Obituary.

Passed away on the 21st inst., after a painful illness of over eight months, aged 48 years, James T. Johnston, merchant, of Annandale. The deceased was born at Montague, where many of his friends still reside, and came to Grand River when but a youth, where he commenced business in company with the late D. McAuley. After his partner, (McAuley's) death, he continued actively engaged in business in its various branches, including shipbuilding, and was deservedly looked upon as one of the shrewdest as well as one of the most obliging and successful business men in the County. In private life he was genial and hospitable. He was naturally kind hearted and always ready to assist those in sickness and distress. He will be long remembered as a faithful friend and obliging neighbor.

Born of Christian parents, he steadfastly adhered to the teachings and doctrines of the Church of his choice, and in matters relating to the welfare of that Church always displayed the deepest interest. It was chiefly through his personal influence and liberality that the new Presbyterian Church at Annandale was erected. His remains were followed to their last resting place, at Lower Montague, on the 24th, by one of the largest funeral processions ever witnessed in that part of the country. He was buried with Masonic honors, Grand Master, Nathaniel McLaren, presiding, the Rev. J. G. Cameron acting as chaplain. The Georgetown, Montague and Souris lodges were fully represented. Thus was laid away, amid the tears of many friends and old acquaintances, all that is mortal of one who died as he lived, at peace with God and man.

Using One's Eyes.

How many of us go through life without ever realizing that our eyes have to be educated to see as well as our tongues to speak, and that only the barest outlines of the complex and ever-changing images focused on the retina ordinarily impress themselves upon the brain? That the education of the eye may be brought to a high state of perfection is shown in numerous ways.

There are many delicate processes of manufacture which depend for their practical success upon the fine visual perception of the skilled artisan, who almost unconsciously detects variations of temperature, color, density, etc., of his materials which are inappreciable to the ordinary eye.

The hunter, the mariner, the artist, the scientist, each needs to educate the eye to quick action in his special field of research before he can hope to become expert in it.

The following story from the Penn Monthly, which is quite apropos, is related of Agassiz, and it is sufficiently characteristic of this remarkably accurate observer to have the merit of probability. We are told that once upon a time the Professor had occasion to select an assistant from one of his classes. There were a number of candidates for the post of honor, and finally himself in a quandary as to which one he should choose, the happy thought occurred to him of subjecting three of the more promising students in turn to the simple test of describing the view from his laboratory window, which overlooked the side yard of the college. One said that he saw merely a board fence and a brick pavement; another added a stream of soapy water; a third detected the color of the paint on the fence, noted a green mould or fungus on the bricks, and evidences of "bluing" in the water, besides other details. It is needless to tell to which candidate was awarded the coveted position.

Houdin, the celebrated prestidigitator, attributed his success in his profession mainly to his quickness of perception, which he tells us in his entertaining autobiography, he acquired by educating his eye to detect a large number of objects at a single glance. His simple plan was to select a shop window full of a miscellaneous assortment of articles, and walk rapidly past it a number of times every day, writing down each object which impressed itself on his mind. In this way he was able, after a time, to detect instantaneously all of the articles in the window, even though they might be numbered by scores.

Consolation.

An overbearing landlord in the old world who had, during a long life time, ruled with a rod of iron over his tenants, his dependents and domestics, came at last to grief; and as he lay upon his last bed, he sent for his coachman, and addressed him thus: "Ah, John, I am now going a much longer and much more painful journey than ever you drove me." "Ah, yes, my lord," said John, "but there is one consolation in it, it is all down hill!" Again, a Methodist minister once preached a rousing sermon to a very large audience who listened to him with breathless attention for upwards of three quarters of an hour, and at the close of the services, an office bearer of the church came to him with a "gowpenfru" of black cents, and said: "Oh, sir, I am ashamed to offer you such a miserable reward for such a noble sermon, but it is all that was collected." "Oh, never mind," said the worthy minister, "there is this consolation in it, that when the shame is equally divided among the members of such a large congregation, it cannot be much to each!"

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little shrub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

Ex-President Arthur's health continues to improve.

There are six imbeciles in the Hastings County, Ont., gaol.

Count Herbert Bismarck is going to England to recuperate.

A baby born in Illinois during a terrible storm has been named Cyclonia.

The Turks claim to have captured 180 Greeks in the engagements of Saturday.

Cincinnati is spending $4,000,000 in repaving her streets, mostly with granite pavement.

A St. Louis despatch states that the Anarchist Parsons intended to come to Canada, but the floods and washouts prevented him.

A physician in Flint, Mich., recently received eighty-four bushels of horseradish in payment of a bill for professional services.

Another comet has been discovered by Mr. Brooks, of Phelps, New York, which makes six that the scientists say are visible to them.

William K. Vanderbilt will pay $5,000 for the use of a London residence for ten weeks this spring and summer for himself and wife.

The Russian government fosters tree culture, and he has now in one province seven plantations, averaging from 18,000 to 21,000 acres each.

The tolls for extra telegraphing on account of the strike are said to have put $200,000 into the pocket of Jay Gould inside of eight weeks.

The accumulated photographs of babies that have been named after the President number some 700, and fill three drawers of the White House closet.

Somebody has written a book entitled, "What Shall My Son Be?" Upon which some one frankly replies: "If the boy is as bad as the book the chances are that he will be hanged."

A man named Whitehead, at Carleton, Ky., fatally shot Miss Laura Harwood, and then killed himself. They wanted to marry and the girl's father objected. Both wanted to die together.

The missionaries are writing home from China that their position is a very dangerous one on account of the indignation felt by the Chinese at the outrages in America upon their countrymen.

Keely, the motor man, is still on the verge of perfecting his great invention. Keely has stayed on the verge longer than any man on record. A verge is much more difficult to manage than a bicycle.

In England the average working life of a man is 35 years, in Russia only 11. The Russians die or become disabled at 29, the Englishmen not till 53. This is due to the healthier mode of living in England.

"Nunkie, dear, can you tell me what love is like?" asking a gushing school miss of her bachelor uncle. "Oo aye," replied that prosaic relative, "it's just like sippin' kail wi' a fork, ye never get enough o't."

The Belgians know how to manage an international exhibition. The one just closed at Antwerp took in 4,000,000 francs, while expenses were only 3,000,000 francs. The shareholders will receive a handsome dividend.

A woman in England who had been posted by her husband got even with him by printing the following: "Notice—I, Mary Sanders, never contracted any debts in the name of William Sanders, as the name of Sanders is not good enough to get credit on."

A serious labor riot occurred in the town of Trani on the Adriatic. The mob overpowered the garrison and set fire to the Law Court buildings, the Town Hall, Custom House and theatre. All the buildings mentioned were destroyed. It is reported that several persons were murdered by the rioters.

There is war between two farmers of Salisbury, Mass. One lent the other a cow bell which he refuses to return on the ground that he gave a hen for it. The other contends that he gave a gobbler for the hen and must have the bell. A final ultimatum from the powers is expected every day.

It is gravely related in an Illinois newspaper that after a peach tree on the farm of James M. Baker of Palmyra had blown down, the broken trunk was stuck in the fire under a soap kettle. Not a blossom was on the tree, but when the heat of the fire penetrated the branches, the tree burst into full bloom.

Mr. and Mrs. Salathiel Burke, of Neoga, Ill., have been married thirteen years. He is 37 and she a year younger, and they have nine fine children, and among them are four sets of twins. First a pair of boys, then a pair of girls, then a pair of boys, then a pair of girls, and the baby is a poor, lonely little girl.

The Buffalo Commercial Advertiser in an editorial says that letters received from a Buffalo woman now in Paris, and who has personally seen the young lady whose name has been mentioned as that of the intended wife of President Cleveland, reported that the mortified girl positively declared that she is not going to marry Mr. Cleveland.

The police of Englesfeld
