Big Game At Morell

SPORT fans in Kings's County (and there are loads of them down that way) have a big treat coming up in the near future.

Sandy's Parkdale Royals, leaders in The Island Intermediate 'A' Hockey League, will travel to Morell rink for a game with an all-star team from King's County. Only thing that's in doubt about the fixture is the exact date but word is that it will go sometime the first week in February.

The team which will oppose Sandy's boys will be a combination of players from the Morell Intermediate League and the rest of King's County. The Morell League is made up of teams from Morell, Mount Stewart, Souris and Dunstaffnage.

The extra nice thing about this game is that the entire proceeds will go to the Freeman Jackson Fund. This indeed is a fine gesture and a sizeable sum of money should be realized when this affair is staged. Both the Royals and the All-Stars, as well as the promoters in this project, are to be commended and we hope Morell rink will be jammed packed when this big hockey battle comes about.

Strange Happenings

IT'S getting hard to make sense out of some of these happenings in the National Hockey League.

The most recent surprise came when the Toronto Maple Leafs crushed Montreal Canadians under a 5-1 score. The fact that Leafs beat the Habs can't be classified as an upset but the manner in which they did it left most fans a bit bewildered. Last week in Montreal the Leafs had a 3-1 lead on the Canadiens but the Blakemen stormed back with five goals before Leafs could collect their fourth. Wednesday night in Toronto Leafs rushed into a 4-0 first period lead and the visiting Montrealers never got within striking distance.

Chicago Black Hawks lost a pair of decisions to Toronto at Chicago 5-1 and 6-2 but they squared things with 3-1 and 4-1 verdicts over the Leafs in Maple Leaf Gardens. The Hawks lost two games with Boston Bruins by identical 5-4 scores and one of these was in Chicago Stadium.

All of which certainly adds to the entire confusion. It's hard to know what to expect. If the pattern continues it will surely be a hard race to predict. We had thought the Canadiens were on their way to the top but after that crushing in Toronto a fellow has a right to change his mind. The Hawks are clinging stubbornly to that first rung of the ladder and they could be hard to dislodge.

Saints Earn Tie

ST. Dunstan's Varsity hockey team did themselves proud with a well-deserved 5-5 tie at Mount Allison Gardens in Sackville Wednesday night.

The much lighter Saints did manage an 11-9 verdict over the Mounties here last Saturday but we figured they'd have more than their hands full in that game in Sackville. From all reports it was a fairly rugged contest but the Red and Whiters refused to panic and Jim Cullen's third period tally gave them an equal share of the points.

The Kanemen are having a great year and their next appearance is Sunday afternoon at SDU rink where they host Nova Scotia Tech. On the Tech team will be former Saints' rearguard, George Trainor. Saints well know that George will be a hard fellow to outfox on that Tech blueline.

The local collegians deserve a bumper crowd this Sunday and all hockey fans around these parts should see to it that they get it.

And by the way, we think that the lighting at St. Dunstan's could be greatly improved. Perhaps old age is just affecting us but at least we find the local university arena poorly lighted. We think too that something can be done to insure customers a bit better seating facilities.

School Sports Tonight

TONIGHT Spring Park and West Kent schools combine to stage their annual ice sports at The Sports Arena.

This indeed is a big night for the youngsters of both schools and parents and friends of the boys and girls should be on hand tonight to watch them perform. It's the biggest night in the winter for these youngsters and their greatest supporters should be their own folks.

Dont let them down. The show starts promptly at 7.30.

DISCUSS PENGUIN CHANCES

Sportswriters and sportscasters were tendered a dinner at the Horse and Sulky Club last evening, courtesy of the Sports Arena and the Old Spain Junior Penguin Club. Mike Hennessey, (left), sports columnist with The Evening Patriot, Myron Bell, sponsor of the Penguins, Sports Arena manager Earl Nicholson and Penguin coach Wes 'Bucko' Trainor discuss the Penguin chances in Junior playdowns this spring.

Penguins Score Easy Win; Trounce RCAF Eagles 8-3

Old Spain Junior Penguins, improving with every game, took the measure of visiting RCAF Eagles by an 8-3 score before a small crowd at the Sports Arena last night.

The Bucko Trainor - coached Baby Birds had a wide edge over their airforce opponents despite the fact that they had only one regular rearguard, Louis Smith in the lineup. Forwards took turns behind the blueline and did a good job in keeping the Eagles at bay.

The first twenty minutes of play saw the teams each score a goal but in the second period the Penguins fired four goals to two by the airmen. The winners triggered three unanswered markers in the final frame.

Stan Peardon was the big gun for the Juniors, grabbing a 'hat trick' and setting up another. Arnold MacLeod scored twice, Gordie Whitlock, Dave Gaudet and Willie Gallant counting the others.

For the Eagles it was Ken MacDonald with a brace and Hutchings.

Arnold MacLeod counted the first goal of the game at the 13.33 mark of the opening stanza, goalie Donnie Frizzell picking up the assist. A shot had bounced off Frizzell's pads to MacLeod who went all the way for the goal. Hutchings evened the score at 1-all on a solo effort at the 16.47 mark.

SHORT LIVED LEAD

The visitors captured a short lived lead at the 1.29 mark of the sandwich session when Ken MacDonald scored but 22 seconds later Arnold MacLeod put the Birds on even terms and from then on they never looked back.

Before the period had ended Peardon had scored twice and Willie Gallant once while the losers had blinked the red light once.

Eagles were shorthanded when Peardon rounded out his 'hat trick' at the 4.45 mark and Penguins were playing a man short when Gordie Whitlock made it 7-3 at the 9.02 mark. Dave Martin was serving a two-minute penalty at the time. Dave Gaudet rounded out the scoring less than three minutes later.

Officials Joe Coyle, Don Wheen meted out six penalties, all minors, with five of them going to the Penguins.

Royals Play At Stadium

Sandy's Royals travel to Summerside's Civic Stadium tonight for an Island Intermediate 'A' Hockey League fixture with Prince County Combines.

Royals are sporting a handsome nine point lead in the standings over the Combines and another Royals' decision tonight would just about sew matters up as far as first place is concerned. The Combines fully realize this and they'll be going after this one tonight with a real determination.

Royals love nothing better than winning hockey games and regardless of their comfortable cushion they'll try their mightiest to garner another two points. The Royals — Combines games are always hard fought affairs and tonight's Stadium encounter should be chalked full of action.

The action commences at 9.15 sharp.

HUNTER'S CORNER

Columnist Tells Of Battle Of Wits With Cagey Crow

In my last column I left readers somewhat up in the air with respect to how I fared in my battle of wits with this cagey old crow. Space was the problem. He was back the following spring with a third mate. There could be no mistake in his identity. His caw had a specific punch all its own and his size and cleverness was such that set him a class all by himself. He picked another mate and set up housekeeping about a quarter mile from the original nest site. Lying in wait at the nest site was unproductive as formerly. His mate was an easy target but I decided to play it smart and didn't shoot her.

I kept him under observation and had his foraging ground pretty well cased. An old pasture field was a favourite hangout. One morning I spotted him busy at one particular spot. With the aid of field glasses, a souvenir of the First Great War, I noted he was pulling some old, crusted manure apart with his beak and getting at the grubs, and what have you, that were at ground surface underneath. It was then I observed quite a herd of cattle feeding and moving in his direction. An idea suddenly popped into my head. I loaded my 10 guage lever action Winchester to capacity... six number 6 shot shells... and quietly fell in behind a quiet old cow. I kept close to her heels and walked with my head below her back level but it seemed like an hour before I got within good shooting range.

HE KNEW IT

When I got within thirty yards I nudged her a bit till she was about at the head of the herd and then stepped into the open fair in front of him. He knew he was trapped. For a matter of seconds we eyed each other. I was carrying the Winchester at hip level but knew the first move toward my shoulder would send him into the air. When he took of it wasn't into the air, as I thought he would, but along the ground, just skimming its surface and at an angle that carried him toward me. It was a tricky shot that I couldn't handle. I led him too far and threw dirt in his face. I never witnesses such aerial didoes cut by a crow before or since. He gave me the impression he was cork-screwing his way straight up into the stratosphere. I guess I was lucky for I was just throwing lead. I call it 'snap shooting' which is not really aiming but throwing lead in a sort of 'instinctive' way. It paid off... he cockscrewed fair into the third shot charge. He never knew what hit him and I was glad it happened that way. One has to be in top shape and feeling fit to shoot successfully that way. It calls for perfect co-ordination between eye, brain and muscle.

In a way it was a sort of hollow victory for I missed to old rascal that gave me such a battle of wits for three years. He made one serious mistake... he shouldn't have let me see him robbing that black duck's nest.

In my younger days I used to do a lot of trapping and a trap shy mink or fox appear to be possessed with human intelligence and I don't mean an ordinary human. They have been known to out-wit the best of trappers. When I farmed at Mount Albion after I was married I had quite a battle with a large male mink. At the rear of my farm was a 400 acre tract, formerly known as the Mount Albion Fur Company.

A number of beaver dams were still there and one in particular lay directly north of my land. Mink in those days were well worth catching as large, prime pelts often crowded the fifty dollar mark on the fur sales. A certain mink had his rounds back there. He would cross a beaver dam at the rear of my farm about once a week. When there was any depth of snow on the ground his trail looked as if someone had dragged a sizable log through the snow. Once when snow had been absent for a few weeks he had one such trail packed quite hard on the bottom. I had a bright idea. I tunnelled in from the side, well out from the side, and hollowed out a depression under this path leaving only a thin crust and placed a steel trap under this thin spot. There was nothing on the surface of the mink's trail to indicate any change. I figured his pelt was as good as on the stretcher but was mistaken.. he detoured this spot very nicely. He came within six inches of the trap before doing his side stepping act.

NATURE'S ASSIST

It was an assist by Nature that proved his undoing. I was hauling wood across this beaver dam and noticed where an uprooted heavy spruce had its roots and a portion of its trunk protruding above the ice. He always crossed this log at a certain spot under the overhanging roots and I set a trap on the ice on the opposite side from his approach. On a January evening, as the shades of night began to lower, I was heading homeward with a load of wood. There was a chill in the air that presaged a storm of some kind. I figured Mr. Mink was due that night so stopped and loosened up the trap and broke a slight crust. That night about six inches of fluffy, frost crystals fell that were light as down. They came in the early part of the night and there wasn't a breath of air stirring otherwise they'd have been blown hither and yon.

When I arose in the morning I thought that if the mink made his circle on schedule during the night I stood a good chance of having him in the morning. I forgot about the trap until I drove over the dam and noticed his trail in the light snow crystals, like as I said earlier, a log dragged through the snow. My eyes immediately darted to the tree stump where he made his regular crossings and there he was sitting up like a trim, dark brown cat fast by a fore foot in the trap. I pulled a hardwood sleigh stake from its socket on the sleigh and walked to where he sat. I reminded myself of a dentist approaching his chair with forceps and remarking: "This is going to hurt me worse than it is you dear". As I stood over him with club poised I thought to myself I'll make this as quick and painless as possible. I never did need the club. As I raised it for the blow the mink looked me square in the eye and then toppled over dead. I thought he was bluffing for a moment but he wasn't. He was so old his teeth were worn down to their gums so I guess his ticker flickered out on him. His pelt was full and prime nevertheless. Nature conspired against him but his time was running out in any event.

Canadiens, Wings Battle To 1-1 Draw In Detroit

DETROIT (CP) — Dickie Moore, set up by a neat piece of faking by Henri Richard, scored at 1:42 of the third period Thursday night to give Montreal Canadiens a 1-1 National Hockey League tie with Detroit Red Wings.

Richard faked around two Red Wings just inside the blue line and fed the puck to Moore who streaked in alone on left wing and beat goalie Hank Bassen with a low 15-footer for his 12th goal of the season.

Andre Pronovost, a one-time Canadien, gave Detroit the lead at 2:51 of the first period with his sixth goal.

Bassen had just made a sharp save on a hard slap shot by Bobby Rousseau and Detroit turned and raced back with Pronovost blasting a 20-footer into the near side of the net, cleanly beating goalie Jacques Plante.

The game, which drew 12,354 fans in zero weather, was wide-open yet there were comparaively few shots—both goalies had 26 saves.

BELIVEAU MISSES

Jean Beliveau, still looking for his 300th goal, had a good opportunity during an early second-period power play when he had Bassen down and was ready to fire. But Detroit defenceman Doug Barkley moved across and sent Beliveau flying almost to the boards before he could shoot.

Refereee John Ashley called eight penalties. The game threatened to get out of hand in the third period with both clubs getting hot and the fans started booing loudly and firing newspapers on the ice.

It was the first Detroit game Ashley has worked since Dec. 16 in New York which wound up in a melee after which Ashley was disciplined by the league for letting the game get out of hand and misinterpreting rules.

First period: 1. Detroit, A. Pronovost 6 (Ullman, MacDonald) 2:.1. Penalties—Backstrom major and Barkley major 11:16.

Second period: No scoring. Penalties — P. MacDonald 1:32, Gauthier 2:36, Fontinato 14:23.

Third period: 2. Montreal, Moore (12) (Richard, J. C. Tremblay) 1:42. Penalties—M. Pronovost, 4:03, Howe 19:47, G. Tremblay 19:47.

HALTS POWELL IN 3RD

Clay Lives Up To Prediction

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Backing his boastful prediction with a dazzling display of ring savvy and savage punching power, Cassius Clay knocked out a rugged but outclassed Charley Powell in the third round of a scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight Thursday night at the Civic Arena.

Clay, in winning his 17th straight professional fight without a defeat, was in command the whole way and hardly worked up a sweat.

Although giving away nine pounds to Powell, Clay battered his foe around unmercifully in the first two rounds.

The knockout came in 2:04 of the third round. Clay came out immediately but Powell kept backing way. A series of punches backed Powell into a corner. Two solid left hooks, a right jab to the chin and another slashing left floored the former professional football player for the full count.

Montague S,side School Teams Tangle Tonight

MONTAGUE — Montague regional high school "A" hockey team is host to Summerside high school tonight at Montague rink when the two teams meet for the first time this season for the first game in the senior "A" Interscholastic Hockey League.

Yesterday's sudden drop in temperature added assurance for a fine sheet of fast ice and this, along with other improvements to the promenade, dressing rooms and player's bench, made this winter by the management, will assure the fans of a top notch hockey game.

Last year when these two teams met each team won its fame in its home rink and both times displayed a fine brand of fast rugged hockey.

Hockey officials expressed the desire for the public to come out and support these high school teams and at the same time see a calibre of hockey which will rank favorably with any on the Island.

Miscouche High Is Easy Winner

SUMMERSIDE — Miscouche Regional High School trounced L'Evangeline Regional High 24-4 in the opening game of the Interscholastic "B" League. Ivan Baglole led the way for Miscouche bagging nine counters, while teammates Kenneth Arsenault and Thane Birch each notched four.

Maple Leafs Down Lowly Bruins 6-3

BOSTON (CP) — Toronto's Red Kelly, Bob Nevin and Dave Keon scored in a 90-second spurt, touching off a 6-3 National Hockey League victory over Boston Thursday night.

Frank Mahovlich, the top NHL goal producer, then collected his 24th and 26th and Keon got his second of the night and 19th of the season for insurance.

Kelly, the veteran skater and rookie parliamentarian, assisted on four scores in addition to his goal. Mahovlich had two assists.

Boston was leading 1-0 in the first period when Kelly tied the score on a Mahovlich rebound at 12:43. Nevin tallied with the Bruins shorthanded at 13:55 and 20 seconds later Keon made it 3-1.

When the Bruins pulled to within a goal twice on shots by Murray Oliver and Ed Westfall, the Leafs quickly rebounded for another of their own.

Wayne Hicks opened the scoring for the last place Bruins. Two assists by Johnny Bucyk enabled the Boston ace to pass New York's Andy Bathgate for the NHL scoring lead. He has 48 points.
