IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear Husband, Charles E. Williams who passed away one year ago today, October 13th, 1951.

He little thought when leaving home, He would never more return, That he in death so soon would sleep.

And leave me here to mourn, I did not know the pain he bore, I did not see him die, I only knew he passed away, And he did not say good-bye.

Sadly Missed by His Wife.

It is a strange instinct of birds that during nesting all will band together to aid one another. For example, if a robin lives a danger call, not only will other robins rush to battle, but also the bluebirds, thrushes, brown thrushes, or other birds that happen to be in the vicinity.

On April 25, 1945, Frederickton, N. B., was created a Cathedral City, the first in North America.

Rev. John Medley, first Bishop of Frederickton, received the Queen's command that the capital of New Brunswick should be a Bishop's See, the "Diocese of Frederickton" and that the town should be raised to the dignity of a city. Bishop Medley occupied the See of Frederickton 47 years, a record in Canada.

If a human baby grew as fast as a baby bird does, it would weigh over one hundred pounds by the time it was ten days old.

What is "regurgitating?" It is the act of partly digesting food by the parent bird, and drawing it up and putting it into the baby bird's mouth. Most birds that regurgitate food for their offspring do this only for the first few days. After that the baby birds are able to take their ration of insects or what have you directly. Robins, bluebirds, orioles, and other common birds follow this practice. But pigeons, goldfinches and so forth give regurgitated food to their young until they are fully grown.
