A Slaughter King.

Col. C. C. Slaughter, one of the cattle kings of Northern Texas, thus described his farm to a reporter of The Chicago Times:—

My ranch, he said, is at the head of the Colorado River, in Northern Texas, and I have 40,000 head of stock at present. My grounds cover four counties, and the men I employ to guard the herd ride a circuit of more than 100 miles. Shortly after the war I moved from Kansas to Texas, and began the business of stock raising. But, with many other large dealers, I was compelled to quit the country on account of cattle thieves, whose depredations thoroughly discouraged the enterprise. Ten years ago, however, we perceived how rich the grass was growing in Texas, and determined to move back and occupy the lands. It was about seven years ago that the leading cattle dealers formed a protective association, and subsequently procured the passage of stringent laws against thieving. We can send a man to the penitentiary now for stealing a calf.

I started in business by bringing 300 head of Shorthorn cattle from Kentucky and crossing them with the pure Spanish Longhorn breed. This united the heavy qualities of the former stock with the power and activity of the "rustlers," and the result has been as satisfactory as could be desired. Few people understand how the business can be so profitable. The fact is that it not only gives a handsome dividend, but the herd doubles every three years. The English and Scotch are investing a great deal of capital, finding that it pays them 10 per cent. interest.

The Late Prince Imperial.

The Prince of Wales, as previously announced in our despatches on the 12th inst., unveiled the statue at the royal military academy at Woolwich, which was erected to the memory of the French Prince Imperial by the subscriptions of 25,000 officers and men of the British army at a cost of £4,310. The Prince of Wales was accompanied by his two sons and by the Dukes of Edinburgh and Cambridge. The Queen sent two wreaths. Gen. Lord Wolseley, Prince Lucien Bonapart, the Duc de Bassano, and a large and distinguished company were present. In his remarks, the Prince of Wales said:—"It is obvious that this short ceremony is not a political one in any sense of the word. We are inaugurating a monument to the memory of a young and gallant prince who fell fighting for the Queen of England." After tracing the career of the prince imperial to the time of his death, the Prince of Wales concluded: "His virtues, his blameless life, his courage, his obedience to others, will always prove a bright example to the cadets educated at Woolwich who, when they gaze on the statute inaugurated to-day, will see the features of the young and brave prince who died with his face to the foe." The Prince of Wales afterward distributed the Egyptian medals to the patients in the Herbert Hospital.

Political interest is now largely centred on the relations of England and France. The isolation of the latter is complete. Gambetta's death is already influencing affairs for the advantage of England, since, in spite of their chagrin, both the French press and Government recognise the futility of opposing England. French obstinacy is again defeating itself. By refusing a joint military intervention, France excluded herself from the right of aiding in the settlement. By declining the presidency of the Reform Debt Commission, which was suggested by England, she permits Englishmen to control all the finances of Egypt.

The Great French Remedy, Dr. LeDuc's Periodical Pills.

For the cure of Leucorrhœa or White's Excessive or painful Menstruation, Green Sickness, Falling of the Womb, Catarrh of the Uterus or Vagnia, Hysteria, Pain in the Back, or Piles, or for the purpose of invigorating and giving tone to the Generative Organs, two pills should be taken twice daily, or in very enfebled conditions, one pill three times a day. To effect cures in chronic cases it will be necessary to continue the use of the remedy for some months. A reasonable trial will create sufficient confidence in the remedy to insure its being taken until a permanent cure is effected.

FRED. J. GARBETT, M. D., Graduate of the London University, Dean and Registrar of the Boston Medical College of Specialists, says:—"I had tried every system of treatment for the cure of nervous prostration, partial paralysis, and abouic dyspepsia. Persuaded, much against my will, to try the Pad system, I put them on, and in two days found that the paralysis of the nerves had been conquered, the entire nervous system toned up, and now—six months from the day of application—I am free from any symptoms of nervous debility or dyspeptic tendency. In my professional practice as a Physician, in private life and among my personal friends, I shall deem it my bounden duty and my highest privilege, as an act of gratitude, to counsel and enforce this treatment, as the only reliable and effectual remedial agency having for its origin the stomach, liver, brain, and great nerve centres.
