

FINANCIAL AID COLUMN

by Rita Pendergast

Hi Folks. This week's column will be on the Rotary Foundation's awards. They are very interesting awards, you may be interested in applying for one.

The Rotary Foundation of Rotary International offers five educational awards with out of the ordinary features. Since the objective of these awards is to increase international understanding, the award recipient is required to study in a country other than his own. During his study year he is expected to be an ambassador of good will, both through appearances before Rotary clubs and through informal contacts. After the study year is completed, the award recipient is expected to discuss his experiences abroad and share the understanding which he was able to acquire of another culture with those who sponsored him for the award.

The five educational awards, available to both men and women, are:
 - Graduate fellowships, for those who will have received a bachelor's degree or equivalent.
 - Undergraduate Scholarships, for those who are studying at the university level but who will not have completed their bachelor's degree.
 - Technical Training Awards, for those who are secondary school graduates or the equivalent and who have been employed or engaged in a technical field for at least two years at the time of application. -Teacher's Awards, for those who have been employed or engaged as full-time teachers of the physically, mentally or educationally handicapped for at least two years at the time of application.

-Journalism Awards, for those who have been employed in a full-time position as a journalist at the time of application, or have been actively pursuing full-time post-secondary studies in print or broadcast journalism for two years prior to the commencement of award studies for which application has been made, and who intend to pursue the profession of journalism after completion of their award studies.
