Bertram - Champion Wedding

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the United Church Manse, Kensington on September 19th at 3 o'clock when Rev. L. M. Murray united in marriage Muriel Jennie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Champion, Darnley, to John Waldon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bertram, Fredericton.

The bride chose for her wedding a street length dress of powder blue nylon with black accessories and a corsage of white gladioli.

Margaret Champion, cousin of the bride was bridesmaid and wore a black pencil striped suit with green and gold accessories and a corsage of yellow gladioli. The groom was ably supported by his cousin, Fred Weeks.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride where supper was served to twenty-five guests. The table was decorated with autumn flowers and centred with a two tier wedding cake.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Bertram left by auto on a wedding trip through the Maritime with the best wishes of their many friends for a long and happy married life.

Popularity of picture windows, has caused some readjustment in the rules for winter window gardens.

A north window of normal proportions has not been considered a good location for flowering plants because of insufficient light. But a picture window facing north which is not shaded from reflected light of the northern sky, is a preferred location for most of the plants which are easy to grow in the house.

The light which such a window admits is adequate and it has the advantage of an even and cool temperature. In a room which varies between 70 and 80 degrees in daylight hours, the temperature close to a north window will often be 10 to 20 degrees lower.

A picture window facing south, on the other hand, which gets the full impact of the winter sun will usually be subject to extreme variations of temperature. If you place a thermometer between a south window, and storm sash, on a sunny day, you may get readings up to 100 degrees, when the outside temperature is below freezing.

East and west picture windows are likely to be more favorable to plants than one facing south, but the northern exposure is even more easily managed, and favors

A Winter Window Garden Makes Spring Come Faster, and... Teaches Many Lessons

A wider variety of plants, Cyclamens bloom freely in this location, and Paper White narcissi do much better than in a sunnier window, where the temperature range is much greater. Begonias, which may be injured by too much sun do well. It is an ideal spot for African violets, Amaryllis, calla lilies, and all the hardy bulbs will thrive, and of course the foliage plants and florists' green plants.

An arrangement by which a shade or curtain can be lowered between the plants and the glass on sub-zero nights will protect from injurious drafts, provided the window is of the double pane type, or has a tightly fitted storm sash. Automatic watering for indoor plants will save lots of trouble, and may save your plants. Trays or saucers, in which two inches of coarse sand can be placed should be provided. Stand the pots in the sand just below the bottom of the pot. This water will be drawn into the pot as needed to keep the soil moist, without danger of water-logging. Evaporation from the trays will also help humidify the air, which is usually too dry. Other methods of humidifying which may be available will be beneficial.

Those who live with picture windows soon learn that the light, or glare they admit, is not always pleasant. It is easily softened by a gauzy curtain, and in the case of plants excessive variations in temperatures may be lessened by shading with such a curtain, or a screen of similar material.
