BALLOT BOX STOLEN.
ONE of the ballot boxes in the West Prince election was stolen yesterday on the passage from Alberton to Summerside. Twenty-seven boxes were, it is said, placed in the car and only twenty-six were there when the train arrived. No doubt the official in charge was grossly careless; and no doubt another crime has been committed on behalf of the Government party. Mr. Hackett has been declared elected, and, in the nature of things, all the deputy returning officers having been supporters of the Government, the recount is likely to result in his favor. So the ballot box was stolen. Search is being made for it today, and, in the meantime, the recount has been postponed.

A CLEAN ELECTION.
THE PEOPLE'S VOICE was heard last night at the Opposition meeting held in The Lyceum. It was pleasing and reassuring to hear almost every speaker declare that, in so far as the Opposition is concerned, the coming election ought to be "clean" and "pure;" and it was yet more gratifying to hear the selected candidates for Charlottetown—Mr. Paton and Dr. S. R. Jenkins—state that, in so far as they are concerned, they have agreed and determined that the election shall be "clean." A stream must be impure if its source is corrupt. So must a Legislature and Government succeeding to power and office as a result of bribery, by means of money, or whiskey, or any other unlawful form of inducement to the baser sort of electors, be bad.

The people at large, respectable electors on both sides, denounce the scandalous corruption which has lately prevailed in both Dominion and Provincial elections. Electors have been bribed with public money, electors have been bribed with money out of the campaign fund, electors have been bribed with money out of the private pockets of interested individuals, men seeking for office and "favors," electors have been bribed and debauched with whiskey galore,—and so electoral triumphs have been won! Economical and good government cannot spring from such causes.
Recognizing this fact, the supporters of the Opposition have been careful to put into the field "clean men." Mr. Paton, the candidate for the property franchise, and Dr. Jenkins, the candidate for the whole vote of the people of Charlottetown, are both beyond the shadow of a shade of suspicion of tampering with the free, pure, God-given, and law sanctioned right of every man to take a part in the government of the country in which he lives by voting as his judgment and his conscience dictate.

But how about the city candidates on behalf of the Farquharson administration? It is notorious that, in the election contest just ended, as well as the election contests which preceded it in 1897 and in 1893, the judgment and consciences of hundreds of electors were tampered with by political panders acting for the government; and it is almost equally notorious that one of the chief of these is one of the candidates for election in the city of Charlottetown. The deeds of Mr. Whear are, indeed, celebrated in song as well as story. As for Mr. George E. Hughes, we are surprised that he should consent to accept responsibility for the acts of a Government whose "offence is rank, and smells to Heaven." The anomalous and enormous expenditures of election years, the road orders, circling around directly after each election, "thick as leaves of Vallambrosa," the waggon loads of whiskey distributed in town and country "just before the election,"—all these things and more that are wrong, must have impressed themselves upon the observant mind of Mr. Hughes. He has professed sympathy with the ratepayers of Charlottetown, subjected to heavy double taxation, and he has professed indignation at the Government that, as he contended, unjustly "scoops" taxes to which the City Council is by law and by right entitled. Yet he is now the candidate for the property-holders vote in Charlottetown, as a supporter of the Government!

But the Government candidates, their "heard" exploits and their consistency apart,—the coming contest resolves itself into a struggle between those who have declared for "a clean election" and those who depend upon deals and money and road jobs and whiskey, as applied to that class of electors who have hitherto held the balance of power between the stannch men of the two parties.

WHITEWASH THE TREES.
ACKNOWLEDGING the receipt of his report for 1900, Prof. Fletcher, Entomologist of the Experimental Farms, thus writes Rev. Father Burke anent the oyster shell bark louse:—"With regard to the oyster shell bark louse, there are indications that we have now a good remedy in simply spraying trees in autumn with ordinary lime whitewash—1 lb. fresh lime to 1 gallon of water. This shells off in the winter and carries the scales with it. It is cheap, and apparently effective."

Horticulturists will welcome this good news, and we may soon see every orchard white with lime wash.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

THAT was a "cold crack" the Government supporters gave the Hon. Benj. Rogers last evening. "Two splendid candidates," "very good men to represent the city," "honest and straight men—they ought to be elected,"—these are the remarks we hear on every hand today.

HON. BENJAMIN ROGERS, a member of the Government, turned out by the Liberals of Charlottetown, after he had expressed his willingness to contest the election. This is the height of Liberal courtesy!

A QUEBEC newspaper points out that the Government has been returned to power "practically without a promise to fulfill," and the Montreal Gazette remarks that, as the party cannot be said to have been hampered by its pledges in the past, since it calmly disregarded them, one does not see why this "peculiar feature" should make the position of the Government "in very truth to be envied." They ought rather to be pitied, because they have no pledges to break, because that has been their main policy in the past (so far as they can be said to have any) and it proved a success."

THE Toronto World has the following remarks, in reply to the Toronto Star, on the mixing of Provincial and Dominion politics:—"The Star says we should not mix Provincial and Federal politics. It thinks the conservatives are unreasonable in asking Ontario to punish Ross because Quebec voted for Laurier. We agree with the Star that it is better to keep Provincial and Federal politics separate. But who is it that is weaving them together? Who but Mr. Ross, the Premier of Ontario? Mr. Ross went on a tour through Eastern Ontario, speaking in the interests of the Liberal party. His object was to use his influence as Premier of Ontario on behalf of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Is it not absurd to say that the people have no right to mix up Provincial and Federal politics when the Premier of Ontario is the biggest sinner of all in this respect? If Mr. Ross wished to be judged by the provincial record alone, his public acts should be confined to Provincial matters. When he intrudes his views on extra-Provincial questions he should not complain of those who disagree with him on these views pass judgment on him as a Federal as well as a Provincial politician. Mr. Ross has no one but himself to blame if the electorate of Ontario punish him for interfering in Federal politics."

A Graceful Slide from the General to the Specific

Some Stores often make ridiculous statements in advertising, sometimes going so far as to ask you to buy somewhere else. "Come and see our stock before purchasing elsewhere," one man says. Of course he doesn't mean to tell you to purchase elsewhere, but that's what he says. Another store says "our new fall stock is opening up daily." Of course the stock isn't doing any such thing. The latest request that has been noticed comes from a Fur man. He says. "Come and see our stock when full." Of course they don't mean to slight a man who never gets full, and they'll no doubt be just as well pleased to sell goods to a man "when full." Once in a while some store claims and advertises to sell goods cheaper than anybody else on earth will. Of course they don't mean that. They mean "cheaper than anybody else excepting Paton & Co." You are just as sure to get more for your money at our store as you are sure of death and taxes. We can't take those new suits around to your house and show them to you, you'll have to come here and see them.
