ELLEN'S DIARY

By An Island Farmer's Wife

Was this our washing day? Not always do we choose a Monday for it. We suppose this lapsing from custom stems from our busier days at Alderlea, when time for our housework depended in greater measure than now upon the unfavourable of the farm. Then if some seasonal interest required all the help James could muster to field or barn, our washing was of necessity postponed. Because as we used to point out, "You can wash, Ellen, when we can't work at the hay. There'll be a break in this fine weather shortly for you—you'll see! Then you can go to your washing." This was of course fairly good logic. And if we at the outset suffered our moments of disappointment over agreeing to his plans, we remember it was quickly dispersed in the joy of working as a family unit toward some desired aim and ideal.

one thing which must not be connected with it is a sense of obligation to do some particular thing at some particular time. I had 200 letters waiting a few days ago and any amount of work which had to be done, and I deliberately spent two hours reading poetry. "Idleness," another says, "is as necessary to good work as activity. The one who can take hold hard, and to some purpose, is the one who knows how to let go." So we idled today—having first liquidated the essential items of our chores and sent James off, quite briskly we may say, with the rest of the Family to a day at the Fair.

There was blue sky of August roofing the valley and glints of sunlight on the millpond below, and the afternoon was commencing to spin away the hours when we came to a chair in the shade of the front verandah and opened the covers of a book. It was exceedingly pleasant there, with the whisperings of summer in the trees and shrubs about. Blackie came out of the everywhere of the surroundings to lie at our feet, hound pillowed on paws. "Poor fellow!" we said, reaching down to touch a silken ear. "You're envious, aren't you?" Ears perked. He looked up, whimpering. "You'll be lonelier, it is likely, tomorrow." "What for that dog be lonelier tomorrow?" a pert sparrow-bird balancing on a twig of rosebush in the lawn queried.

Until tomorrow... Diary... Good-night...

57 Year Old Church Sees First Wedding Solemnized

For the first time in the history of Little Sands United Church its congregation has had the opportunity of seeing a wedding ceremony performed in their church. On July 6, just nineteen days before the 57th anniversary of this parish marriage vows were exchanged between Shirley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Livingstone of Hopefield and Gordon, son of Mrs. MacDonald and the late Mr. MacDonald of Heathersdale. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. C. MacDougall assisted by Rev. Fraser of Valleyfield.

The church was especially decorated for this occasion with pink mums and the guest pews were marked with white ribbons and Sweetheart roses. Mrs. Allan Cameron, Caledonia, sister of the groom was organist and played appropriate selections during the ceremony. While the register was being signed, Mr. Mack Munroe sang "O Perfect Love".

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, gowned in a white silk organza dress with matching veil. She carried a white Bible and a spray of red roses. The bridesmaid, Mrs. Gallup of the late Mr. MacDonald of Heathersdale, wore a blue taffeta dress with hat to match.

The best man was Mr. Preston MacDonald, brother of the groom and ushering were Messrs. Raymond Livingstone and Martin MacDonald.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home.

Crandall - Dewar Weds In Ceremony At Summerside

The marriage of Dorothy Diane, miss Mc' during the signing of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert register, Mr. Carleton Elliott, Sackville, N.B., was organist.

B. Dewar, Summerside and William Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Church decorations consisted of baskets of mixed flowers. The W. H. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace red- ing over strapless nylon net, with pointed sleeves. The head- dress was of nylon tulle trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red sweetheart roses.

The made of honor, Miss Isabelle Jardine, wore a blue gown of nylon over taffeta. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Katherine Dewar, sister of the bride, wore a similarly fashioned gown in pink. Both attendants wore coronets and mits of matching color, and carried bouquets of sweet peas and gypsophila.

For travelling the bride wore an aqua two-piece ensemble with a crystal necklace and a corsage of sweetheart roses. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo with white accessories, and a boutonniere of sweetheart roses.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Cran- dall, wore a teal blue gown with matching accessories, her corsage, matching accessories, her corsage, Queen Elizabeth roses.

Mr. Robert Schurman, Summerside, sang "The Lord's Prayer" be- side the ceremony, and "Oh, Pro- vey Bernard Crapaud."

Protests Against The Calling of Hurricanes By Women's Names

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Thomas Kuchel Rep-Calif., pro- tested Thursday against naming hurricanes after women, who have "historically symbolized tenderness, devotion, sympathy and peacefulness."

He suggested the weather bureau switch to more appropriate nomenclature-like "acrimonious or aggressive," followed by belligerent or "billous."

Similar protests were voiced by gallants last year, but the weather bureau decided to stick to lady-like labels, explaining that in the complicated communications system used in tracing hurricanes and broadcasting warnings it needs "short, easily pronounced and readily recognized" designations.

Unless the system is changed, the next hurricane will be called "Dith."

Hartman-MacEachern Wedding

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Kitchener, Ontario, was the scene of a summer wedding at 9 o'clock on Wednesday, July 20, when Don Margaria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph MacEachern, Johnstons River, P. E. I., was united in the Holy Bonds of marriage to William Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hartman, St. Clements, Ontario. Rev. Fr. Haller, pastor at St. Joseph's performed the marriage ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass.

The altar was decorated for the occasion with summer flowers. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of net and lace over bridal satin styled with fitted bodice and full skirt. A fingertip tulle veil fell from a tiny cap matching the gown. She carried a cascade of pink and white carnations with gardenias.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Concaal Woelfle, Jr., sister of the groom, wore a gown of embroidered organza over yellow taffeta with a matching headpiece. She carried a nosegay of yellow Talcott roses.

Mr. Concaal Woelfle Jr. was John Balar, Kitchener and Mr. Daniel McRae, Toronto, cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother chose a perry-winkle blue nylon crepe and lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

The groom's mother was attired in a dress of imported aqua linen embroidered in navy blue with matching coat, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

After a reception held at Three Bridges, the newly-weds left on a wedding trip to Montreal, St. Anne De Beaupre and Quebec City.

For travelling the bride chose a cinnamon brown linen suit with white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hartman will take residence at 54 Margaret Ave. North, Waterloo, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph MacEachern, Miss Doreen McRae, Miss Pearl MacEachern, and Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon, Toronto; Mr. Daniel McRae, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Browne and sons, John and Mark, Allentown, Pa.

High Protein Content In Low Cost Sardines

By Ida Bailey Allen

"Here is a painting called 'Corn Husking at Nantucket,'" said the Chef, "by the distinguished American artist, Eastman Johnston."

"And corn is truly an all-American food, Chef. It was found growing on this continent by the first explorers. Corn was so important to the settlers that corn husking bees were turned into social occasions by the farmers with neighboring families as guests, exactly as shown on the painting."

CORN-GROWING ENFORCED

"Lest the 'grim and grizzled face of starvation' stare upon them, the wise Governors of early American days enforced by law the raising of corn. Each colonist was allowed free 'Corn Ground,' and each was compelled to grow more than he needed, to furnish a surplus to feed the soldiers, fishermen and officers, who had no time to raise crops.

USES OF CORNMEAL

"Cornmeal was used by our forefathers, instead of wheat flour, for cakes, breads and in many other dishes. And 'succotash,' a combination of corn and beans originated by Indian squaws, was a favorite food."

"How surprised and pleased the early settlers would have been to find this painting of a neighborhood corn husking hanging in the Metropolitan Art Museum in Central Park of New York City — once fertile farmland!"

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Vegetable Juice Garlic Bread
 Beef Steak Pie
 Succotash
 Custard Caramel
 Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea Milk

Beef Steak Pie: Dust 1 1/2 lbs. round, chuck, or flank steak on both sides with 1 tsp. powdered meat tenderizer; let stand 15 min. Slice thin; then cut in hitzized pieces. Mix 2 lbs. flour, 1 1/2 tsp. salt and 1/4 tsp. pepper; roll meat in it.

Arrange in an oiled, shallow 1-qt. baking dish. Top with 2 lbs. minced onion. Add 1 crushed beef bouillon cube and 1/4 c. boiling water. Cover, and bake 1 1/2 hrs. in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F.

Top with pie pastry rolled a scant 1/4-in. thick. Slash in the center. Brush with milk. Bake 30 min. longer at 350 degrees F.

Custard Caramel: Measure 1/2 c. granulated sugar into a small heavy frying pan; cook and stir over a low heat until melted or caramelized. Pour about 1 tbs. into custard cups (one at a time), and rotate until coated with the caramel. Ladle in custard filling.

Stand the cups in a baking pan. Pour in boiling water to the depth of 1 1/2-in. Bake 35 min. in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., or until a knife inserted near the centre comes out clean. Chill at once, unmoulded in desert dishes, the custards will be coated with caramel.

Custard Filling: Slightly beat 3 eggs with 1-3 c. sugar, 1-16 tsp. salt, and 1/2 tsp. vanilla. Stir in 2 1/2 c. milk. Use as directed.

Morning Smile

A woman's anguished voice shrilled over the telephone. "Oh, officer, two young men are trying to get into my room through the window."

"Sorry, lady" was the reply. "You've made a mistake, this isn't the police station — this is the fire station."

"Oh I know that," said the voice impatiently. "They need a longer ladder."

Leather Luxury

By ALICE ALDEN

Two luxury fabrics certainly do a better job than one all on its own. That's the decision of many designers, including our own blithe Bonnie Cashion. She has designed an extremely handsome line of lovely leathers that help to maintain the eminence of America in the sports clothes field. This town and country two-piece combines kidskin and camel's hair in smart handling. The leather jacket goes in for below-the-belt welt seaming that shapes the pockets and is seemingly held by two tabs at each side. The slim skirt matches the wool draped-collar-onto-yoke detail of the leather jacket. White pearl buttons trim the front, cuffs and
