The First Bona Fide Seizure

THE FISHERMAN DAVID J. ADAMS CAPTURED AT DIGBY.

HOW SHE WAS SURPRISED BY THE STEAMER LANSDOWNE, WHILE QUIETLY GETTING A SUPPLY OF BAIT IN THE ANNAPOLIS BASIN. FURTHER PARTICULARS.

(Special despatch to the Halifax Herald.)

DIGBY, May 7.—Quite a sensation prevailed here to-day over the seizure of an American fishing schooner, that was defiantly violating the treaty by the open purchase of bait. Two fishermen came through the Gut yesterday, and quietly in the basin, and proceeded to obtain supplies of bait, etc. Collector Viets watched their operation, and quietly sent a message to Captain Scott, at St. John. The Lansdowne got up steam, and five hours later was patrolling off Digby Gut. During the evening one of the fishermen put to sea. But the other remained in the basin, with canvas over her stern, thus hiding her name. Early in the morning, the Lansdowne steamed into the basin, and the second officer was sent on board, to request the captain to remove the canvas from the stern of his ship and to get outside the three mile limit with all possible despatch. The vessel was found to be the David J. Adams, of Gloucester, Mass., Capt. Allen Kinney. The Captain having obtained his supplies, was most willing to comply with Captain Scott's request, and hoisted sail. But a dead calm prevailed, and the schooner made slow headway. Meanwhile proof of the vessel having purchased bait, was furnished to Captain Dakin, of the Lansdowne, and he immediately started in pursuit, overtook the schooner and ordered her to return. Both captor and captured returned to Digby together, where a formal investigation was held on the schooner, the violation of the treaty proven, a crew from the Lansdowne put on the schooner, and she was sent to St. John. Consul General Phelan, of Halifax, has telegraphed here for full particulars. The seizure of the vessel for such an open and flagrant violation of the law right within sight of the customs officials, is generally approved of, although, of course, it has occasioned quite an excitement. The Americans knew that the Lansdowne was at St. John, sixty miles across the bay, and therefore imagined that they should violate the treaty with impunity. Her sudden appearance with the gray dawn of the morning was a great surprise to the trespassers.

Caught on the Fly.

A BRAVE MAN HUGS A DYNAMITE CARTRIDGE AND SAVES HIS LIFE.

An Orleans, N. Y., despatch says that Dell Bankson, an oil well shooter, went to the new Kane oil field Saturday to torpedo the Craig & Capper well, which had just reached the sand. He lowered a shell containing 20 quarts of nitro-glycerine to the depth of 100 feet in the well, when he discovered that the well was about to make a bow. He knew that the force of the oil would carry the torpedo out at the top, and if it were thrown upward with the flow it would be exploded in contact with a derrier beam. If it escaped from the volume of oil it would fall back to the ground and explode. In either case Bankson knew that certain destruction awaited him, and the certainty of his employers, unless the torpedo could be averted. With remarkable presence of mind he placed himself at the mouth of the well, and as the shell shot up on the stream of oil he threw his arm about it and held it. Even then undue haste and lack of judgment might have proved fatal, but Bankson held the torpedo until the spurt of oil had ceased before he removed it from the well, although he knew that only a few seconds would elapse before the oil would be followed by a volume of gas and a mass of rocks from the depths. The instant the oil ceased he lifted the shell from the well and walked carefully and steadily away, carrying the torpedo in his arms. He had scarcely turned his back when the gas and rocks came out of the well with a roar and a rush. When all was over Bankson replaced the torpedo in the well, lowered it to the bottom, and finished his work. The owners of the well heard of the wonderful nerve and judgment displayed by Bankson they at once presented him with a check for $100. Bankson's conduct in his perilous situation is said by old well shooters to be the most courageous in the oil regions—work that necessitates the exercise of constant vigilance, cool judgment, and steady nerves on the part of the operators.

The Halifax Refinery.

IT HAS BEEN PURCHASED FROM THE BANK BY THE NEW COMPANY FOR $25,000, AND WILL BE RE-STARTED IN A FEW DAYS.

The Halifax Herald announces with pleasure that a new company of local capitalists have made arrangements to purchase the Nova Scotia sugar refinery from the Merchants' Bank, that the requisite stock has nearly all been subscribed, and that there is every probability of the refinery being again in full operation within a few weeks. After the old company wound up, it will be remembered that on the 19th ult., W. J. Stairs, A. G. Jones and J. S. Maclean were appointed a committee on behalf of a new company to ascertain the best terms that could be made with the Merchants' Bank. They have worked most assiduously ever since, made most favorable arrangements, and presented their report to a meeting of those interested yesterday. It is understood that the main points of the arrangements are these: The Merchants' Bank disposes of the building, plant, franchises and materials on hand, for the sum of $250,000—$50,000 cash and the remaining $200,000 to remain at interest for five years, at 4 per cent. As the materials on hand are valued at $38,000, the new company practically obtains this magnificent establishment, costing $475,000, for the exceedingly low price of $427,000, with the most easy terms of payment. The new company propose to raise a capital of $150,000 which, after paying the bank the $50,000 will leave them $100,000 on hand for working capital, added to which is the value, $38,000 of the necessary manufacturing materials. Of the whole amount required, $110,000 was subscribed at Friday's meeting—the subscribers nearly all being stockholders in the old company. This leaves only $40,000 to be subscribed. The act incorporating the new company has passed the legislature, the incorporators being W. J. Stairs, A. G. Jones, John S. Maclean, James Butler, E. P. Archibald, Fred Curry, J. R. Lithgow, Duncan Waddell and Peter Ross. It is understood that both English and American capitalists were anxious to secure the Nova Scotia refinery, but the Merchants' bank very wisely gave our local capitalists the preference.
