GOOD TIMES IN THE STATES.

Henry Clews reports that "the drift of commercial affairs throughout the country adds new confirmation to the promise of an era of sound and steady national prosperity which has laid the basis for the general large advance in securities. There is every evidence that the trade of the country has already recovered its full normal volume and that the obstacles that have so long obstructed it have now entirely lost their repressive force."

NEW MOTOR CYCLE.

A Canadian Invention Which Promises Improvement in Travel.

A new motor cycle is in course of construction by Messrs Dill & Jennings, of Montreal, and bears the name of the Dill-Jennings Motor Cycle. The Star reports that prominent amongst its points are the cylinders and their workings, constructed so as to produce a double-action, and, unlike an ordinary cylinder, the pistons work one in each. The gasoline entering from the top of the cylinder is exploded by electricity, thus driving the pistons in opposite directions. The dead centre difficulty is overcome by another peculiar device, working outside the cylinder and by two other shafts, connecting with the driving gear. The stroke is regulated in such a manner that the various sets of pistons work full stroke and seven-eighths a rather than alternately. Instead of solid shank axles, the front axle is filled with swing ends, making the wheels to turn on the axle and form its curve tangent to it. Thus its steering facilities are greatly increased, for it can turn in four feet or even less.

Again to further perfect this machine the front axle bears the weight of machinery and is not at each end, but exactly in its centre, and by pivoting on its point enables the wheels on meeting any obstruction to easily adapt themselves to any inequality of the roadbed.

Two cone shaped rollers on the rear axle give opportunity, by shifting the belt to get increased speed. The rear axle gives balancing power to the cycle while it also has gear attached to assist the front wheels in turning. The arrangements of crank and axle gives this machine a minimum of vibration, which will be so slight as to be barely perceptible to the occupants, while the weight, which approaches something over half a ton, gives stability of motion and better momentum than can be produced in a lighter affair. Mr. Dill, the inventor, is a Canadian. Another feature of this machine is its simple and accurate steering gear, being a simple tiller operating on the front axle. It is held stationary by means of a simple rocking joint.

The machine, which will be on view at the exhibition grounds next week, will, it is claimed, develop a speed of 50 miles an hour over any kind of road.

A singular case of death from electrical shock is reported from Revel, in France. A peasant woman named Bataille was on her way to a farm with a little basket in each hand; when an electric wire carried on posts at the side of the road suddenly broke. The end of the wire fell on one of the baskets and the unfortunate woman received the full force of the current, and was killed on the spot. The current was of such intensity that the body was partially carbonized.

Good Blood Is Good Health

Good blood is blood that is rich and pure and loaded with nourishment for nerves, muscles, tissues and organs. Good blood makes the whole body healthy and keeps it so. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes good blood; therefore it cures all scrofula eruptions, that tired feeling, dyspepsia, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Hood's Pills cure nausea, indigestion.

Fascinating John Bright. Sir Wemyss Reid gives some interesting reminiscences of John Bright in Cassell's Magazine. The great Liberal leader often sat in an old fashioned armchair in the Reform club. He delighted in talk and was fond of repeating poetry. On one occasion he began to talk to Sir Wemyss about his favorite hymns, and as he warmed to his subject he repeated some of them. It was a strange subject, perhaps, for a club smoking room, but it was still stranger to observe that as he spoke with that wonderful voice of his the other men in the room first looked up and began to listen, and then, as though drawn by an irresistible spell, drew nearer to him, until before long he had them all sitting round him in a circle enjoying that "music of the human speech" of which above all living men he was a master. John Bright reciting hymns in a club smoking room! "There," exclaims Sir Wemyss, "is a picture for an artist if he only knows how to treat it."

His Little Mistake. "John," she said, and she looked at him rather sharply as she said it, "I have an idea that you didn't behave yourself very well while you were away." "How absurd!" he protested. "What in the world has given you that idea?" "Well," she returned in a quizzical kind of a way, "I noticed in the telegram you sent me you had paid the regular tariff charges on the words 'excuse writing.'"—Chicago Post.

Happy, healthy childhood! Every childless woman feels a tug at her heart-strings when she sees another woman's happy, healthy rolling baby. Motherhood is woman's supremest duty and her supremest happiness. Even in childhood she shows how deeply this sentiment is implanted in her breast when she plays with her dolls. There are thousands of otherwise happy wives in this world who only lack the thrilling touch of a first-born's fingers to complete their happiness.

Every wife may be the mother of happy, robust children who will, thousands of women who had lived years of cheerless, childless wedded life, or whose babies have been born to them weak and sickly, soon to die, are now happy mothers of healthy children, and bless Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the wonders it has accomplished for them. This great medicine acts directly and only on the delicate and important organs that bear the burden of maternity. It makes them strong, healthy, vigorous and elastic. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, and tones and strengthens the nerves. It banishes the discomforts of the expectant months and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It insures a healthy child and an ample supply of nourishment. Honest dealers will not offer worthless substitutes for the sake of a little added profit.

"I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as it has undoubtedly saved my life," writes Mrs. Florence Hunter, of Corley, Logan Co., Ark. "I miscarried four times; could get no medicine to do me any good. After taking several bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I made my husband a present of a fine girl."

When they put a man in jail he cannot follow his natural inclinations. He cannot eat what he wants to—he is limited to a very frugal diet. Is it not equally true of a dyspeptic? For all of the real enjoyment he gets out of life he might as well be in jail. He cannot eat what he likes, nor enough. He suffers much, gets little sympathy. At first, perhaps a little heaviness in the stomach, a little soreness, windy belchings and heartburn; headaches and biliousness and a foul taste in the mouth in the morning. Chronic constipation is almost inevitable, and means that the body is holding poisonous, impure matter that should be gotten rid of. The poison is being reabsorbed into the blood and the whole body. Impurity in the blood may lead to almost any disease. Constipation is the start of it all. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, cure it so it stays cured. No other remedy in the world will do that.

WHY THE CHICKENS DIED.

A professor at one of our universities is the subject of a queer anecdote. Last winter he was married and went to house-keeping outside of town. This spring he thought he would add a few hens to his stock; he already had a dog. He set a couple of hens, and in good time he had two large broods of chickens. He was very proud of them, but in a week or so the fowls began to die. The professor called in a neighbor to look at the chickens and offer advice. They were certainly a dilapidated lot of chickens that the neighbor viewed. They were thin, and apparently without ambition. "What do you feed them?" asked the neighbor, after a brief survey. "Feed them?" responded the professor as though he didn't hear right. "Why, I don't feed them anything. I thought the old hens had enough milk for them."

SONS OF TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

By Grand Division Editor

A letter from the G. W. P. informs us he has been in labors abundant lately, and the divisions west are still progressing and the prospects for a successful fall and winter campaign are everywhere apparent. It is sometimes said by our opponents that the temperance organizations are useless, and are only places for the amusement of a lot of young men and silly girls, but the letter before us does not by any means confirm that idea. He shows how the community is better because the Sons of Temperance have a place in it. The absence of rowdiness and drunkenness, and the quiet, law-abiding evidences in communities around "Good Will" and "Welcome" "Port Hill," and through Ellerslie and Bideford sections as well as other places speaks well for the faithful ones who week by week go to their meetings, often requiring great self-sacrifice, and after a hard day's work. We rejoice in our G. W. P.'s report and would urge you brethren and sisters to go forward until we gain the final victory.

We are glad to announce our head official is coming east to visit us in our divisions. Let us give him a hearty welcome. How can we do this better than by attending in large numbers and giving an appreciative hearing?

We know by experience that when officially visiting the order nothing pleases us more than a good attendance. Let us always be there in readiness for a call because he may come suddenly upon us, and find us unprepared. The keynote of the letter we have referred to above is activity in regard to fall work.

Our harvest time for temperance work, and the building up of our order is the fall and winter months. A good motto is an old one—"All at it, and always at it." Let us throw all our energies into the work for the next few weeks and have a grand report for the annual session next month, when we meet at North Wiltshire.

Perhaps our younger readers will enjoy the following, and the Loyal Crusaders might make it sound good for a recitation

A CONCLUSION

If I was a fellow's mother, I'd never, never see A single thing that fellow did That wasn't meant for me.

I'd let him stay out after dark. I never would say "No," Because that stirs a fellow up And spoils his temper so.

I'd say, "Play first and study next," And, "Do not go to bed, No matter what o'clock it is, Until your story's read."

I would not know he'd been kept in, Or ask the reason why. I'd be quite blind to all such things, Or kind of pass them by.

I'd give him pudding, pies and jam And marmalade and cake, But would not even mention bread— And all the nuts he'd take.

Oh, were I a fellow's mother— A certain one I know— Wouldn't he have the slickest time! You'd better believe it's so.

But if I was that fellow's mother, I wonder if I would Do half that fellow's mother does For him or be so good?

I wonder if I'd mend his clothes Without a single scowl, And only say, "Gently, dear boy," At his most horrid howl?

I wonder if, when he was sick, I'd be so awful kind, And never breathe, "I told you so," Or, "Reg you didn't mind,"

But only sit and bathe his head In such a peaceful way With something sort of sweet and cool For maybe half a day?

Yes—now that I think it over— It's a most lucky go That I'm not that fellow's mother, For the fellow's sake you know. —Anna L. Hannah in Youth's Companion.

We hope the companies of crusaders are also working as well as the divisions. One new company has been organized since our last notes, at New Glasgow. We wish it great success. Our motto must ever be "Go Forward."

Honest, full sized bottles, uniformity of quality, great strength and purity are characteristics of Sovereign Flavoring Extracts. Try them.

Defining Appendicitis.

A teachers' examination was held at Seneca, Kan., at which one of the questions in physiology was as follows: "What is appendicitis, and what are its causes and cures?" Below are given a few of the answers as reported in the Seneca Tribune:

"It is a disease of the appendix, which is located somewhere between the liver and the heart, the organ of the affections."

"Cosification of the marrow of the longitudinal shaft bone."

"Appendicitis is sunstroke or overheating, caused by a great heat. The cure is to get the patient into a cool place, bathe the face and hand with water."

"Is the disease of appendice, caused by want of exercise, improper food, clothing and ventilation."

"Appendicitis is a condition caused by food substances lodging and causing a blockade in the digestive apparatus. It is cured by surgical operation, in which the obstruction is cut away. A theory is given that the appendix was at one time a tail on man and is not yet evolved off. It is cut away by the surgeon."

KLONDYKE!

The Land of Golden nuggets

JOSEPH LADUE, the new Bonanza King of the Klondike Gold Regions, gives the facts. His book reads like "The Arabian Nights" BUT Joseph Ladue KNOWS whereof he writes. He was the first man on the spot when the first gold was discovered August, 1896. He located one rich claim, and immediately purchased twelve others at a low price before their value was known. He has refused $100,000 for any ONE of these claims, as they are rich with virgin gold nuggets beyond the dreams of avarice. Joseph Ladue then at the mouth of the Klondyke and Yukon Rivers, by erecting the first house in the region in September, one month after the gold was first discovered. He bought 178 acres from the government on the city site where his town lots, 150x50, are now selling for $5,000 each.

Mr. Ladue was fortunate enough to be successful in his trading post investments to have on hand ample capital to carry out his plans, and there is no man living who is better posted on Alaska and the great North West Territories than Mr. Joseph Ladue. He has just returned from that country to his old home in Schuyler Falls, N. Y., where he passed a large portion of his boyhood and early manhood. Mr. Ladue left his home nearly twenty years ago to seek his fortune in the West, going first to the Black Hills, where he was successful in gold mining, thence to Arizona and the Pacific Coast, and finally located in Alaska and the North West, where he has covered almost the entire country since 1882. Mr. Ladue is a typical pioneer; strong, hardy and resolute—a man of iron as one must needs to be to go through the hardships he has and come out with a constitution unbroken and unimpaired at the age of about forty-three. Mr. Ladue has not only worked his muscles to good advantage to himself with the result of an abundance of the world's goods far beyond the dreams of men, but he has evidently all his time been closely observing the conditions of that strange country—the Yukon Valley—which has so suddenly become one of the great centres upon which human interest throughout the world is focussed.

When the wonderful stories began to come down from the Yukon country it was naturally concluded that it was at least half exaggeration. That any such amount of gold could be taken in so short a time from a country like that under the most unfavorable conditions was held to be incredible. But when the great bags of virgin gold began to be poured out upon mint counters in San Francisco under the eyes of the whole world (for modern journalism does this, annihilating time and space), people began to wonder, and the wonder grew day by day as the real facts were disclosed, and now people who are well informed as to the facts declare that half the truth has not been told of the golden treasures of the Yukon Valley.

As we have already said, there is no man alive to day who knows more about this wonderful country than does Mr. Ladue. What makes his talk of it specially interesting and reliable is the fact that his knowledge of it is practical. It has not been gained from hearsay nor from desolatory visits made now and then at certain favorable seasons of the year, but from steady living there through the long summer days and the long winter nights year in and year out for 15 years where he now owns the best mining claims on the Klondyke and its tributaries.

In presenting his book to the public we do so knowing that it is by an authority on the subject of which he writes. His first work entitled is a brief description of the new gold regions, and anyone desiring authentic information should not fail to avail themselves of our
