THE ROCKY POINT FERRY.

Sir.—It is claimed by those in charge of the steamer Southport that she did not leave Rocky Point ahead of time Sunday morning. Some of the passengers on her also state that she must, if anything, have been a little late starting, as they were not able to get to the wharf in time for sailing. The fact seems to be that there is some uncertainty as to the Sunday time table, which certainly ought at once to be published in its proper form. For the above reason, I think it is just that I should withdraw that portion of my complaint that related to starting ahead of time last Sunday morning.

LIGHT IN THE DARKNESS.

Sir.—Do we realize that on tomorrow the Ripper traffic will be at its height, and through-out the Island, can only exist in violation of the law of the land? You and I, as citizens, are no longer responsible for its existence, as we were yesterday, nor are we responsible for its results. We can already see light in the darkness! On the morning of the Scott Act election, a poor widow woman, who had no drinking money, was seated to say, "I have prayed God to give the Scott Act victory to-day, and I believe He is going to answer my prayers." Let us hope that rummelling and drunkenness will now cease to exist in our fair city.

Charlottetown, July 26, 1894—moon wed fri In J. D. McLeod's Corner Building, Queen Street.

THE SUMMER GIRL hereabouts, comes to us for her shoes. This fact proves her to be as sensible as she is lovely. Those Oxford Ties of ours are just too cool to be without, and a summer girl without them would look as dismal as a watering place without the summer girl; and certainly nothing in footwear ever delighted any summer girl so much as our Ties, that have been voted the handsomest in town. Naturally the young ladies of Charlottetown are in a flutter over our shoe triumph, and even though Miss Smith looked long, she could never look prettier from a shoe point of view than she would wearing a pair of our inimitable Oxfords sold at 60 cents and up. We also have DONGOLA COMFORTS for old ladies. Every old lady should have a pair to enjoy real comfort. Always come to us if in search of something good and cheap.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Sudden Death.—Another has been added to the many sudden deaths which have occurred of late in this city. It is our sad and painful duty today to chronicle the death of Mrs. Trainor, wife of Mr. Francis Trainor, the employ of J. H. Myrick & Co., which occurred at her home on Gladion Street. West about nine o'clock last evening. Mrs. Trainor appeared in as good health as usual yesterday, and went to St. Dunstan's Cathedral about 6:30 o'clock. On her way home again, when near the Cameron Block, she took a sudden weakness, and was assisted to Johnson & Johnson's Drug Store, and from there conveyed home in a carriage. She was unconscious, and medical aid was immediately summoned, but she breathed her last shortly before six o'clock. To her bereaved husband and sorrowing family we extend our heartfelt sympathies.

THE CASTAWAYS.

"The Castaways."—Harry Lindley's company presented the beautiful nautical melodrama "The Castaways" at the Opera House last evening. The play was written by Mr. Lindley, and he states was built for the purpose of calling attention to the peril incurred by sailors through the cupidity of vessel owners who send rotten hulks to sea, little caring for the lives of men, so that they may reap their reward at the insurance offices. The play is certainly an interesting one, and was well put on by Mr. Lindley's company. Lindley, as Tony Edmunds, who, having failed to win the heart of one of the fair ladies of the village, went to sea, was the life of the whole affair, and kept the audience in a continual roar of laughter, especially while sea-sick in mid-ocean. Miss Adelaide Flint appears in a dual role in "The Castaways," that of Maggie Pierson, the sailor boy, and the fidelity of her characterization of the latter won her loud applause by those present last night. The little rent characters by other members of the company were well taken. The company appear tonight in the emotional melodrama, "The Wages Sin."—Moncton Times.
