

The Will.

Blame not the times in which we live,
Nor fortune frail and fugitive;
Blame not thy parents, nor the rule,
Of vice or wrong once learned at school;
But blame thyself, O man!

Although both heaven and earth combined
To mould thy flesh and form thy mind,
Though every thought, word, action, will,
Was framed by powers beyond thee, still
Thou art thyself, O man!

And self to take or leave is free,
Feeling its own sufficiency;
In spite of science, spite of fate,
The judge within the soon or late,
Will blame but thee, O man!

Say not, "I would but could not—He
Should bear the blame who fashioned me—
Call you mere change of motive choice!"
Scorning such pleas, the inner voice
Cries, "Thine the dead, O man!"

FARM NOTES.

(From the American Agriculturist, Oct. 1.)

Buildings.—This month offers the most favorable time usually for the painting and repair of farm buildings, and putting them in order for the winter. A great part of this work may be well done during this month by the farmer and his boys.

Implements, put away for the winter, should be painted or protected in some way from the action of the air and moisture. Paint or varnish for the wood-work, and a varnish of two-thirds rosin and one-third mutton tallow is excellent for protecting iron and steel.

Live Stock.—A little extra feed brings cattle and horses to the beginning of winter in good order. The tops of carrots, beets, and turnips may be fed to good advantage, and there is a great deal of sweetness in the October pasturage. Where much corn is planted there will always be soft ears and "nubbins" which are best fed to horses and pigs.

Swine.—Pigs will fatten nearly as fast on potatoes this month as on corn next. They do best on cooked feed, and the grain ought to be ground.

Sheep.—This month we speak for March lambs. Half-fed sheep are often run into market from sections where food is scarce, and it pays well to secure such to feed for the winter, turning them off fat in the spring. The feeder should be satisfied if, by so doing, he works up his wheat straw and corn into manure, getting pay for his grain and cash outlay, and that only.

A Pot of English Ivy makes one of the most agreeable and cheap ornaments for the sitting-room in the winter. A common four, or five-inch pot with a strong plant can be bought of the florist for fifty cents or less. It is easy to make a basket of interlacing coarse wires to hold the plant.

Entertaining Company.—The whole philosophy of hospitality is summoned up by Emerson in the following: "I pray you, O excellent wife, not to cumber yourself and me to get a rich dinner for this man or this woman, who has alighted at our gate, nor a bed-chamber made ready at a great cost. These things, if they are curious in, they can get for a dollar at the village. But let this stranger see, if he will, in your looks, in your accent and behavior, your heart and earnestness, your thought and will, what he cannot buy at any price, at any village or city, and which he may well travel fifty miles and dine sparingly and sleep hard, in order to behold. Certainly let the board be spread and the bed be dressed for the traveller but let not the emphasis of hospitality be in these things. Honor to the house when they are simple to the verge of hardship, so that the intellect is awake and sees the laws of the universe; the soul worships truth and love, honor and courtesy flow into all deeds." One of the greatest comforts of having a home should be that in it we have a place for friends and even strangers—rooms, more than supply the needs of the family and extra leaves to the extension table. The secret of true hospitality, as Emerson has stated, is in its coming from the heart.

A Principle in Feeding.—All food beyond such amount that is properly digested and assimilated by the animal is a source of loss to the owner, and that in two ways: First, the food is lost; and second, the animal is not kept in the best condition for getting the most out of its feed—its stomach is overloaded and its digestive apparatus more or less disarranged. Just inside the limits of assimilation is the point to have in view in feeding; in this way the animal will have a good appetite, and other things being equal, is sure to give the best returns for food consumed. There is a golden mean in feeding farm stock, which the farmer should find.

Muck and Manure Compost.—Several inquirers are interested to know the proportion of manure to muck in compost. That depends—1st, on the quality and texture of the muck; 2nd, on the richness and heating quality of the manure. If the muck is quite dry and pulverulent, one load of horse manure to five of muck will bring on a good heat soon after the heap is laid up, especially if it gets a good soaking rain. But if the muck is lumpy and the manure stale and perhaps mixed with much litter and cow dung, one to three will be better. After any heap has come to a good heat, cut it over, add more muck if you think it best, and let it heat again. Tankings, ground scrap cake, castor pomace, hen dung, pigeon dung, and many similar nitrogenous and easily fermenting substances are substitutes for stable manure, and may be used in similar quantities.

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Are you suffering with Consumption, Coughs, Severe Colds settled on the Breast, Pneumonia, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs? If so, go to your Druggist and get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. This medicine has lately been introduced from Germany, and is selling on its own merits. The people are going wild over its success, and Druggists all over our country are writing us of its wonderful cures among their customers. 2,400,000 samples have been given away free of charge. If you wish to try its superior virtue get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Large size bottle 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.

Remedy for Hard Times.

Stop spending so much on fine clothes, rich food and style. Buy good, healthy food, cheaper and better clothing; get more real and substantial things of life every way, and especially stop the foolish habit of running after expensive and quack doctors or using so much of the vile humbug medicine that does you only harm, and makes the proprietors rich, but put your trust in the greatest of all simple pure remedies, Hop Bitters that cures always at a trifling cost, and you will see better times and good health. Try it once. Read of it in another column.
