

"Hula Hoop" Contest Proves Success At Ch'town YMCA

It seems that the "hula hoop craze" has really caught on in Charlottetown judging by the large amount of entries participating in a hula hoop contest at the YMCA last evening.

old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Addie MacDonald of Brighton Road, has just completed the difficult task of rotating four hula hoops at once. Linda placed third in the hula hoop contest held at the YMCA last evening.

During the two-hour contest the young ones were really "hooping it up" and amazed the large crowd of spectators by showing them what really could be done with a hula hoop.

Benefit Claims Climb At Insurance Office

Wintery weather is having its affect on the employment situation according to officials of the Charlottetown National Employment Office.

The number of benefit claims is mounting rapidly as is customary at this season of the year. More than 2,000 claims have now been received, and these figures are being added to at the rate of more than 100 per day.

Teams of claims takers from the National Employment Office, have visited Souris, Montague, Murray River and Rustico, in the past two weeks. During this period, in the face of bad weather, which prevented many people from filing claims at these centres, almost 1,000 claims were filed.

At the end of each day, these claims are forwarded to Charlottetown. One part of the claim was then sent to Moncton, where contributions records are kept, and where it is decided whether the individual has enough stamps to his credit to qualify.

AVOID RUSH
Many of the claims were put through very quickly due to the fact that they have been filed early, and are avoiding the heavy rush of claims which accumulate at Moncton.

Another advantage to having the claims taken over the counter rather than by mail, is that they are correctly completed in the first instance. On the other hand, claims received by mail very often omit many important facts, and must be returned to the sender for correction.

SITUATION GOOD
Meanwhile the general employment situation in Charlottetown especially, in respect to construction, is very good for this season of the year. This is traceable to institutional, private and government building. It is fortunate also, say local officials, that several buildings were started at the time of year when they would reach the early stages of completion in the autumn months, and thus require many tradesmen and labourers throughout the winter.

To cope with the increased claims look at the local office, 15 extra people have been engaged. Nine of these are experienced in-as-much-as they have worked in the office each winter for the past two or three years. It is the policy of the commission, to retain such trained people year after year if at all possible.

By sending claims-taking terms to the country, the number of people calling at the Charlottetown Office has been sharply cut, although 100 claims are being taken daily. This is quite a difference from a year ago when as many as 120 people at a time were queued up awaiting their turn to file claims.

At the present time, 30 or 40 people are usually awaiting their turn at the Charlottetown Office.
