

THE WESTERN GUARDIAN

PRINCE COUNTY OFFICE
3 Summer Street, Summerside, Phone 8931.
News, Subscriptions, Advertising, Representatives
GEORGE CLOW and GEORGE WOTTON
House Phones: 8932 and 8933.
The Guardian may be bought at any of the following stores in Summerside:
Bell Bookstore, Summer Street; Gourley Drugstore, 21 Central Street; Kelly's Newsstand, Water Street; Mark Gaudet, 67 Granville Street; Kelly's Doucette's Grocery, Second Street; Island Motor Transport, Water Street; Vince's Grocery, 120 Russell Street; Enman's Self-Service Drug Store; Fred's Grocery, Convent Street.
K.L. Waite in Kensington.
WEST PRINCE OFFICE
Alberton: Frank Weeks, Representative.
Phone: 68-2 Office and 68-3 House.

90 Today

Mr. James A. Holmes, who celebrates his ninetieth birthday today, May 30th. He makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Colby C. Lewis, Freetown, and despite the infirmities of age takes a great interest in affairs. An omnivorous reader, he still reads without glasses.

Rumor Naval Air Unit For S'ide Station

An unconfirmed report yesterday indicated that a naval air unit of the 31st Support Air Group at Dartmouth will be operating out of Summerside R.C.A.F. Station by next fall. This unit of the Fleet Air Arm, that reportedly is to be transferred to Summerside will be operating out of Scoudouc, N. B., for the summer months.

An official report from a correspondent on the Canadian aircraft carrier H.M.C.S. Magnificent is said to have stated that the squadron now on this carrier would be going to Korea and would be replaced by a squadron from the Dartmouth based 31st Support Air Group, which by that time is expected to be operating out of the Summerside air base.

According to yesterday's report the Air Navigation School will be moved to Winnipeg by October. During the summer, however, Summerside will, in addition to its normal program, be training university students on summer courses. The Central Navigation School for advanced navigation training, including the specialist navigation course, reportedly will remain in Summerside for another year.

When the Air Navigation School moves to Winnipeg this fall it is expected that it will be replaced by the operations training unit from Greenwood and a Search and Rescue flight.—S.

Business Needs

Continued from page 5

well for the future. "Many of you will, of course, continue to pursue further educational benefits at other institutions, and many of you will likely be entering into the business world within a very short time. In any event, the majority of the graduating class will be having contact with some form of business life in the near future, and it is upon business that I would like to talk for a few moments.

"The Canadian business scene during the past decade has been one of tremendous expansion and activity, and is indeed in many sections of our nation, continuing to follow that course. This expansion has not been without reason, and most experts on a subject such as this, are agreed that the development that has taken place is in no small part due to the clear foresight, sound judgment and unquestioned integrity of our business and political leaders—even our neighbors to the South are somewhat bewildered by what has taken place in Canadian business recently, and they are even more concerned with the fact that the Canadian dollar commands a premium price in a country that is supposedly the richest in the world.

Highly Competitive

"You will be entering into a business field that is highly competitive, but the opportunities are still awaiting you, and it is very likely that you will participate in even further growth within the next ten years. We do not know what lies ahead for us, but you are leaving the scholastic world today to enter the business world tomorrow, it is only natural to presume, that providing you are reasonably well equipped mentally and physically, there should be little reason why you can not share in this nation-wide prosperity.

"If I may now, I would like to suggest to you some basic fundamentals that are usually required for a successful business career. But I wish to warn you beforehand that I have nothing different, new or sensational to offer you—probably I will not say anything that you have not heard a dozen times before—but if you are truly desirous and want to succeed in life, may I commend your thoughts to these fundamentals. The word 'success' as applied to business or professional success is often misunderstood. Just what does 'success' mean to you? The dictionary tells us that 'success' is 'the favorable end or result of any undertaking.' To many persons 'success' means the accumulation of large quantities of worldly goods. To others, 'success' may simply be the fulfillment of day-to-day opportunities we all have to serve our nation, our community or our neighbors.

"I do not wish to stray from the realistic side of business in this regard, but in the main I believe you will find that if you try to sell your services or your goods in an honest and decent manner, your path in the field of your endeavors will become much smoother as you go along in life. If you can establish the reputation of fair dealing, the reputation of an honest and decent man, you will be recognized by all concerned as something of tremendous importance to you. Rotary International have a set of questions called the Four-Fold Test which they recommend should be applied to any business decision—it may be of interest to you to hear them:

"1. Is it the truth?
"2. Is it fair to all concerned?
"3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
"4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?"

"If one can truthfully answer 'yes' to all these questions he can go ahead with the assurance that his actions will measure up to all recognized business standards. "None of these requisites for success in business will be of any great advantage to you however, if you do not recognize yourself to the fact that you are very likely that you are going to have to work long hours uncomplainingly to attain recognition. Thomas Edison's much quoted comment that 'Success is 10 per cent inspiration and 90 per cent perspiration' is still very applicable to modern business conditions. You must be willing to do just a little bit more than is anticipated of you, and I repeat, you must do it willingly.

"If you are in a position that you enjoy, this will not be such a tremendous task, and it may be a real pleasure for you to devote a little more time and energy to your work than is expected of you. Most clock watchers usually view long hours as a curse, but today's business world is crying out for young men and women who are not afraid to work, and work hard. Recognition will soon be yours, and your advancement will be faster and easier than you had hoped, if you are willing to carry a little more responsibility than the other fellow.

"In your progress through life and through the business world, may I suggest that you stand against actions by any person or persons that will slow up or impede in any manner, our much maligned 'free enterprise' system of doing business. There is a regrettable tendency today on the part of many organizations, both governmental and private, to interfere with a method of doing business that has withstood the test of time magnificently, and has not been found wanting. Be on your guard against any suggestion of intervention in private business by probably well-meaning groups of individuals who may be more idealistic than realistic. The law of supply and demand is still very much in force, and it is the greatest regulator of business yet discovered, and usually the fairest. Only in cases of national or regional emergencies, should business countenance any interference by appointed regulatory bodies equipped with powers that are sometimes unfortunately abused.

"Again I suggest that you beware also of the growing tendency of government to enter the private business field—this is not a healthy condition for any country, unless under very unusual circumstances. It is very likely that other implicitly. To have the reputation of honesty and good character in the realm of trade and commerce today is to have something of priceless value, and this thing can only be achieved by fair dealing with all that you encounter.

"Four-Fold Test
"I do not wish to stray from the realistic side of business in this regard, but in the main I believe you will find that if you try to sell your services or your goods in an honest and decent manner, your path in the field of your endeavors will become much smoother as you go along in life. If you can establish the reputation of fair dealing, the reputation of an honest and decent man, you will be recognized by all concerned as something of tremendous importance to you. Rotary International have a set of questions called the Four-Fold Test which they recommend should be applied to any business decision—it may be of interest to you to hear them:
"1. Is it the truth?
"2. Is it fair to all concerned?
"3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
"4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?"

"If one can truthfully answer 'yes' to all these questions he can go ahead with the assurance that his actions will measure up to all recognized business standards. "None of these requisites for success in business will be of any great advantage to you however, if you do not recognize yourself to the fact that you are very likely that you are going to have to work long hours uncomplainingly to attain recognition. Thomas Edison's much quoted comment that 'Success is 10 per cent inspiration and 90 per cent perspiration' is still very applicable to modern business conditions. You must be willing to do just a little bit more than is anticipated of you, and I repeat, you must do it willingly.

"If you are in a position that you enjoy, this will not be such a tremendous task, and it may be a real pleasure for you to devote a little more time and energy to your work than is expected of you. Most clock watchers usually view long hours as a curse, but today's business world is crying out for young men and women who are not afraid to work, and work hard. Recognition will soon be yours, and your advancement will be faster and easier than you had hoped, if you are willing to carry a little more responsibility than the other fellow.

"In your progress through life and through the business world, may I suggest that you stand against actions by any person or persons that will slow up or impede in any manner, our much maligned 'free enterprise' system of doing business. There is a regrettable tendency today on the part of many organizations, both governmental and private, to interfere with a method of doing business that has withstood the test of time magnificently, and has not been found wanting. Be on your guard against any suggestion of intervention in private business by probably well-meaning groups of individuals who may be more idealistic than realistic. The law of supply and demand is still very much in force, and it is the greatest regulator of business yet discovered, and usually the fairest. Only in cases of national or regional emergencies, should business countenance any interference by appointed regulatory bodies equipped with powers that are sometimes unfortunately abused.

"Again I suggest that you beware also of the growing tendency of government to enter the private business field—this is not a healthy condition for any country, unless under very unusual circumstances. It is very likely that other implicitly. To have the reputation of honesty and good character in the realm of trade and commerce today is to have something of priceless value, and this thing can only be achieved by fair dealing with all that you encounter.

"Four-Fold Test
"I do not wish to stray from the realistic side of business in this regard, but in the main I believe you will find that if you try to sell your services or your goods in an honest and decent manner, your path in the field of your endeavors will become much smoother as you go along in life. If you can establish the reputation of fair dealing, the reputation of an honest and decent man, you will be recognized by all concerned as something of tremendous importance to you. Rotary International have a set of questions called the Four-Fold Test which they recommend should be applied to any business decision—it may be of interest to you to hear them:

"1. Is it the truth?
"2. Is it fair to all concerned?
"3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
"4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?"

"If one can truthfully answer 'yes' to all these questions he can go ahead with the assurance that his actions will measure up to all recognized business standards. "None of these requisites for success in business will be of any great advantage to you however, if you do not recognize yourself to the fact that you are very likely that you are going to have to work long hours uncomplainingly to attain recognition. Thomas Edison's much quoted comment that 'Success is 10 per cent inspiration and 90 per cent perspiration' is still very applicable to modern business conditions. You must be willing to do just a little bit more than is anticipated of you, and I repeat, you must do it willingly.

"If you are in a position that you enjoy, this will not be such a tremendous task, and it may be a real pleasure for you to devote a little more time and energy to your work than is expected of you. Most clock watchers usually view long hours as a curse, but today's business world is crying out for young men and women who are not afraid to work, and work hard. Recognition will soon be yours, and your advancement will be faster and easier than you had hoped, if you are willing to carry a little more responsibility than the other fellow.

"In your progress through life and through the business world, may I suggest that you stand against actions by any person or persons that will slow up or impede in any manner, our much maligned 'free enterprise' system of doing business. There is a regrettable tendency today on the part of many organizations, both governmental and private, to interfere with a method of doing business that has withstood the test of time magnificently, and has not been found wanting. Be on your guard against any suggestion of intervention in private business by probably well-meaning groups of individuals who may be more idealistic than realistic. The law of supply and demand is still very much in force, and it is the greatest regulator of business yet discovered, and usually the fairest. Only in cases of national or regional emergencies, should business countenance any interference by appointed regulatory bodies equipped with powers that are sometimes unfortunately abused.

"Again I suggest that you beware also of the growing tendency of government to enter the private business field—this is not a healthy condition for any country, unless under very unusual circumstances. It is very likely that other implicitly. To have the reputation of honesty and good character in the realm of trade and commerce today is to have something of priceless value, and this thing can only be achieved by fair dealing with all that you encounter.

"Four-Fold Test
"I do not wish to stray from the realistic side of business in this regard, but in the main I believe you will find that if you try to sell your services or your goods in an honest and decent manner, your path in the field of your endeavors will become much smoother as you go along in life. If you can establish the reputation of fair dealing, the reputation of an honest and decent man, you will be recognized by all concerned as something of tremendous importance to you. Rotary International have a set of questions called the Four-Fold Test which they recommend should be applied to any business decision—it may be of interest to you to hear them:

"1. Is it the truth?
"2. Is it fair to all concerned?
"3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
"4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?"

"If one can truthfully answer 'yes' to all these questions he can go ahead with the assurance that his actions will measure up to all recognized business standards. "None of these requisites for success in business will be of any great advantage to you however, if you do not recognize yourself to the fact that you are very likely that you are going to have to work long hours uncomplainingly to attain recognition. Thomas Edison's much quoted comment that 'Success is 10 per cent inspiration and 90 per cent perspiration' is still very applicable to modern business conditions. You must be willing to do just a little bit more than is anticipated of you, and I repeat, you must do it willingly.

"If you are in a position that you enjoy, this will not be such a tremendous task, and it may be a real pleasure for you to devote a little more time and energy to your work than is expected of you. Most clock watchers usually view long hours as a curse, but today's business world is crying out for young men and women who are not afraid to work, and work hard. Recognition will soon be yours, and your advancement will be faster and easier than you had hoped, if you are willing to carry a little more responsibility than the other fellow.

"In your progress through life and through the business world, may I suggest that you stand against actions by any person or persons that will slow up or impede in any manner, our much maligned 'free enterprise' system of doing business. There is a regrettable tendency today on the part of many organizations, both governmental and private, to interfere with a method of doing business that has withstood the test of time magnificently, and has not been found wanting. Be on your guard against any suggestion of intervention in private business by probably well-meaning groups of individuals who may be more idealistic than realistic. The law of supply and demand is still very much in force, and it is the greatest regulator of business yet discovered, and usually the fairest. Only in cases of national or regional emergencies, should business countenance any interference by appointed regulatory bodies equipped with powers that are sometimes unfortunately abused.

"Again I suggest that you beware also of the growing tendency of government to enter the private business field—this is not a healthy condition for any country, unless under very unusual circumstances. It is very likely that other implicitly. To have the reputation of honesty and good character in the realm of trade and commerce today is to have something of priceless value, and this thing can only be achieved by fair dealing with all that you encounter.

"Four-Fold Test
"I do not wish to stray from the realistic side of business in this regard, but in the main I believe you will find that if you try to sell your services or your goods in an honest and decent manner, your path in the field of your endeavors will become much smoother as you go along in life. If you can establish the reputation of fair dealing, the reputation of an honest and decent man, you will be recognized by all concerned as something of tremendous importance to you. Rotary International have a set of questions called the Four-Fold Test which they recommend should be applied to any business decision—it may be of interest to you to hear them:

"1. Is it the truth?
"2. Is it fair to all concerned?
"3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
"4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?"

"If one can truthfully answer 'yes' to all these questions he can go ahead with the assurance that his actions will measure up to all recognized business standards. "None of these requisites for success in business will be of any great advantage to you however, if you do not recognize yourself to the fact that you are very likely that you are going to have to work long hours uncomplainingly to attain recognition. Thomas Edison's much quoted comment that 'Success is 10 per cent inspiration and 90 per cent perspiration' is still very applicable to modern business conditions. You must be willing to do just a little bit more than is anticipated of you, and I repeat, you must do it willingly.

"If you are in a position that you enjoy, this will not be such a tremendous task, and it may be a real pleasure for you to devote a little more time and energy to your work than is expected of you. Most clock watchers usually view long hours as a curse, but today's business world is crying out for young men and women who are not afraid to work, and work hard. Recognition will soon be yours, and your advancement will be faster and easier than you had hoped, if you are willing to carry a little more responsibility than the other fellow.

"In your progress through life and through the business world, may I suggest that you stand against actions by any person or persons that will slow up or impede in any manner, our much maligned 'free enterprise' system of doing business. There is a regrettable tendency today on the part of many organizations, both governmental and private, to interfere with a method of doing business that has withstood the test of time magnificently, and has not been found wanting. Be on your guard against any suggestion of intervention in private business by probably well-meaning groups of individuals who may be more idealistic than realistic. The law of supply and demand is still very much in force, and it is the greatest regulator of business yet discovered, and usually the fairest. Only in cases of national or regional emergencies, should business countenance any interference by appointed regulatory bodies equipped with powers that are sometimes unfortunately abused.

"Again I suggest that you beware also of the growing tendency of government to enter the private business field—this is not a healthy condition for any country, unless under very unusual circumstances. It is very likely that other implicitly. To have the reputation of honesty and good character in the realm of trade and commerce today is to have something of priceless value, and this thing can only be achieved by fair dealing with all that you encounter.

"Four-Fold Test
"I do not wish to stray from the realistic side of business in this regard, but in the main I believe you will find that if you try to sell your services or your goods in an honest and decent manner, your path in the field of your endeavors will become much smoother as you go along in life. If you can establish the reputation of fair dealing, the reputation of an honest and decent man, you will be recognized by all concerned as something of tremendous importance to you. Rotary International have a set of questions called the Four-Fold Test which they recommend should be applied to any business decision—it may be of interest to you to hear them:

FUNDAMENTAL BAPTIST CHURCH—Central Bedouque. Rev. D. M. Fraser, Pastor. Services for Sunday, May 31st. Central Bedouque 10:45 A. M. Everyone welcome.

DR. HILLMICK will be in his office at Borden on Monday, June 1st. Office hours 2 to 4 and 6 to 9 P. M. Morning calls and maternity cases on appointment.

IRISHTOWN VARIETY CONCERT, King George Hall, Kensington, Thursday, June 4th. Curtain 8:30. Sale of candy.

ONE-ACT play "The Prison Across The Street", directed by A. Stuart Dickson; variety concert including a coronation pageant all from Charlottetown. In Central Bedouque hall, Wednesday, June 3.

LARGE CROWDS AT CARNIVAL—the Summerside Kinsmen Carnival last evening the splendid crowds continued to patronize the fun and entertainment provided each night. Old time music and songs were provided by the inimitable Rusty Rushton and his Malpeque Music Boys. On Thursday evening the door prize was won by Miss Amelia Arsenault who chose a beautiful antique set of luggage. At the carnival will continue this evening and there will be a matinee in the afternoon for the children. Saturday night will be "Ladies Night" and no one appears to know just that Dick Henhron has up his sleeve for their entertainment. S.

READING DEMONSTRATION—Miss Kathryn McCulley, educational consultant, who has a B.S.C. in education from York University, held a demonstration in the teaching of reading at the Summerside High School auditorium yesterday with over one hundred teachers, from Summerside and the surrounding rural districts present. The demonstration was sponsored by the W. J. Gage Co., Toronto, whose readers are used in Grades I-IV on Prince Edward Island. There was a question period after the demonstration. Mr. Arthur Alexander, representative of the Gage Company, was also present. In the demonstration the teaching of word attack, word perception and phonetics was given special attention. The demonstration was conducted under the supervision of Mr. Malcolm MacKenzie, chief supervisor of Prince Edward Island schools. A demonstration of the new type of Prince of Wales Colours, Wednesday, June 3.

Vocational School

Continued from page 1

Carpentry — (Instructor: M. L. MacDonald); 1, Robert Fletcher; 2, Everett MacLellan; 3, Lorin Brehaut; (Instructor: C. B. Hamm); 1, William MacDonald; 2, Albert Arsenault; 3, Vernon Morrison. Drafting: 1, Elmer MacNeill; 2, Lloyd Shepherd; 3, Elton Doucette. Electricity: 1, Elmer MacNeill; 2, Elton Doucette; 3, Reg McAleer. Plumbing: 1, Lloyd Shepherd; 2, Roy Machan; 3, Edgar Wedge. Welding: 1, Bannerman Craig.

Winners of Certificates

(These making sixty per cent or over)

Automotive Mechanics: Brown, Norman; Casely, Vincent; Dalziel, Lloyd; Doucette, James; Fay, Joseph; Gauthier, Ronald; Jenkins, Arthur; MacDonald, Urban; MacKenzie, Donald; MacLellan, Rash; Plick, Thomas; Power, Wm.; Scott, Eric; Stewart, Brenton; Sidsbury, Donald; Wood, Garth. Bricklaying: England, Ellsworth; Matheson, Wm. Carpentry: Arsenault, Albert; Brehaut, Lorin; Fletcher, Robert; MacLellan, Everett; Morris, Daniel; Passed, Morrison, Vernon. Electricity: Doucette, Elton; MacNeill, Elmer. Plumbing & Sheet Metal: Machan, Roy; Shepherd, Lloyd; Wedge, Edgar; Passed, McTague, Rodney; Morrison, Eric; Wilson, Carl. Welding: Byrne, Joseph; Craig, Bannerman; Dolron, Lorne; MacPhee, John; Miller, Eric; Willett, Charles; Wilson, Roy.

Commends Progress

Premier A. W. Matheson, who presided at the meeting, which marked the eighth annual closing of the school, in his opening remarks expressed satisfaction on the growth and expansion of the school during the years of its operation. "I am convinced," he said, "that the school will expand even more in the future and ultimately become an outstanding source of the type of education sought within its walls." Senator J. Walter Jones in his address to the students said that he had visited several costly and well equipped high schools in Ontario which were definitely lacking in good teachers for the work in hand. "Here you have the advantage of leadership and instruction in Mr. McMurry and Mr. Hamm, which should fit you to go forward in the work you have chosen to follow," said the speaker. "I can assure each of you that your prospects for a pretty good job will place you a peg ahead of the other fellow because you hold that diploma which has been handed you today." Miss Harrington's class of the Model School provided the musical

SEE CAPE TRAVERSE Variety Concert in Rose Valley Hall, Monday, June 1st, at 8:30. Sponsored by Rose Valley Women's Institute.

SHERBROOKE CALF CLUB presents three-act play "Ghost Of Farley's Farm", Grand River Hall, Thursday, June 4th. Specialties.

EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL. All ex-service personnel are requested to be on parade on Coronation Day, Tuesday, 2nd June. Parade will form up in front of Canadian Legion Home at 12:30 hours. Berets and medals will be worn.

CASES AT ALBERTON — In Magistrate's Court at Alberton yesterday before Magistrate R. S. Hinton, Q.C., three persons from Alberton and two from Tignish charged under the Highway Traffic Act were convicted and given nominal fines. A resident of Elmfield charged under the Temperance Act with consuming liquor in a motor vehicle was convicted and fined $20.00 and costs. A person from Bloomfield charged with possession of liquor in a place other than his residence was fined $20.00 and costs. A woman from Duvnir was fined $40.00 and costs under the Temperance Act for illegal possession and under the Excise Act was fined $100 and costs.

FISHERMEN FINED — In Magistrate's Court held at Alberton yesterday before Magistrate R. S. Hinton, Q.C., 12 fishermen, three from Tignish and nine from Alberton South, charged with violation of the lobster fishery regulations of P.E.I. (S.B.) were convicted and fined $100 and costs. Mr. L. J. Murphy, Dept. of Fisheries, Summerside, extended a plea on behalf of the fishermen, stating that it was not the policy of the Department to ask for leniency on behalf of those breaking the fishery regulations in view of the recent disastrous storm and the possibility of some confusion regarding the new carapace measurement, which was not very well understood at the start of the season when the violations occurred, and requested that these facts be taken into consideration. A warning was issued that any future violations of the fishery regulations would be dealt with in the usual manner.

Interlude which was greatly enjoyed by Mr. Frank Johnston, A.T.C.L., presided at the piano throughout. The Rhythm Band, consisting of 20 members with drums, cymbals, triangles, bird whistles and bells appeared in procession and gave as their first number "The Skaters Waltz", followed by the girls of the class in kilts dancing the "Highland Fling". The chorus "King of Canterbury", a German folk dance, "The Kinderpolka" and a French chorus "Malbruc" followed in succession. The square dance "Duck for the Oyster" and the Rhythm Band finale "The British Grenadiers", concluded the ceremony. Paul Whelan and Francis Thompson announced the numbers for the entertainment.

Superintendent's Report

In his report Superintendent McMurry stated that what is known as a special academic class, designed to give trade students the rudiments of English, mathematics, science and general knowledge, in addition to their trade subjects, commenced in September. It was composed of students taking carpentry, electricity, motor mechanics and plumbing. Classes in the straight trade courses began the first of November with eleven students enrolled in automotive mechanics, three in brick-laying and plastering, twelve in carpentry, six in electricity, nine in plumbing and sheet metal.

After the above date these numbers were substantially increased, the late comers for the most part being farm lads who had to remain home and help with the harvesting. Many of these same students are not with us today due entirely to the fact that they are at present home preparing for spring planting. However, the majority who have successfully completed their courses are with us today to receive their diploma.

"The enrollment for the night courses kept the building in full use five nights of the week during the past fall and winter months," Mr. McMurry reported. "Courses embraced accounting and book-keeping, cabinet making, cooking and sewing, typing, welding, shorthand, as well as the trade courses referred to previously. These night classes are at last filling a long felt need in the field of adult education. It might be noted that many of the rural students who attended day courses during the winter availed themselves of the opportunity of taking night courses in their own trade subject or some allied trade.

"Night classes were held twice weekly for New Canadians to help them in mastering English and to acquaint them with something of the customs and history of our Maritime Provinces and the Dominion as a whole. Apart from the regular classes many organizations, agricultural, educational or those of a community-minded nature, have enjoyed the use of the agricultural room and various other facilities offered by the School.

A Focal Point The Vocational School has at last become a focal point for many of the activities of our people both rural and urban. Two years ago the Agricultural Room was almost completely converted for use as an agricultural laboratory and class room by the installation of cabinets, practical teaching equipment and an excellent collection of native birds and fur bearing animals. Further plans for the teaching of agricultural science should prove of great value to the Province if only our rural youth can be instilled with the desire to learn more in this field.

"Last year we saw the first graduates of the newly equipped Motor Mechanics Shop. This year this Shop was filled beyond capacity and today we have from this Shop 17 students who have crossed the threshold into their new vocation.

"A phase of our school activity known as short courses, designed mainly to provide young farm girls and boys with basic training in farm life, saw increased enrollment over previous years especially for the agricultural short course. This year this course was given in the form of an intensified course in session from early morning until late evening for a two-week period. The main topics of the course were Animal Health, Farm Management, Field Crops and Soils.

"The Home Economics course of six weeks' duration was attended by 6 young ladies from various parts of the Province. Due to lack of adequate space we were unable this year to conduct the two six weeks' courses in Farm Machinery which, for the two years previous, had been largely attended. An Egg Grading course of three weeks' duration, conducted jointly by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the School, was held at Beach Court with 10 students successfully completing the course.

Teachers in Training "As in previous years, regular periods of instruction have been given to the teachers in training at Prince of Wales College. The girls were instructed in the finer arts of Cooking and Sewing while the boys were given a short course in Nutrition. It is to be hoped that the brief periods which these prospective teachers have spent with us will have enabled them to become familiar to some degree with the important work being carried on in this School. It is further hoped that through the opportunity given them of attending, even for such short periods, they may be able to take to their respective schools the knowledge that will enable them to offer some measure of guidance to their pupils in their choice of life's work.

"An intensive program of advertising has been carried on by the School through booths in agricultural fairs and window displays in places of business during education week and this will be carried further this summer when the School places a booth among the exhibits at the Provincial Exhibition next August."

Boy Scout Ass'n

Continued from page 1

Other officers include Vice-Presidents, Horace MacFarlane, Prince County, W. J. Bradwers, Queens County and Weldon Lavender, Kings County.

Mr. F. A. Driscoll, Charlottetown, was re-appointed provincial commissioner and Mr. A. P. Ceretti, Borden, assistant commissioner. Mr. Harry Pineau was named Lone Scout Commissioner. Secretary is Mr. O. H. Simons and Treasurer, Dr. George Fisher. Mr. Ralph Manning was appointed auditor. Executive Commissioner is E. Gordon Kerr.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

Chairman of committees follow: Finance, Col. A. W. Rogers, Training, Mr. R. C. Parent, Medal and Awards, Judge H. L. Elmer, Public Relations, W. E. Burnett.

Members in addition to the officers include: Mr. Eric Tanton, district commissioner, Summerside, Dr. George Fisher, district commissioner, Charlottetown, J. S. Walker, R. D. MacGillivray, C. W. MacArthur, Dr. Harold Shaw, and S.M. MacInnis, all of Charlottetown.

COUNCIL MEMBERS

Other members of the Council include, Rev. Francis Bolger, F. Walter Hyndman, L. A. Burnett, Spurgeon Jenkins, Mrs. R. C. Parent, Mrs. J. A. MacMillan, H. E. Miller, Jack MacNair, John Mustard, Capt. L. Titcombe, R. S. P. Jardine, Pius Callaghan, Claude Paynter, K. M. Martin, Allister MacLeod, L. A. Stewart, S. M. MacInnis, Robert Large, Walter

Business Needs

Continued from page 5

well for the future. "Many of you will, of course, continue to pursue further educational benefits at other institutions, and many of you will likely be entering into the business world within a very short time. In any event, the majority of the graduating class will be having contact with some form of business life in the near future, and it is upon business that I would like to talk for a few moments.

"The Canadian business scene during the past decade has been one of tremendous expansion and activity, and is indeed in many sections of our nation, continuing to follow that course. This expansion has not been without reason, and most experts on a subject such as this, are agreed that the development that has taken place is in no small part due to the clear foresight, sound judgment and unquestioned integrity of our business and political leaders—even our neighbors to the South are somewhat bewildered by what has taken place in Canadian business recently, and they are even more concerned with the fact that the Canadian dollar commands a premium price in a country that is supposedly the richest in the world.

"You will be entering into a business field that is highly competitive, but the opportunities are still awaiting you, and it is very likely that you will participate in even further growth within the next ten years. We do not know what lies ahead for us, but you are leaving the scholastic world today to enter the business world tomorrow, it is only natural to presume, that providing you are reasonably well equipped mentally and physically, there should be little reason why you can not share in this nation-wide prosperity.

"If I may now, I would like to suggest to you some basic fundamentals that are usually required for a successful business career. But I wish to warn you beforehand that I have nothing different, new or sensational to offer you—probably I will not say anything that you have not heard a dozen times before—but if you are truly desirous and want to succeed in life, may I commend your thoughts to these fundamentals. The word 'success' as applied to business or professional success is often misunderstood. Just what does 'success' mean to you? The dictionary tells us that 'success' is 'the favorable end or result of any undertaking.' To many persons 'success' means the accumulation of large quantities of worldly goods. To others, 'success' may simply be the fulfillment of day-to-day opportunities we all have to serve our nation, our community or our neighbors.

"I do not wish to stray from the realistic side of business in this regard, but in the main I believe you will find that if you try to sell your services or your goods in an honest and decent manner, your path in the field of your endeavors will become much smoother as you go along in life. If you can establish the reputation of fair dealing, the reputation of an honest and decent man, you will be recognized by all concerned as something of tremendous importance to you. Rotary International have a set of questions called the Four-Fold Test which they recommend should be applied to any business decision—it may be of interest to you to hear them:

"1. Is it the truth?
"2. Is it fair to all concerned?
"3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
"4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?"

"If one can truthfully answer 'yes' to all these questions he can go ahead with the assurance that his actions will measure up to all recognized business standards. "None of these requisites for success in business will be of any great advantage to you however, if you do not recognize yourself to the fact that you are very likely that you are going to have to work long hours uncomplainingly to attain recognition. Thomas Edison's much quoted comment that 'Success is 10 per cent inspiration and 90 per cent perspiration' is still very applicable to modern business conditions. You must be willing to do just a little bit more than is anticipated of you, and I repeat, you must do it willingly.

"If you are in a position that you enjoy, this will not be such a tremendous task, and it may be a real pleasure for you to devote a little more time and energy to your work than is expected of you. Most clock watchers usually view long hours as a curse, but today's business world is crying out for young men and women who are not afraid to work, and work hard. Recognition will soon be yours, and your advancement will be faster and easier than you had hoped, if you are willing to carry a little more responsibility than the other fellow.

"In your progress through life and through the business world, may I suggest that you stand against actions by any person or persons that will slow up or impede in any manner, our much maligned 'free enterprise' system of doing business. There is a regrettable tendency today on the part of many organizations, both governmental and private, to interfere with a method of doing business that has withstood the test of time magnificently, and has not been found wanting. Be on your guard against any suggestion of intervention in private business by probably well-meaning groups of individuals who may be more idealistic than realistic. The law of supply and demand is still very much in force, and it is the greatest regulator of business yet discovered, and usually the fairest. Only in cases of national or regional emergencies, should business countenance any interference by appointed regulatory bodies equipped with powers that are sometimes unfortunately abused.