Stevenson Suggested To Succeed Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic representative Emanuel Celler of New York said Sunday "I would be so bold as to suggest to President Eisenhower that he appointed Adlai Stevenson secretary of state." Celler said "no matter how much we deplore the illness" of State Secretary Dulles, "we can't tarry too long. We need someone in the driver's seat." He said Dulles' absence from his office "places the nation in an awkward position as far as foreign policy is concerned." And, he added, "there must be a successor." He said appointment of Stevenson, twice defeated Democratic presidential candidate, would be an example of "real bipartisan policy."

Boys' Choir Entertains For Mothers

An enjoyable hour was spent last Monday afternoon when the members of St. Dunstan's Basilica Boys' Choir entertained for their mothers. This choir is most fortunate in having as its director Rev. Dennis Gallant.

It will be remembered that Father Gallant was awarded a scholarship by the St. Pius X School of Liturgical Music in New York and that he studied there in 1957-57.

Although these boys have been under Father Gallant's direction only since last September, their performance gave evidence of the excellent and intensive training they are receiving. Following the entertainment, the boys were served a Valentine treat by their mothers, who later enjoyed a cup of tea and a chat with Father Gallant.

The mothers were loud in their praise of the wonderful choir work being done among the young folk by Father Gallant and hope to have the opportunity of hearing their boys sing soon again.

Dominican Dictator Faces Threat

By STANFORD BRADSHAW CIUDADN Trujillo (AP)—Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo may be facing the sternest threat of his 29-year career as dictator of the Dominican Republic.

Government officials here say Trujillo is alert to the danger of a foreign-backed movement against him. The threats come from his two biggest neighbors, Cuba and Venezuela, whose new leaders have made clear their hatred for Trujillo and his regime. Dominican exiles may help.

Some measures evidently have been taken here. These include: 1. Strengthening of the 12,000-man Dominican army. Some reports say a new military class of 5,000 men has been called up. 2. A reported increase in reconnaissance flights by the Dominican Air Force, equipped with jets. 3. Attempts to purchase fighter planes from Canada, a transaction ruled out by the Canadian government. Other arms purchase talks may be under way, however. 4. A Dec. 22, 1958, pact with Haitian president Francois Duvalier to curb subversive activities in their two countries. Haiti and the Dominican Republic share the Island of Hispaniola.

Jap Minister Is Mobbed But Unharmed By Koreans

TOKYO (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Ichiro Fujiyama was mobbed by 200 Koreans Sunday when he stepped off an airplane at Fukuoka in southern Japan. Waving Korean flags and shouting "down with the Japanese plan to send our compatriots into slavery," they surrounded Fujiyama and held him at the airport until he promised to pass on their message to Premier Nobusuke Kishi. Japan plans to send some of its 600,000 impoverished Korean residents to Communist North Korea if they volunteer to go. South Korea says it is prepared to use force to stop the migration. In Sendai, northern Japan, Kishi told a press conference the government is going ahead with its plan despite South Korean protests.

He said the decision is a humanitarian attempt to solve the problem of jobless and homeless Koreans in Japan. Estimates of the number of Koreans in Japan who would want to go to North Korea vary from 43,000 to 117,000. Kishi said he has no intention at present of appealing to the United Nations or seeking the mediation of a third party. He said Japan will take "proper steps" if South Korea undertakes any unlawful action. In Seoul Sunday, a South Korean naval official said "our naval forces are ready to go out as soon as the order is given." APPROVED PROGRAM Cho Chung Hwan, South Korean foreign minister, said Friday his government has approved a program that provides for interception of repatriation ships, breaking off trade relations with Japan and the indefinite detention of Japanese fishermen caught operating on the Korean side of the Sea of Japan. The Japanese Red Cross Saturday asked the International Red Cross organization in Geneva for assistance in implementing the repatriation. A spokesman for the Japanese transport ministry said North Korea would provide the ships and was expected to submit plans for transportation to the Japanese Red Cross. The South Korean government said last week that South Korea would accept any sacrifice to prevent the sending of Koreans "into slavery."

Support Heard For Premium Plan In Hospital Insurance

Prominent Charlottetown merchants and the president of the Charlottetown and District Labor Council over the week-end supported a reported decision by the provincial Government to finance its share of the hospital insurance scheme through a premium plan, rather than a sales tax. Details of the scheme are expected to be announced today in the Legislature by Hon. M.L. Bonnell, Health Minister. He addressed the report carried by The Canadian Press "purely speculative." John Brown, president of Charlottetown and District Labor Council, said yesterday most union employees have become accustomed to payroll deductions for hospital insurance and with the proposed premium somewhat lower than formerly, he felt there would be little objection. He observed that in paying a fixed amount such as a monthly premium, members know exactly how much the cost is going to be for any given year. A sales tax on the other hand would vary considerably. The Federation of Agriculture up to the present has not taken any official viewpoint on a matter of preference for payment of the plan. They may possibly have some recommendations to make in their annual brief which is to be presented to the legislature on February 24. Past President Colin B. Waugh

Dr. James LaFollette, professor of French at Georgetown University, Washington, received a senior non-resident fellowship to pursue studies and research in linguistics at Laval University, Quebec City. ICELANDIC GROUP The first group of settlers from Iceland reached Gimli, Man., a previously-chosen site, in 1875.

New Cable Promises Boost In TV Programs, Messages

By ROSANNA GROARKE LONDON (Reuters) — A new radio communications technique, which may enable one cable to carry 1,000 television programs or a million transatlantic telephone conversations, is reported in an advanced stage of development here. The technique is based on an idea put forth by the Bell Laboratories of the United States before the war. Practical work on the idea did not become possible until after the wartime development of high-frequency radar equipment in Britain. The technique uses a cable which is known as a wave guide. It consists of a hollow coil of anodized aluminum wire with an outer coating of plastic. The cable is 2 1/2 inches in diameter and measurement must be accurate to a thousandth of an inch. BRITAIN LEADS Prof. Harold Barlow, leader of a research team on the project at London University College, says that "Britain is the first country to demonstrate that a television picture can be transmitted by such a cable." He added that other scientists are working on similar projects but said "I think we are ahead at this stage." Barlow said American experiments have been at 60,000 megacycles whereas British ones mainly have been at 35,000 megacycles where "the margin of permissible error is greater."
