refuse you what will you do? He—Propose to some other girl. She—Then I accept. At Cost. Customer—Why, that's an outrageous price! I thought you advertised goods sold at cost! Dealer—Well, there's cost enough about them, isn't there? Hard to Beat. Mr. Oldback—It must be a great comfort to find your socks darned, your buttons on and your meals ready on time. Mr. Nuvel—Yes, sir, I fancy my mother-in-law and cook are very hard to improve on.

Both Satisfied. He—May I ask you for a dance? She—Certainly; the last one on the list. "But I'll not be here then." "Neither will I." Something For All Tastes. Mrs. Outwest (in an art exhibit)—Silas, is the whole fair as poor as this? Silas—No, sir; just wait till he gets to the wild west show, and then you'll feel like you're gettin' back to civilization.

The Sensible Course. Teacher—What is the meaning of one-hundred-fifty? Little Boy—I don't remember. Teacher—If you had twenty-five children visiting you, and only one apple for them, what would you do? Little Boy—I'd wait till they went, and then eat it myself. Willing to Condone. "I must not listen to you, Mr. Capphead," protested the blushing girl, with eyes downcast. "You are only trifling, and—besides it is getting late." "Please hear me out, Miss Helen," pleaded the young reporter. "I'll cut it down to 250 words."

Modern Commerce. Clerk—Lady in front caught stealing goods. What shall we do? Head of Firm—Lower is she dressed? "Furs and diamonds." "Beg her pardon, and ask if we shall send the bill to her house." Right Kind of Fencing. The young man's father was paying him a visit, just to see how he was getting along in college. "Do you learn fencing?" "Yes." "There's right, William. Learn to make yourself useful to your father. Don't bother none about rail fences; stone fences is what they need in our section of the country."

A Cash Smile. "An acquaintance of yours, eh?" inquired Brown, as his friend Green lifted his hat to a passing lady. "Yes, slight acquaintance." "She smiled very sweetly on you." "She ought to. The court allowed her $10,000 alimony." Brown tried to say something about the weather, but his emotions drowned him and they didn't get chatty again until Green struck a banana peel. Liked the Other. It was down in a Chautauque village that a gay young soldier had his sweetheart. Such a beauty she was, too. It happened once that he sent her down from Buffalo a pot of cold cream to keep her cheeks as fresh as the budding rose. When he came down to visit her again he asked how she liked his little gift. "The taste was very nice," she said with rather a sickly smile, "but I think I like the other kind of cream best."

A Goddess of Liberty. Ambitious Girl—I am not satisfied to be dependent on my father for every cent I need. I wish to be independent. Mother—Should you go to earning your own living you would have to be the obliging servant of any employer you might have, always at his beck and call, always ready to do the bidding of your superiors, and having not an hour you could devote to your own. "That would be horrid. I want to be independent of pa, but I'll call no man master, and I shall walk my own way in everything." "That's easy. Get married."—New York Weekly. A Culinary Triumph. We are rather sorry not to find any reference to corned beef, which we understand is an article that finds favor with our best society here in Cook County. A recipe for the preparation of this would seem to be desired, for we are told that not long ago a bride in this city sought to surprise her husband by preparing for him a dinner of boiled corned beef and cabbage, of which she knew he was very fond. It is related that when the husband tasted of the dish he paused ominously and a look of his wife whether she had not adulterated it in the cooking. "Yes, Charlie," she answered, guilelessly, "the corned beef and cabbage smelled so while it was cooking that I dropped in a bunch of tuberoses to flavor it."
