Joint Meeting Held At St. George's Last Evening

"A large number was in attendance at the joint political meeting held at St. George's last night. Mr. Louis Campbell presided. Speakers were the candidates, Mr. S. S. Hessian (Lib.), Charles R. McQuaid (PC), George E. Saville (Lib.), and Alister H. Stewart, (PC)."

In his remarks Mr. Hessian spoke briefly regarding government policies with reference to roads, stating that its program in the past had been a constructive one and that its future program was an ambitious one. With reference to roads in the St. Georges area, Mr. Hessian said that the highway for this area might soon be realized as it was necessary to the economy of the area and that the only means of communication within the area was by means of roads. He felt that when the present program of road improvement was completed, work of paving within the area would be undertaken.

Mr. McQuaid stated that the government record during the past four years was the issue in the election, together with the record of the representatives of the district. He went on to say in this connection that if the record was good, then the representatives and government should be returned to power, but if not then the matter should be given further thought as to a solution. He discussed the question of roads, and stated that of the 197 miles of roads in the district only 2 1/2 miles had been paved since 1941. He felt that the district had not received its fair share although it had contributed to the construction of pavement in other parts of the district. Mr. McQuaid stated that in 1951 King's County had been promised an all winter road from Souris to Wood Islands, but that this spring in the Legislature, this promise had been repudiated by the Minister of Public Works. A similar promise made regarding compensation for road work in districts not served by the Trans-Canada Highway, was likewise repudiated by the same Minister, he said.

Respecting rural electrification he said that there were no lines to be completed this year in the district but there was one application outstanding.

Mr. McQuaid also referred to the food processing plants, and stated that they were not government sponsored nor financed other than the local one of Island interests. The incoming plants, he said, were coming here under their own initiative and would be located in an area determined by the company engineers.

Mr. Saville referred to the "gloomy thirties" as he termed it, and stated that the depression at that time was partly the responsibility of the Conservative party which supported the policies of high tariff which he felt were largely responsible for the depression. In speaking of the record of the Liberal administration during the past twenty years, Mr. Saville stated that the government had rebated to the fishermen the gasoline tax; that the government had rendered assistance to school districts for building new schools and remodelling old ones; that the government had raised teachers salaries far beyond that of the 1934 level.

Respecting roads Mr. Saville stated that there were 9 1/2 miles of paved road in the Fifth District and was also served by many more. During the past several years, he said, the government had almost completed the paving of all roads in the district, and he felt that the government had been allocated for this would be transferred to the construction of pavement in the district.

He also spoke of the policies in the Agriculture Department, and referred to the limestone policy, the swine policy, cattle, etc. In regard to health and welfare, he dealt at some length with old age pensions, children's allowances and disability pensions.

Mr. Stewart spoke briefly in reply to a challenge given at the first meeting by Mr. Saville respecting what he felt was the high point of his trip was the signing of the treaty which gave Austria independence after 10 years of Allied occupation.

He said the heart of the difficulty delaying agreement on the treaty was that the Russians just couldn't face the idea of pulling their troops out of Austria.

But a few weeks ago, "out of the blue," came the announcement the Russians were willing to withdraw their troops.

Dulles predicted that what now has happened in Austria will "have a tremendous impact on other countries" where the Russians are in control.

HOPES STIRRED — Russia knows, Dulles said, there was liberation hopes among its satellites as a result of the Austrian event.

Turning to another subject, Dulles said he told the NATO ministers in Europe the United States is taking the same attitude in Asia that it is in Europe—that "we don't have a double personality."

He stressed that Viet Nam now is a free nation, not a "puppet" that must take orders from the West. No other kind of government there could survive.

The president and Dulles discussed an anxiety which is much on the minds of officials here—that the world may expect miracles from the prospective top level meeting of the Big Four.

"I don't believe that liberator is quite as great as it was once," Eisenhower broke in.

The president said he is sure the American people have a greater maturity than they used to have about these things.

"The biggest danger," Dulles said, "is that hopes would be raised so high that they cannot possibly be realized."

The secretary noted that the war plan for the Big Four meeting in words, the Big Four leaders would be searching for paths toward agreement, that the session would not endeavor to settle finally everything worrying the world.

Dulles is re-rted to believe that it will take months, perhaps years, to work out agreements with the Soviet Union on great world issues, such as the unification of Germany and atomic disarmament.

ly been presented to the Government while the House was in session last Spring. It recalled the fact that although Parkdale was in favour of being set free from the Unit, they were not advocating the breaking up of the Unit.

Judge Darby suggested to Mr. MacLean that the unleasing of such a large parcel of land would in all probability mean the breaking up of the whole Unit. He pointed out that the Village as it now exists does not coincide with the original School District and if Parkdale were granted this request to become disassociated with the Unit, it would involve considerable amount of territory among the other districts of the Unit. In reply as to whether one of the objections for being in the Unit was because they didn't have a say in the assessment of the unit, Mr. MacLean said that this was one of the reasons. He pointed out that Parkdale had entered a debt of $23,000 when they entered the Unit but now were sharing one third of a $175,000 debt for the whole Unit. He said that Parkdale was paying $3,500 per year, over and above what it was costing to maintain their own district.

Mr. MacLean said that he had no complaint with the administration of the unit but would not admit that the educational standard of the school had been raised as a result of the Union. Judge Darby suggested that the main reason why Parkdale wanted to get out of the Unit was because they would have to share in the construction of new school units, the need for which was imminent. Mr. MacLean agreed that this was the main reason. "If your costs were taken care of so that the tax rate you would be required to pay was no more than what you are now paying," would that solve your problem?" Mr. MacLean said that such a scheme might be all right during the period of time it was in effect but that at the termination of the agreement, the tax rate might be more than the district could pay.

Judge Darby reminded Mr. MacLean that if Parkdale is as much built up as it will be, then it could be assumed that the expansion in home building would come from the outside areas and as a result there would be increased taxes coming from them while Parkdale would remain at its present level. "Then the tables would be reversed and it would be they who would be subsidizing you instead of the situation as it now is," said the Judge.

Mr. Fred Driscoll said he was a private citizen. He expressed confidence in the present Commissioners of the Village but felt that the burden of taxation was hindering further development. He said that the inquiry regarding Parkdale's desire to get out of the Unit should have been held before the Plebiscite which in his opinion was not warranted. He said the question "Are you in favour of breaking up School Unit No. 1 was not a fair one and the majority of the residents of the district were not in favour of so doing; but to obtain the objective for which they were fighting it was necessary to vote "Yes".

Mr. Driscoll said that while Parkdale was a single unit of its own, they had the privilege of picking the better type of teachers but after they became a part of the Unit, they were obliged to take the choice of that Unit. He said that when the Village became incorporated, he was hopeful that they would have a say in their own affairs and do their own financing.

TAX BURDEN

Mr. Driscoll went on to say that in his belief the benefits obtained through participation in the Unit did not compensate for the increased burden of taxation that they were being called upon to pay. He referred to the proposal to build a $150,000 high school which he understood would be constructed outside of Parkdale. He felt that the District should have the right to say what building should or should not take place.

Judge Darby reminded him that Parkdale should have that right, then by the same token, other districts should have the same right.

Entertained At Federal Capital

OTTAWA, (SPECIAL) — In Ottawa as a guest of this city's Rotary Club in its "adventure in citizenship" program, Miss Constance Chandler, daughter of E. Chandler of Charlottetown and a student at Prince of Wales College, visited the Parliament buildings here Tuesday morning and called on Neil A. Matheson, Liberal MP for Queens.

Since the call was an early one, Mr. Matheson took Miss Chandler to breakfast in the Parliamentary restaurant and introduced her to a number of members of Commons and Senate. The Charlottetown girl was considerably taken with the genial and jocular Jean Francois Pouliot, Liberal MP for Temiscouata who has been elected and re-elected to the Commons for 30 years without a break.

Also visiting Ottawa for the Rotary club event is Miss Mary Thompson of Summerside, P.E.I., who was in a group photograph published in the Journal Tuesday, standing close to Citizenship and Immigration Minister Jack Pickersgill and Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Chou Rules

Four days later, President Eisenhower told a press conference in Washington the United States would be glad to meet with the Chinese Communists about a cease-fire.

Chou restated in Peiping the Chinese Communist claim to Formosa and said that "liberation" was a "domestic affair."

Chou said Red China never will sit down at any international conference with Chiang's Nationalists.

The United States has announced it never would discuss with Red China matters directly affecting Nationalist interests unless the Nationalists were present.

In Washington, officials said they saw nothing new in Chou's latest statement.

In Taipei, a spokesman for the Nationalist government's information bureau said that "the Chinese Communists want a total American surrender in the Formosa area as the price for peace."
