Cold Storage Plant Added By Tignish Fisheries Co-op

THE NEW cold storage plant of Tignish Fisheries Co-operative is now in operation. On hand to make sure that everything was in working order, left to right, were Joseph W. Doucette, G.A. Kaye, Wilson Shea, manager of the co-operative, and Kingsley Shaw. Mr. Shea pulled switch to start the plant in operation.

TIGNISH — The Tignish Fisheries Co-operative has just completed construction of added facilities for the handling of both fresh and salt fish.

A new building to house a freezing and cold storage plant and a warehouse has been erected and the necessary equipment installed.

The new building and plant is capable of storing more than 500,000 pounds of wet salt fish, and holding three carloads of packaged fish.

The fish salted at Tignish Run and left in the vats there for 18 days can be placed in the cold storage room for an indefinite period. The fish are taken from the storage room, boned and packaged for shipment.

The co-operative decided to build the new plant after it was unable to fill a large demand for choice boneless cod during the past year due to a lack of storage facilities.

The secretary of the co-operative, Joseph W. Doucette, was foreman for the construction of the building and local labor was used.

Refrigeration planning and installation was under the direction of G.A. Kaye of the Electrical and Refrigeration Services, Moncton, N.B. Wiring and heating contracts were handled by McNeill and Shaw, Summerside.

Legion Home Break Probed

TIGNISH — A break at the Legion Home in Tignish was discovered yesterday afternoon by caretaker Earle McDonald.

Sunday Express Levels Blast At Prince Philip

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip has drawn a snarl from Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express.

"The public and repeated attacks by the Duke of Edinburgh on the British press are raising the most grave constitutional issue," says the Sunday newspaper in an editorial signed by Colin Cross.

"For special attention the Duke always singles out The Daily Express. It is the paper he has vehemently criticized by name three times in the last 18 months."

The Daily Express also is published by Beaverbrook.

Last year, while on a South American tour, the Prince told a press conference he thought The Daily Express was a "bloody awful paper."

Ten days ago, at the annual lunch of the House of Commons lobby reporters, he was asked by a reporter if he had changed his mind.

"I said it once, I will say it again," the Prince replied.

The Daily Express—vigorous opponent of Britain's entry into the European Common Market —believes it came in for criticism by Prince Philip because the Prince sympathized with the British application for market membership.

HALIFAX (CP) — The weather office says the weather pattern is beginning to change after three sweltering days in the heat wave. Cooler air moved south from Labrador over Prince Edward Island and Cape Breton Sunday afternoon dropping temperatures there.

A weather disturbance now north of the Great Lakes is tracking eastward towards the gulf of St. Lawrence. Its effect is expected to be felt today as southerly sea breezes develop along the southern coasts bringing cooling sea breezes during the day, and fog at night to many communities. More afternoon cloudiness, showers and scattered thundershowers are expected inland as this large disturbance approaches eastern Canada.

Regional forecasts:

Cape Breton, Prince Edward Island: A few clouds becoming cloudy this afternoon; a few showers or thundershowers in the late afternoon or early evening; cooler; light winds increasing to southerly 20 this afternoon. Low-high at Sydney and Charlottetown 58 and 75.
