Western Progress.
(Toronto Mail.)
The Governor of the North-West Territories, in his speech at the opening of the North-West Council, states that the progress of the Territories during the past year has been most marked. The Governor has endeavored to secure reliable statistics regarding the acreage under cultivation, and the extent to which each particular crop has been grown. He has, however, heard as yet from but 137 townships. The statements from these townships show that the settlers have had in crop this past season 71,951 acres. The crops raised have been 32,714 acres of wheat, 26,021 of oats, 8,933 of barley, and 4,233 of roots. When the census was taken in 1881, there were but 6,459 acres under cultivation. Since then the most thickly populated portion of the Territories has been added to Manitoba. Leaving this fact out of sight for the moment, the increase in the acreage under crop during the past five years has been 65,462. If, however, allowance is made for the section of country annexed to Manitoba, and for the statistics the Governor has not yet secured, the increase will be seen to be much greater.

The Territories have suffered this year by reason of the dryness of the season. There has thus been a slight decrease in the yield, but the quality is said to have been superior to that of last year. It is interesting to note that during the past season fourteen thousand acres of new land have been broken. This is the work of both old and new settlers. There does not appear to have been an abnormally large immigration this year; but the Territories have received a fair proportion of the settlers who have determined to find prairie homes. Among the arrivals are colonies of Swiss, Germans and Hungarians. These have gone to work energetically and their settlements are known as New Alsace, Bismarck, Hohenholm and Esterhaz. A great many wealthy families have settled in Alberta to follow the occupation of stock-raising. They come from south of the boundary, and have been attracted to Canada by the facilities for stock-raising which the country affords. The Governor in the course of his observations mentions the progress of railway construction in the North-West. The most important point in this connection is the opening during the year of the transcontinental line. The Manitoba and North-Western now extends into the Territories, and a flourishing colony has arisen at its terminus. In another year it will reach York colony and the Montreal colony. The Long Lake railway now runs from Regina to the Qu'Appelle valley. It is to be extended to Saskatoon at no distant date. The Galt railway, 125 miles in length, is also running, and the Manitoba South-Western line has received an addition of fifty miles to its length during the past season. It is ultimately to reach Regina.

A significant test of progress is afforded by the school statistics. It appears that last year there was just fifty-nine schools in the Territories. There are ninety now, and there are in addition five petitions pending for the erection of new school districts. There appears to be a steady and substantial improvement in the condition of the country. Much is being done for the comfort and convenience of settlers in the matter of railroads, roads and schools. The Northwest should in consequence become more attractive than ever.

The Shoeburyness Team.

The meeting has been marked by two incidents of special interest—the presence throughout the two weeks of Colonel Armstrong's splendid team, and the attendance of Lord Wolseley at the prize distribution. The appearance of the Canadians ought to put our men on their mettle. We are quite aware that the former are picked men, and it would never be possible for us to pick a team to go to Canada or any other colony. But even allowing for this, we must say that we have seldom seen such a body of soldiers as the Canadian artillerymen who have just left Shoeburyness. Nobody, we think, who saw those clean-lined giants performing the "shift" for the Governor-General's cup will ever forget the sight. Their march past later in the day, in full panoply, was equally good in a different way. And they, or a great many of them, show by their medals that they can do, and have actually done, more trying and important work than parading a 64-pounder up to its carriage or marching the adjutant-general. They will return home, indeed, laden with the spoils of the recent peaceful campaign. Our men have prevented them, not without serious difficulty, from carrying off the Queen's prize, but by their prowess with the Armstrong they have recovered the Montreal cup, which Col. Ray and his men brought back from Canada two years ago; they have taken away the London trophy cup from the best team we could bring against them, and they have refused even to let the prize given by their own Governor-General, for excellence in repository work, remain among us. Moreover, they have won a first prize for shell-firing and a certificate in the ordinary repository competition, so that there will be rejoicing, fully justified in Canada.—Volunteer Service Gazette.

A PRINTER'S ERROR.—Sweet are the uses of adversity, the printer's copy said, but he set it up, sweet are the uses of advertising. Sweet, indeed, to those who in sickness and suffering have seen the advertisement of some sovereign remedy; which upon trial has brought them from death's door. "The best thing I ever saw in my paper was the advertisement of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," is again and again the testimony of those who have been healed by it of lung disease, bronchial affections, tumors, liver complaints and the ills to which the flesh is heir.

Some of the New York fire companies say they can hitch up and start for a fire in three seconds.

Justin McCarthy, M. P.

Justin McCarthy, M. P., arrived in Fredericton, N. B., by the western train on the 21st. He was met at the Fredericton Junction by J. Meagher, President, and M. McLeod, Secretary of St. Patrick's society, Rev. J. C. MacDewitt, Hon. M. Adams, Postmaster McPeckol, and George J. Burns. Mr. McCarthy registered at the Queen. In the evening, his lecture on the Irish question in the City Hall, was attended by a large and highly representative audience. Mayor Fenety occupied the chair, and on the platform were Sir Leonard Tilley, Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. A. G. Blair, Rev. J. C. McDevitt, Hon. James Mitchell, Hon. M. Adams, Hon. F. P. Thompson, Prof. Stockley, J. Meagher, Chief Superintendent Crickett, Ald. Sharkey, U. S. Consul Coleman and W. Wilson, M. P. P. The Mayor, in introducing the lecturer, briefly referred to his eminent public career.

Mr. McCarthy spoke for nearly two hours, and held his audience intensely interested throughout. He spoke most hopefully of the future of the home rule question, prophesying that two or three years would see the realization of Ireland's hopes.

At ten o'clock in the evening Mr. McCarthy was banquetted at the Queen hotel.

The Situation in Europe.

While the prospect of war in Europe is not so great as it was during the Anglo-Russian strife over the Afghan frontier, it must be confessed that the anxiety and uncertainty in the various capitals are intense. It should be remembered, however, that Russia can push matters to great lengths and still not precipitate war, because she is the aggressor, and no European power will open hostilities without extreme provocation. The moral position of the Bulgarians is good. The Czar demanded in unequivocal terms that the elections to the great national assembly, which will choose a successor to Prince Alexander, should be postponed. These elections have, however, taken place as provided for by the constitution. The Czar is snubbed and his agent discredited; both the natural sympathy of Europe and a sense of security have brought Austria, Germany and England to the side of Bulgaria. The uncertainty is great, as no one can tell how far Russia is willing to go in the face of this opposition. The Czar has a breast of highly complicated emotions these days. An absolute monarch can rule by successes only. To make the Russian policy of 1886 a success the sword must be drawn, but the diplomatic situation is not favourable, and the popularity of the late Prince Alexander is still unmistakable in the Balkan peninsula. The situation is dramatic for the Czar, and it is no wonder that he still "ponders."

He was Green, but He got the Job

"A young man from the country came in the other day looking for a situation," said a well known merchant. "I rather liked the boy's looks, and, after inquiring about his mercantile experience, his education, his expectation in the way of salary, etc., I asked him if he had any references."

"References!" he exclaimed, "what are they?"

"Why," I tried to explain, "can't you give us the name of some prominent man in your town so we can write to him? We want to make some inquiries about you, you know."

"Inquiries about me?" he rejoined, with an open mouth and in his frank way; "great Jewlike men, if you want to know anything about me, just ask me. I know more than anybody else, and there's no use writing way down in the country for that."

"You couldn't have any doubt of the honesty of a man like that, could you?" concluded the merchant. "The boy is now working in our store, and will make a success too."

A Socialists' Proposal.

Hyndman, one of the socialist leaders of London, has written a letter in which he makes these proposals for the relief of the unemployed:—That no workers for government railways or similar public monopolies labor for more than eight hours daily, thus rendering necessary employment of more persons; that all uncultivated crown lands suitable be cultivated, the profits accruing therefrom to be divided among the workers. That all possible public works be begun immediately, cost of initial proceedings and payment of wages to be borne equally by ratepayers and the state, and that dinners be given to the needy and board to the school children.

A romance and tragedy are condensed in the following notice published in the Journal of Walla Walla, N. W.: "After living with W. G. Poole, as his wife, for twenty-four hours, I have found him to be a man unfit for the society of a decent woman and unworthy of my regard. I have left him never to live with him again. I hereby notify all persons not to give him credit on my account, and also charge all persons giving me to pay him no more." Mrs. W. G. Poole, formerly Lucinda C. Ho.
