

50 HAPPENINGS

Members of Royalty Chapter IOOE met Tuesday evening, September 18th, at the home of Mrs. Alford Sturmond, for their first meeting of the 1962-63 season. The regent, Mrs. J. J. Conroy, presided.

Members of the chapter in a body visited Beach Grove Inn on July 18th and distributed treats to seventy-two patients. Pictures of Her Majesty the Queen have been secured and when suitably framed will be donated to the classrooms at Sherwood High School.

Members were given instructions regarding several limited garments for the Children Fund and several finished garments were turned in. The group welcomed Mrs. Marion Coles and Mrs. R. Cross as guests to the meeting. The Regent gave a resume of minutes of a meeting of the executive of the newly formed provincial chapter, which was followed by a informal discussion during which lunch was served by the hostess.

Mrs. J.F. White, Alberton, entertained a number of friends at a delightful tea on Wednesday afternoon at her home "Riverhurst".

Mrs. H. L. Mitton Honored By Baptist Church Organizations

On Monday evening, Mrs. H. L. Mitton and Mrs. Bert Rideout were guests of honor when the Fernie Levy and Kaye Lockwood World Wide Guild, the First Baptist Church entertained the members of the Senior Women's Missionary Society of the Dr. Zella Clark Mission Circle in the church hall.

A short hymn was led by Mrs. Harold Braun, president of the Kaye Lockwood Guild, with Mrs. Douglas Cameron at the piano. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Athol Roberts.

Mrs. Stirling Janssen, president of the Fernie Levy Guild, extended a welcome to the guests, after which Mrs. Windy Brethart and Mrs. H.L. Mitton gave interesting reports on the recent Marilene Baptist Convention.

A panel discussion on "Money, money, money" was presented under the direction of Mrs. Stewart Macdonald. Other members of the panel were Mrs. Keith Robinson, Mrs. Ronald Macdonald, and Mrs. Leigh Walker.

Soloists for the evening were Mrs. Douglas Mackenzie and Mrs. W.G. Cowley.

Mrs. Mitton and Mrs. Rideout were escorted to seats of honor and presented with corsages by a long line.

"Well, we got a nice bit of rain today, Ellen," James remarks, come now with dusk at his back, to the comfort of the old armchair. He glances at the old clock on the shelf.

"Turn on the radio, like a good woman, and see what it says about the weather ahead. I don't like the look of tonight's stars."

"Until tomorrow - Diary - Good-night...."

James says it pleases him to get off to the harvest - field today and see if he can tell what the morning will be.

And the morning was a rare gem, comprised of sunlight, and dancing leaves, and lovely summer-shadows, and the valley smiling beneath a blue sky when which there was "delightful fleecy-white, cloud-free."

In the barnyard, the little truck idled restlessly, as he checked at the thought, an impatient coil of the long ago answers to be every while incidents, a bale of binder-twine, and four feet for the tractor's wheeling.

"Ellen! James called back "have my eye on the table when we come home."

"We won't want to waste much time on this and the golden patch we checked at the thought, an impatient coil of the long ago answers to be every while incidents, a bale of binder-twine, and four feet for the tractor's wheeling."

The tea table was centred with a lovely arrangement of sweet peas and fern, flanked by yellow candles in crystal holders. Mrs. Clifford Matthews assisted her sister in serving.

Mrs. and Mrs. Lloyd Patriquin of Saint John, N.B., are visiting Mrs. Patriquin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fordey Young, Charlottetown.

On Friday, September 14, the Memorial LOBA celebrated its 4th anniversary. A large number of members attended various sister lodges, attended the business meeting and social gathering.

During the business meeting a number of distinguished members were welcomed and included: Mrs. Jessie Lamer, Mrs. Rena MacCaull, Mrs. Florence Ross and Dr. Peter MacLester.

Mrs. Larter gave a brief history of the lodge and pointed out the only charter member still living, Mrs. Mary MacDoss, who was absent from the meeting due to illness.

During the social hour that followed, lunch was served by the members.

MARY HAWORTH

Woman Feels Caught In Frantic Social Whirlpool

Dear Mary Haworth: I don't like social affairs, yet all I've had to cope with them. I am now 58 and the strain is becoming unbearable. Cooking for company is the hardest part. Since my husband's retirement we moved here amongst our relatives. Because of my unavailability I believe it was a mistake if my husband welcomed invitations and likes to entertain, all of which is misery for me.

Last Sunday I am having a reception (50 people) for my mother's birthday. My sister suggested it and everyone was eager to have it at my house which many haven't seen yet, at this point I am feeling almost hysterical. I waken in the night with a sense of dread.

Even when our married children come for a weekend, I am almost numb with tension by the time I get a meal on. My son, single and at home now, said he'd often like to invite friends here for a meal, but I wouldn't think of it. That sort of hurt! I'd hoped I wasn't a failure as a mother. I've always been willing to entertain.

The evening closed with a fellowship guide and prayer by Mrs. H.J. Huggan.

DISCOVER IRON ORE

MOSCOW (CP) - The Soviet news agency Tass says iron ore deposits with reserves estimated at 200,000,000 tons have been discovered near Adzayevka, Kazakhstan, in central Asia.

I have been checked by a good medical clinic and I take the pills prescribed (thyroid and vitamin) so it doesn't seem to have a physical basis. I suppose it is nerve weakness.

I do take tranquilizers occasionally, maybe it is the after-effect of these that is making me worse. I hope you will offer suggestions; thank for listening.

R.Y.: "What's the matter with me?" you ask, in your long letter here condensed. Well, inasmuch as the clinic prescribes thyroid and vitamin pills, presumably you are rundown physically.

The thyroid gland is a component part of your constitution; it isn't a figment of the imagination. It plays a vital role in the function of "tone" of the whole person - bodily, nervously and emotionally.

So maybe the time has come to treat yourself to a recuperative vacation and after that (regular recesses) from social effort that appalls you, and that isn't really necessary in any case.

Albany UCW Holds Meeting

BEDEQUE - Mrs. R.M. Cameron, Bedeque, was hostess for the September meeting of the Albany United Church Women. Mrs. Charles Wright led the worship service, the theme of which was "Love to Siblings". The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Stephen Huestis and roll call was answered with a verse of scripture containing the word "bedesem". The treasurer, Mrs. Lester MacLeod, reported on finances.

During the business meeting plans were made to hold a pantry sale and it was also decided to hold the thanksgiving service on September 23 at 3:00 p.m. The guest speaker at the thanksgiving service will be Rev. Donald Nicholson.

Mrs. Lester MacLeod read an address to Mrs. Stephen Huestis and Mrs. Charles Wright. Mrs. MacLeod presented a life membership pin to Mrs. Huestis. Mrs. MacLeod voiced regrets that Mrs. Huestis will be moving to Summerside.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. S.M. MacKay and the worship service will be led by Miss K. Zwicker. The Bible quiz will be conducted by Mrs. Peter Nicholson.

After a delicious lunch was served by the hostess and members of the lunch committee, the meeting was adjourned.

MAN DROWNS

CORNER BROOK (CP) - William Henry Sheppard, 46 of Leek Harbour, Nfld., was drowned Friday night while gathering driftwood in a 16-foot dory. Sheppard's son, 18-year-old Franklyn, clung onto the overturned boat until he was rescued.

MR. AND MRS. PERCY JAMES VAIL

Barbara Ann Northup Weds Percy James Vail In Halifax

Standards and baskets of white and red gladioli decorated the altar and chancel of the Canadian Martyrs Church, Halifax, when Rev. G. G. Epoch, S.J. solemnized the marriage of Barbara Ann Northup to James Percy Vail recently.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Henry Northup of Halifax, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Vail of Charlottetown, P.E.I. The organist was Miss Rita Coade and the soloist Miss Marguerite Ryan. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length portrait mod gown of white organza with a sheer skirt showing in the front beneath a black lace train. The bodice, which featured a high bateau neckline with a deep V in the back, and long sleeves culminating in points over the hands, was accented by sprays of dainty white embroidery at the edge of the sheer yoke, and along the waistline. The bodice and upper edge of the French illusion veil featured a pill box style headress ornamented with matching Swiss embroidery. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli, stephanotis and sprays of ivy. Miss Patricia Northup, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Harris and Mrs. S. D. Elliot, all of Halifax. They wore similar gowns of peau de soie styled with rounded necklines, and cut away V in front, capped sleeves and bell shaped skirts. The maid of honor wore shell pink

ELLEN'S DIARY

The Book of Life Contains Many Lessons To Learn

"Over and over again!" Papa Starling on the garage-roof, quoted with a wink, "I must like to come to spread our Monday - wash nearby this morning. He sobered."

"But I've forgotten the other lines. That's all I can remember. It's a sign of the times, isn't it?" he said, pausing a moment in our work.

"Over and over again, no matter which way I turn. I always find in the book of life, some lesson that I must learn."

I must take my turn at the mill. I must grind out the golden grain. I must work at my task with a resolute will, over and over again!"

"Yes," he smiled, "that's all I was reminded of the plain life when I saw you come. Just now, along the path. How many times - over and over again - have you come to that line to spread your yeast?"

"Why, a nice few times!" we replied taking a spray of clothes from our apron-pocket. "Yes, a nice few, altogether."

"Love it, particularly on summery Mondays! Yes, love to wash and spread the plain life. And we added to gather them in, and from."
